New 3-Million Housing Project Approved for City

TOTAL ALLOCATED FOR SLUM WORK
NOW $15,000,000

Record Low Cost Attained in Latest Unit; Will Provide Homes for 1,207 at Rental of $2 a Room.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 30. Approval of new federal loans aggregating $6,605,000 for four slum clearance projects in Georgia, including $3,350,000 for Atlanta, was announced here today by Administrator Nathan Straus, of the United States Housing Authority.

President Roosevelt gave his official approval of the allocations prior to his departure yesterday for Warm Springs, it was revealed.

The three other Georgia cities sharing in the program are Macon, granted a loan of $1,642,000 toward a project calling for the construction of 410 family dwelling units; Augusta, $988,000 for 254 units; and Athens, $625,000 for 170 units.

$15,011,000 Program.
The $3,350,000 federal loan approved for Atlanta will provide 1,207 additional family units to the USHA project previously announced for the city, making a total of $15,011,000 in loan contracts approved there under the present program. Federal housing loans represent 90 per cent of the actual cost of the projects.

In announcing the new projects, Administrator Straus said that a new all-time low of $3,079 a family over-all cost of rehousing a family from the slums, was reached in the contract for a loan of $3,350,000 to the Atlanta Housing Authority for building the 1,207 dwelling units. Rentals to be charged in the project will average about $2 per room per month, he asserted.

C. F. Palmer, head of the Atlanta Housing Authority, was in Washington recently conferring with Administrator Straus and other USHA officials regarding the new loan announced today.

Pointing out that the trend of construction costs has been steadily downward in recent months, Administrator Straus took a particular pride in the accomplishment of the Atlanta Housing Au-

MERCER "HERESY" CHARGE CAUSES RIOT OF STUDENTS

13 of Ministerial Group That Brought Charges Against Professors Are Target of 200 or More "Liberal" Collegians; Majority Backs Teachers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
MACON, Ga., March 30.—Rumblings of heresy within the faculty ranks of Mercer University burst into mob violence tonight, with 200 or more "liberal" students, many of them husky football players, threatening the lives of 13 "fundamentalist" ministerial students.

More than a dozen policemen, hurriedly summoned to the scene from downtown police headquarters about two miles from the usually-peaceful campus, rescued the ministerial students.

At one moment in the excitement, cries of "Lynch 'em!" "Get the rope!" "Tar and feather 'em!" were heard. At another moment, stones and bricks were hurled at a fleeing automobile.

None was injured, however, and police restored order.

The 13 ministerial students who were objects of the mob's wrath had brought charges aimed at "purging" from the faculty five teachers they accused of teaching "heretical doctrines."

The outbreak of violence came as an unexpected climax to a 10-hour hearing in Roberts chapel, in the theology building on the campus of the well-known Baptist institution, overlooking Tattall Square park.

At the hearing, which began at 11 o'clock this morning and concluded at about 9 o'clock tonight, a special committee of five members of the board of trustees, headed by Fred R. Martin, Macon attorney, heard the 13 ministerial students and many other witnesses reported the allegedly "heretical teachings" on the part of the five faculty members.

Feeling ran high during the day, as, it was reported, most of the 60 ministerial students at the university were favorable to the faculty members. It was also reported that the majority of the university's total enrollment of 500 students were "with" the accused teachers.

The violence flared as the 13 ministerial students attempted to leave the chapel after the hearing. A crowd estimated at between 200 and 300 students surged outside, milling around, and shouting for the students to "come on out." Many in the crowd tried to get into the building to grab the students.

Suspicious Secretary Cracks Forgery Ring

A quarrel between members of a ring of forgers and the growing suspicions of a stenographer were credited last night by officials of the Atlanta office of the Burns International Detective Agency with preventing wealthy Atlantans from being victimized in a well-planned forgery swindle here.

Details of the ingenious racket, which was brought to a sudden close after only two checks for amounts totaling $450 had been passed, were bared with the arrest early this week in New York of a man listed by police of that city as Walter J. Marks, alleged to be the leader of a forgery ring which operated at times in Atlanta, Dallas, Miami, Nashville and other "key" cities of the United States.

Tactics of the forgers were as simple as they were ingenious, officials of the Burns agency here revealed.

'GET OUT OF HOCK,' ROOSEVELT TELLS ALABAMA THROUGH

Put Southern Capital in Southern Enterprise, He Says on Arrival for Warm Springs Vacation.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt began a 10-day vacation at his Pine Mountain cottage here today after asserting in one of four speeches in nearby Alabama that the south faced the economic problem of getting "out of hock to the north."

From an automobile rostrum before gray-clad cadets on Alabama Polytechnic Institute's Bulard field, the chief executive again took cognizance of affairs in this part of the country, which was termed in a New Deal report the "nation's economic problem No. 1," and asserted:

"I don't believe that the south is so broke that it cannot put its own capital into the establishment of its own enterprises."

Cites Own Experience.

Declaring when he first came to Warm Springs nearly 16 years ago he had to buy milk and cream, apples, meat and shoes that originated in the north and west, he went on to say there "wasn't very much change in that system of economy until about six years ago. It was then we began to ask ourselves, 'why is all this necessary?'"

"I think that we have done more in those six years than in the previous 60 years all through these southern states to make them self-supporting, to give them a balanced economy that will spell a higher wage scale, a greater purchasing power and a more abundant life than they have had in all their history."

But, said the President, speaking informally as in all his talks in eastern Alabama during the day, much remained to be done.

He added:

"It means a lot of work. It means, incidentally, getting the south out of hock to the north. It means establishing your own enterprises down here with your own capital."

Stressing the need for soil conservation, Mr. Roosevelt told the students he had been talking about land with Governor Frank M. Dixon, Senator Lister Hill, and Representative Henry B. Steagall, of Alabama, en route to Auburn from Tuskegee.

"I have been horrified as I

Forsake Visit to Capital as Their Bit for Education

Back to school books to study about the glories of the nation's capital. Loganville High school seniors yesterday donated money they had saved for a trip to Washington to keep their school open in face of a financial crisis. Left to right are Jo Prince Cooper, Doris Phillips and Mrs. L. C. McGarity, class teacher. The school must be kept open, they said.

Seniors Give Up Trip To Keep School Open

By LEE ROGERS.
Seniors of Loganville (Ga.) High school yesterday sacrificed their trip to Washington so that the money they have saved might be used to help keep the school open for the remainder of the term.

"We've got a lifetime to get to Washington, but we haven't got a lifetime to go to school," red-haired, 16-year-old Emma Doris White, class president, said as the money was turned over to Superintendent Holland Strother.

The class of 24 16-year-olds began last October devising means of making money for the trip to the capital in May. With plays, halloween parties, candy bazars and magazine sales they had accumulated $103.

Last week the Loganville schools closed. There were no funds with which to pay teachers or pay students' transportation fares. Lack of support from the state was blamed. Thursday and Friday the schools were locked and many of the teachers went home.

Monday, Emma Doris called the senior class together. She outlined the financial plight of the school and then asked them which was more important.

"To go to Washington or to graduate?"

Children Shriek 'Hip-Hip' Greeting To the President at Warm Springs

By RALPH MCGILL.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 30.—Most of the patients were out in front of Georgia hall in wheel chairs or leaning on their crutches. When President Roosevelt saw them he spoke to the driver and the car changed its route, making the circle in front of the hall.

The President lifted his hat and smiled as they cheered and shouted "welcome home." When he got back to the road there was a group of children on the lawn of a cottage and they set up a cheer. It was an English style cheer and their voices thrilled it.

There was a smile and a wave of the hat for them.

When he had gone, I asked them

CABINET ASSUMES UNANIMOUS STAND FOR BOLD ACTION

Diplomats Work feverishly to Ring Nazis With Steel; Alarmed by Anti-Polish Press Campaign.

LONDON, March 30.—(AP)—Belief that Britain is ready to fight if Germany marches against Poland gained ground tonight in diplomatic and other informed circles.

Officials were silent, but one usually reliable informant said:

"The British cabinet now is convinced that a bold course is the best course."

His comment came as the British government feverishly hastened efforts to bind pivotal Poland into a ring of steel around expanding Nazi Germany.

Concern was reflected in a day of swiftly moving diplomacy in which:

1. The cabinet held a long and unexpected meeting after Prime Minister Chamberlain had cancelled a scheduled speech.

Inner Cabinet Called.

2. Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax conferred with Count Raczynski, Polish ambassador, and later with Winston Churchill, former cabinet minister.

3. Chamberlain thereafter called a session of the inner cabinet while Dominions Secretary Sir Thomas Inskip acquainted high commissioners of the British dominions with developments.

4. Usually reliable parliamentary sources said the prime minister would make a statement on the situation in the house of commons tomorrow without waiting for the full dress foreign affairs debate set for next Monday.

5. Chamberlain followed up yesterday's announcement of a drive to raise the strength of the territorial army to 340,000 men with indications that similar increases were being studied for the navy and air force.

Count Raczynski was believed to have learned of the cabinet's position.

Asparagus Recipes.

Because of its distinct, fresh-green flavor, asparagus is very intriguing in early spring. The dietitian will agree with you—partly—but not before she has had a chance to say that asparagus is notably rich in vitamin B, which is a direct stimulant to appetite; also vitamin A, which purifies the blood. Those two points also explain why the system craves asparagus. But, we get what is lacking by the addition of the butter and cream. Asparagus goes very well, too, with eggs, in an omelette such as this one:

Asparagus Omelet.

Break off tips, cook until tender in boiling water, drain off liquid and put two cups of asparagus tips in a pan with two tablespoons of butter. When melted and pan is hot, pour in four well-beaten eggs to which you have added one teaspoon of cream for each egg, and salt to taste. Let the eggs steam up in butter, and as they begin to set, lift the asparagus tips to allow the egg to trickle down between the stalks. The finished dish will have somewhat the texture of scrambled eggs instead of the puffiness of an omelet.

The best way to cook asparagus is to tie the stalks in bunches and stand them up on end so that the tips will be out of the boiling water. The steam will cook them sufficiently and they will not be overdone or crumbling.

You'll be trying chicken and asparagus timbales, suggested by Mrs. Hilda E. Smith, 1170 Virginia avenue, N. E., Atlanta. It is a grand party dish.

Mrs. Smith's Chicken and Asparagus Timbales.

1 cup cooked minced chicken

1 cup cooked asparagus

2 tablespoons butter

1 1/2 cups milk

Salt and pepper to taste

Few drops lemon juice

2 tablespoons flour

2 eggs

Dash of mace

4 tablespoons grated cheese

4 tablespoons dry bread crumbs

Melt butter, add flour, milk and seasonings as for white sauce.

Cook about 3 minutes. Add beaten yolks and cook one minute longer.

Remove from fire; fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, chicken and asparagus. Turn into timbale molds, well greased and lined with grated cheese and bread crumbs

mixed. Place in pan of hot water, cover with greased paper and bake for 15 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit).

Turn out, garnish with asparagus tips and serve with highly seasoned cream sauce.

Mrs. Gibson's Broiled Ham and Asparagus.

Take slices of boiled ham, cut thin, roll two or three asparagus tips in each slice, place on biscuit tin and broil, make thin white sauce, add two tablespoons prepared mustard to sauce and serve over ham rolls.

MAKE A DUCK OF YOUR EASTER HAM.

Here's a clever idea for your

Easter dinner ham or any dinner party, for that matter. Decorate a baked ham to look like a duck.

It's easy to do and it makes a unique and attractive meat dish

when placed upon the table.

First, select a well-shaped ham.

Try a new processed ham. These hams are well shaped and cook in one-third less time with one-third less shrinkage and require no parboiling.

4-inch piece from the end of the shank bone and replace this piece

to keep the meat in place while cooking. Wipe ham. Bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit) 17 minutes per pound. Half an hour before ham is done, remove from the oven, take off the skin carefully, remove the protruding pieces of shank bone, slash the shank end of the meat to represent the duck's tail feathers. Then spread these "tail feathers" apart and up and hold them in place with skewers. With a sharp knife, score the outline of a wing on either side, in the fat. Then cover the ham with a glaze, return to the oven and finish baking.

Meanwhile, carve the duck's head out of large raw sweet potatoes. The head is made in three parts, the head proper, the neck and the bill. Simmer the carved parts in a thin sugar syrup (1-3 cup sugar to 4 cups water) for 6 minutes only. Drain and put parts of head together with heavy toothpicks or wooden skewers and fasten in place on the ham. Use candied cherries and whole cloves for the eyes.

To serve, place ham on platter, surround with hot buttered nood-

Cook one-half pound brown sugar and one-half cup pineapple juice together to a firm ball stage (240 degrees Fahrenheit).

SOMETHING NEW!
Have you ever had a "hot-today" made with ginger ale? You can't guess how good it is until you try it. Retains all the refreshing sparkle of ginger ale and adds the novelty of drinking it piping hot. Serve with lemon and wafers.

Shopping News.
Vitamins in capsule form now are on sale at some of the grocery stores.
They are offered at an astonishingly low price, and bear the seal of approval of a nationally famous product testing bureau, and comes in boxes containing a month's supply.

An innovation in the grocery line, this product is designed to supplement vitamins supplied by daily diet with additional units of vitamins A, B, D and G, each capsule containing a scientifically balanced vitamin supply.

Spice Tips.
To give a roast chicken that nut brown, crisp skin mix 3-4 cup of shortening with one tablespoon of Hungarian paprika. Lard the bird well and roast in the usual way.
Cook new cabbage with caraway seeds.
As a moth preventive, sprinkle woollens and rugs lavishly with black pepper before storing.
Rub powdered ginger in the cavity of chicken before roasting.
A pinch of powdered fennel plus plenty of cinnamon sprinkled over the apples makes an apple pie.

Easter Salad.
(Using Eggs, of Course)
8 hard-cooked eggs
2 olives, chopped
2 tablespoons salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped pickles
Cress

Cut eggs into halves. Remove and mash the yolks. Mix the yolks with olives, pickles and dressing. Add a little salt and paprika. Roughly refill the egg white cases. Chill until serving time. Perch tiny chicks on top each egg half. Arrange in cress on serving platter. Pass more dressing.

Candy Easter Eggs.
2-3 cups sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups sifted confectioners' (XXXX) sugar
Blend sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Add sifted confectioners' (XXXX) sugar gradually. Continue mixing until smooth and creamy. Divide into several parts. Tint each differently with a few drops of vegetable coloring. Form into egg shapes and allow to chill and dry. Makes about 24.

W. A. EDWARDS DIES; NOTED ARCHITECT

Atlantan Was Prominent in Building Circles Throughout the Southeast.

William A. Edwards, 72, of 345 Tenth street, N. E., one of the south's most prominent architects and a resident here for more than 30 years, died yesterday morning at a private hospital after an illness of a week.

Long prominent in building circles throughout the southeast, Mr. Edwards had been a member of the architectural firm of Edwards & Sayward since 1915 and designed scores of buildings in Georgia, Florida and South Carolina.

Those in the Atlanta area include the Candler hotel, Decatur; the library at Agnes Scott College; Columbia Theological Seminary, and the Atlanta PWA negro housing project.

Native of South Carolina.
A native of Darlington, S. C., Mr. Edwards was the son of Augustus Fulton Edwards and Elizabeth Sarah Edwards.

He obtained his education at St. David's Academy, at Society Hill, S. C., Richmond College and the University of South Carolina from which he was graduated in 1889.

Entering the architectural field a few years later, he was associated with the firm of Wilson & Edwards, at Roanoke, Va., until 1896. From 1896 to 1902 he was in business at Columbia, S. C., and from 1902 to 1908 was a member of the Edwards & Walter company there.

Moving to Atlanta in 1908, he practiced alone until he joined the firm of Edwards & Sayward in 1915.

Active in Fraternal Affairs.
Long active in fraternal affairs, he was a member of the American Institute of Architects, the Atlanta Art Association, Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, Atlanta Athletic club, Burns club and Unitarian church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Pearl Brown, of Gaffney, S. C.; a daughter, Mrs. Ralph C. Pate, of Atlanta; two sons, William Edwards Jr., and H. Griffin Edwards, of Chicago; three sisters, Misses Mary and Sally Edwards, of Darlington, and Mrs. Joseph Norwood, of Columbia; and three brothers, the Rev. Hartwell Edwards, of Florence, S. C., and John Edwards and Dr. Boardman Edwards, of Darlington.

Graveside funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon (E. S. T.) in Elmwood cemetery at Darlington. Burial will be under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

F. FARRINGTON, 66, DIES; FORMER UNION HEAD

STREATOR, Ill., March 30.—(P) Frank Farrington, once-powerful Illinois mine union official and political figure, died today after a heart attack. He was 66 years old.

Farrington's 12-year term as president of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers of America ended in 1926 when he resigned, during a union dispute, to become an executive of the Peabody Coal Company.

A former miner, Farrington had lived quietly for the last six years in Streator.

MRS. A. G. WHITNEY DIES AT HAPEVILLE

Was Widely Known for Civic, Church and Charitable Activities.

Mrs. Al Greenville Whitney, a pioneer resident of Hapeville, who was widely known for her civic, church and charitable activities, died yesterday morning at her home, 703 Central avenue.

In poor health for more than a year, she never fully recovered from a fall about a year ago in which she suffered a broken hip.

Mrs. Whitney originally was from Fort Covington, N. Y., and moved to Hapeville 60 years ago when the community consisted of a few small stores. Her late husband was engaged in the real estate business there until his death in 1921.

A large property owner, Mrs. Whitney for many years donated generously to church and charitable institutions and took a leading part in the civic life of the community. She gave the building occupied by the Whitney Avenue Presbyterian church.

Surviving are three cousins, Mrs. Mabel C. Blackett, of Fort Covington; Mrs. Evelyn Williams, of Berkeley, Cal., and Mrs. Grace Cameron, of Little Rock, Ark.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill by the Rev. W. J. Hazlewood. Burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Major Howell Lists Needs of South In Speech Before Electric Exchange

Terms Prospects of Section 'Quite Favorable,' But Cites Necessity of Confidence in Its People, Constructive Surveys and End to Regionalism.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, told the South-eastern Electric Exchange tonight the immediate prospect for the south "is quite favorable."

He and former United States Senator Scott M. Lottin were speakers at the night session of the annual conference.

"As a newspaperman I am in the light and power business," Howell declared. "Since our light and newspaper try conscientiously day in and day out to spread light—is somewhat less apparent than the type you supply, our power, generated in our editorial and advertising columns, has a pretty high wattage."

"The immediate prospect of this southland, despite that which has been done to create a dolorous view of the south, is quite favorable," the publisher continued.

Major Howell listed the needs of the south as confidence in its people, constructive surveys of its resources and possibilities, unity, an end to the demagogue through education, broadness of vision and an end to sectional thinking.

He said the demand for agricultural products will show some improvements.

"This has deep significance," he added, "since our southern economic structure still has agriculture as its ultimate base."

"When we get the industries, the opportunities for employment, the stabilizing forces which these industries represent—when we have balanced agriculture and industry into the workable, complementary system which they represent—then we will have achieved 'the economic possibilities of the south.'"

Only one in every 500 of the negro population is now in college, as compared with one in every 100 of the white population, according to a study reported by the Columbia University Press.

For a Lovely Tradition

Is there a table tradition more lovely than that of the Easter cake reposing on the table in tempting finery to stimulate the appetites of all? Here is a lovely suggestion for an Easter cake and frosting that will lend color and delicacy to your traditional Easter repast.

EASTER CAKES.

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well; then add chocolate. Blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in a greased 8x8x2-inch pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about one hour. Cool well. Cut in 2 1/2-inch squares and decorate with supreme frosting.

SUPREME FROSTING.

2 egg whites
1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
Flavoring
Put egg whites on a platter, add 1-2 cupful of sugar, and beat with wire whip about 10 minutes. Add cream of tartar with another half cupful of sugar and continue beating. Add remaining sugar, then beat until icing is stiff, smooth and very fluffy. This frosting becomes stiffer with long beating and is excellent to use in a pastry tube for cake decoration as it holds its shape very well. Left over frosting may be stored in a glass jar with cover, for future use.

Have ready a dish of finely shaved pecan, brazil or walnut meats. The nuts may be cut on the slicing side of your grater.

Frost each cake first on the four sides, but not on top; then dip the frosted surfaces into the nuts. This is most easily done by holding the square of cake in one hand, with thumb on bottom, and finger on top of the cake, so that the sides may be neatly covered. Then frost the top of each.

When the top frosting is set, dip a small new paint brush in food coloring and paint a lily, daffodil or tulip on the top of each cake, using yellow, red, etc., coloring for the blossom and green coloring for the stem and two or three leaves. Or color parts of supreme frosting yellow, red, green, etc.; then use a pastry tube to form colored flowers and green stem. The cake is placed before the guests so that the flowers are standing naturally.

before survivors waved down other oncoming cars. Seven automobiles were recovered.

Five more bodies were recovered late today when a brown sedan was pulled from the water. The occupants were tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Schilling, Mrs. Sam H. Campbell, 36; her three-year-old daughter, Annette Campbell, and Mrs. Tom Bradley, all of Oak Grove, La.

The gasoline tank exploded as the car was pulled from the water. Burning gasoline was sprayed on the bayou and rescuers in boats near by had to dive into the water. No one was injured.

Bodies of two other persons, Miss Ann Turner, Memphis nurse, and Claude Cox, of Jackson, were sought. Eight injured survivors were taken to a Jackson hospital. The other known dead were: Norman Schlemmer and R. B.

Jones, Vicksburg businessmen. Miss Margaret Guice, Memphis nurse.

Mrs. Mary Schrack Murray, Mansfield, Ohio, nurse. S. M. Wilson, Jackson. Marcus Meeks, Canton, Miss. M. W. Weaver, Jackson.

The injured: W. A. Bragg, Vicksburg, and his son, George.

Leroy Meeks, brother of Marcus Meeks.

Rupert Lewis, Florence, Miss.; Miss Gladys Schrack, sister of Mrs. Murray.

R. C. Findall, Hollandale, Miss. W. A. Brannon, Clinton Roads, Mississippi.

L. C. McIntosh, Vicksburg.

State Highway Commission Chairman E. D. Kenna said debris piling against the span's supports apparently caused the washout. Two middle concrete piers gave way, dropping the bridge into the water.

Rupert Lewis, truck driver, said that about 9:35 o'clock last night he saw tail-lights on a car in front of him drop from the road. In an instant his own machine was falling.

Lewis said his struck nose-down in the mud. He reached the surface by breaking through a window.

Dog Sold, Returns Home; Master Sends Price Back

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., March 30.—(AP)—Truman D. Wade sold his prize setter to a resident of Salisbury, Md., more than 100 miles away.

A week later the dog returned to his old home—on foot.

Won by his show of affection, Wade reclaimed the dog and returned the purchase price.

9-Pound Boy Born To John Boettigers

SEATTLE, March 30.—(AP)—A boy, weighing nine pounds, one ounce, was born today to Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger at the Swedish hospital here, and the announcement was immediately telephoned to President Roosevelt, his grandfather, at Warm Springs, Ga. The baby was born at 2:43 p. m., Atlanta time. Mrs. Roosevelt, visiting here, was at the hospital at the time. Mrs. Boettiger, the former Anna Roosevelt Dall, has two other children—Anna Eleanor Dall, 12, and Curtis Dall, 8.

COMEDIAN TELLS COURT OF WIFE'S INNUENDOES

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—Comedian Ed Wynn's lengthy reply today to his blonde young wife's charge in supreme court that he was a "constant nag" included the assertion that he had taught her the "social graces," only to have her end up by parading through hospital corridors in a bathing suit.

The former Frieda Mierse, who became the second Mrs. Wynn in 1937, asked $250 a week alimony.

TORNADOES LASH SOUTHERN STATES

Twister Rips Tops Off Homes at Arlington; Rains Flood Streams.

Spring tornadoes struck widely scattered sections of the south yesterday, in the wake of slashing rains that sent streams surging from their banks.

Downpours in west central Georgia sent the Chattahoochee dangerously high at West Point. The Atlanta weather bureau forecast a crest of 22 feet there this morning, high enough to send waters into low-lying sections of the town. Flood stage is 19 feet. A crest of 35 feet, one foot above flood stage was predicted for Columbus.

(Twelve persons died at Vicksburg, Miss., when their cars plunged from ends of a washed-out bridge.)

Meanwhile, the weather bureau forecast fair and warmer weather for today, with temperatures in Atlanta expected to range between 46 and 74 degrees.

Rain fell with a tropical intensity over the Chattahoochee basin from Columbus to Dahonaga and Gainesville, sending the stream and its tributaries over their banks. LeGrange registered 8.07 inches, Atlanta 2.09 inches, Newnan 3.58 inches, West Point 5.40 inches, and Rock Mills, Ala., northwest of West Point, 4.55 inches. More than an inch was reported at Dahonaga and Gainesville.

Hail storms struck in scattered sections of the state. Some orchardists feared further loss to the peach crop, already shortened by freezes.

High winds raked Atlanta yesterday morning, but no property damage was reported. A velocity of 43 miles an hour was registered at the municipal airport.

There were injuries and property damage from the twisting windstorms that swirled through Alabama and Georgia.

At Brewton, Ala., a store building and five dwellings were destroyed and two women were injured by a tornado. Three houses were destroyed and two persons hurt at Langdale, Ala. Tops of homes were strewn over a mile-wide area by a twister that struck Arlington, Ga. Three negroes were injured.

The train carrying President Roosevelt to Warm Springs, Ga., was forced to slow up several times because of high water as it crossed central Georgia. Rain caused postponement of the Augusta Masters golf tournament.

TWELVE LOSE LIVES IN BRIDGE WASH-OUT

VICKSBURG, Miss., March 30.—(AP)—Twelve bodies had been recovered today from receding waters of Clear Creek bayou, down which a spring flood raced in darkness last night to carry away a 100-foot bridge and leave a deadly abyss in one of the nation's great highways.

Divers believed nine automobiles plunged into the bayou one after another from either end of the gap

SOUTH A COLONY, NEWSPAPERMEN TELL EDUCATORS

Freight Rates, Tariff
Deadlier Pincer Than
Grant and Sherman Ever Applied, Two Declare.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 30.—(P)—Two southern newspapermen said here today that discriminatory freight rates and a tariff protecting the north at the expense of the south have made a "deadlier" pincer than Grant and Sherman ever applied on the Confederacy.

This was the conviction expressed by Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., editor-author, to which General Manager Mark Ethridge, of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, added: "We are in effect a colonial possession of the rest of the United States."

Address Educators.

Both made addresses at the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools convention which opened here today.

"Our brothers of the northeast forged the shackles of tariff and freight discrimination which she (the south) cannot now strike from herself; which can be stricken only when the whole nation recognizes the injustice of the situation," Ethridge declared.

Both saw in what Ethridge described as a "second reconstruction" great hope for the future.

Daniels said the south is "stirring," adding that the "rocking chair" as an institution is disappearing.

It was Ethridge's belief, he said, that the south is in the first stages of an awakening that can conceivably take her civilization to heights it has never known.

He cited the literary revival, the discussion of regional problems and the "surges of science and of the mind."

Using the civil war as a "magnificent alibi" to explain its backwardness, Daniels said, the south for years has failed to realize that its major economic faults were born long before the war.

The tariff oppressed the south before Grant took Richmond, the Raleigh newspaperman said; soil was being ravaged by a one-crop economy, hookworm, yellow fever, typhoid, malaria and pellagra plagued its inhabitants many years before Appomattox.

Ethridge pictured the southern people as "a gallant, romantic, proud, headstrong people capable of being through generations as stubbornly wrong about realistic things as being gloriously loyal to war traditions," and he added that he did not deny "those sentimental and romantic attachments."

But, he added, "there must come to the south the recognition that pride is no substitute for bread, for education, for the minimum benefits of civilization, and that to obtain these we must call upon the rest of the nation not only for justice but also for help."

MIDWEST ORGANIZES TO FIGHT THE SOUTH

CHICAGO, March 30.—(P)—Representatives of five midwestern states agreed today to form a council to protect their interests in the proposed equalization of northern and southern freight rates.

The council will serve in solving all future problems affecting the industries of the states as well as the current north-south proposal before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Southern states have asked for equalization of freight rates. At present shippers in the south must pay 20 per cent more than those in the north to transport certain products.

Formation of the council was suggested by John Stelle, acting governor of Illinois, at a meeting here today to organize official opposition to the southern states' campaign. He said the interest of the various states was much the same in such questions. A committee was appointed to start drafting a statement of principles immediately.

The conferees decided to ask the governor's group to work parallel to them, leaving the technical and legal details of the fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission to private interests.

Philippine Leader To Visit Forbes At Thomasville

Sergio Osmena, vice president of the Philippines, left yesterday for Thomasville, Ga., to visit former Governor General William Cameron Forbes, an Associated Press dispatch disclosed last night.

Osmena was accompanied, the dispatch said, by Miss Helena Benitez, daughter of Dean Conrado Benitez, of the University of the Philippines College of Business.

Forbes, who held the post of governor general about 30 years ago and has since paid several visits to the island, declined last night to make any comments about his visitors.

TRIPS UP FORGERS

a notation of the amount which it would be safe to forge were sent to another member of the gang in another city.

This man, known as the "scratch man" would fill out the check and return it to Atlanta, using a machine from which he reproduced the name on the canceled check to the blank check.

When the check was returned, it was indorsed with the name of the depositor and the stenographer and given to the girl to cash.

Burns agents said only three checks were drawn in Atlanta, two for amounts of $200 and one for $250. Only two were cashed.

Refraining from disclosing details, Burns agents said a quarrel occurred between two ring members shortly after they established themselves here. The situation was aggravated, they said, when the stenographer became suspicious and refused to pass the third check.

Suspicious Noted.

Noting her suspicions and becoming alarmed, the men broke up, one going to Florida and the other to Nashville, a Burns operative stated, the "break up" occurring about January 21.

It was shortly after that a man named Harry Reichman, of the Bronx, New York, who was arrested February 4 at Nashville, came to Atlanta. While he did not operate here, it was believed he was trying to effect a reconciliation between the two forgers and resume the racket, but the deal fell through and Atlanta was abandoned as an operating center, Burns men said.

Police of Nashville and New York were hopeful of wiping out the ring through the testimony of Reichman, who has been taken to New York to appear as a witness in removal proceedings against Marks.

Following his arrest in Nashville Reichman was placed in the jurisdiction of postal inspectors, who will try Marks on charges of using the mails to defraud. The removal hearing will be held at New York today, Lee Polk, Nashville postal inspector, announced yesterday.

PORT HOUSTON RECORD.

Port Houston's tonnage in 1938 totaled 26,981,674 compared with 26,854,913 tons in 1937, establishing an all-time high for a Texas port. Joseph W. Evans, chairman of the port commission, reported, however, that cargo value declined from $497,022,896 in 1937 to $490,425,145 in 1938.

PRODUCERS CONFEDERATION

Parity Payments Requested of Senate

Substitute for Roosevelt Cotton Subsidy Plan, 'Cost of Production' Proposal Also Advanced.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP) Secretary Wallace hurried to Capitol Hill late today after senators had made a series of legislative thrusts at the administration's farm program.

Flanked by agriculture department officials, Wallace conferred at length with Senators Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, and Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, in a room a few doors from the senate chamber.

The conference presumably dealt with these earlier developments:

Approval by the senate agriculture committee of a proposal to return to farmers 3,000,000 bales of cotton on which the government made loans. This was regarded as a substitute for the export subsidy plan advanced by President Roosevelt.

Approval by the same committee of a "cost of production" farm bill which would substitute government price-fixing on a long list of farm products for the present crop and marketing control provisions.

Introduction of legislation by Senators Russell, Democrat, Georgia, and Bankhead in the senate to provide the $250,000,000 in additional farm benefit payments which the house eliminated from the agricultural appropriations bill. These payments were not recommended by President Roosevelt.

Most members of the senate agriculture committee said the new cotton proposal, offered by southern senators, was intended to block subsidy proposals of President Roosevelt.

Senator Bankhead said, however, that approval of this proposal would not preclude action later on the export subsidy.

Bankhead said southern senators, many of whom are outspoken in opposing the presidential suggestion, would attempt to get senate action on their proposal tomorrow. It would permit cotton growers to buy cotton from loan stocks at 3 cents a pound, provided they reduced their production this year by an equivalent amount.

The government now has more than 9 cents a pound invested in this loan cotton and so it would take a loss of more than $30 a bale, or $90,000,000, on the 3,000,000 bales which could be released this year under the bill.

Senators Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, and George, Democrat, Georgia, engaged in a sharp exchange over the White House subsidy plan, although no legislation has been introduced as yet to carry it out.

George said operation of the subsidy program could produce the same results. The Georgia senator contended there is no foreign market for American cotton at present and a reduction in price to move loan stocks would take away the market for the crop now being planted.

Under the Roosevelt program, farmers would be paid $1.25 a bale to release cotton now under government loan, and exporters would receive a subsidy for selling it abroad. The subsidy would be designed to enable them to cut prices enough to meet foreign competition.)

Any Type of Cat To Suit Your Fancy—Free

Cats, cats, all kinds of cats! The cameraman snapped this picture yesterday at the Atlanta Humane Society, where homeless cats are awaiting kind-hearted persons to adopt them.

Want this half-breed black Persian cat? The animal, being held by Mrs. S. E. Hollis, of the Atlanta Humane Society, is one of many cats available for "adoption" at the society's headquarters on Howell Mill road.

Outcasts of Prominent Cat Families In Need of Homes and Affection

Outcast members of aristocratic cat families are seeking the security of Atlanta homes and the love and affection of Atlanta owners.

Two fine black Persian cats, in addition to more than a score of stray alley cats and kittens, now being cared for at the Atlanta Humane Society, may be owned by anyone who will promise to love, protect and care for them.

The animals are not for sale, but a small donation for the upkeep of the home will be welcomed, Mrs. Stacey E. Hill, vice president of the Humane Society, said last night.

There has never been such a deluge of cats at the society headquarters," she said. "There are a number of 'ne breeds, not full blooded, but better than alley cats. Cats make fine pets, and with Easter so near, they will be especially appropriate gifts for children."

There are also a number of dogs available at society headquarters.

MURDER CHARGED IN COOPER SLAYING

Retired Farmer Held in Killing of Brother, Shooting of In-Law.

W. D. Cooper, 65-year-old retired farmer of Jonesboro, who fatally shot his brother and wounded his brother-in-law during a quarrel at his home in Jonesboro Wednesday night, was held in Clayton county jail yesterday on a charge of murder.

The charge was placed against him late yesterday afternoon by Sheriff W. L. Dickson following the death of Cooper's brother, Roy F. Cooper, 59, at Crawford W. Long hospital.

J. S. Mabrey, 70, brother-in-law of the Coopers, who was also shot during the quarrel, continued in critical condition at a private hospital.

The victim was employed in the traffic department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. W. F. Culpepper, of Fenolia, Ga.; Mrs. J. S. Mabrey, of Dallas, Texas; and Mrs. John E. Wilson, of Macon, and another brother, W. F. Cooper.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Culpepper residence with the Rev. J. E. Hannah and the Rev. N. O. L. Powell officiating. Burial will be in Fenolia cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

HOUSING PROJECT OKAYED FOR CITY

thority in bringing its figures down to the lowest unit costs thus far achieved in the country. He attributed the reduction in unit costs to the added experience gained in closer co-operation between the USHA, local housing authorities, and the building industry, asserting that it shows the result of efforts to bring costs down and to incorporate in each new project lessons learned from former projects.

Straus said that on his recent trip through the south every local housing authority visited asked for more money for additional projects.

"These requests total more than $100,000,000," he asserted. "Naturally I had to tell them that no funds were available. I found on my return here that despite the fact we have announced that all funds are committed, formal requests now pending for additional funds run into hundreds of millions of dollars."

"These requests, of course, do not include any applications from the many authorities which will be created in the states now enacting enabling legislation, nor do they reflect the needs of many cities throughout the country which have held their requests until there is some definite prospect of additional funds."

Straus Statement. Of the need for public housing and slum clearance in Atlanta, the administrator had the following to say:

"Atlanta, historic Georgia metropolis, received approval today of a loan contract for the erection of a low-rent housing project that will provide about 1,207 dwelling units for its low income families and which will be developed at a total estimated cost of only $3,723,000."

"Under a previous loan contract, the local housing authority is now engaged in land acquisition for four other projects which will provide about 2,438 more badly needed dwellings for the city's families of slender means who now are forced to live under slum conditions."

"Thus, upon completion of the five projects, and including the 1,279 dwellings in Techwood homes and University homes, two projects built by the housing division of the Public Works Administration and now under USHA lease to the local housing authority, Atlanta will have about 4,924 units in public housing."

"Atlanta in 1930 had a population of 270,366, comprised of 67,749 families, of which 23,450 were negro families. Since that time the population is estimated to have increased by about 11,250. During the eight years 1930-37, however, there has been a net gain of only 3,392 dwelling units in the city. This resulted from the erection of 4,392 dwellings, comparatively few of which were available for rent to low-income families, and the demolition of about 1,000, or a large proportion of which were of the type usually occupied by families of that class. Commenting on these figures, the application stated:

"It therefore appears that private enterprise has not actually supplied the necessary housing for the increase in Atlanta's population. The great majority of the new units necessarily have been built for those who could pay what private enterprise finds it necessary to demand. Private enterprise had not attempted to supply decent, safe and sanitary dwellings for families of low income."

Substandard Dwellings. "According to a real property survey currently being conducted in Atlanta, 45,321 of the 83,171 dwelling units in the city, or more than 54 per cent, are substandard."

"Atlanta's housing conditions were brought into bold relief by the real property inventory of 64 cities made by the Department of Commerce in 1934."

"This inventory revealed that 20,570 out of the total of 72,266 dwelling units inspected either were in need of major repairs or were utterly unfit for human habitation. Thus 28.5 per cent of Atlanta's total dwellings fell into these categories, as compared with 17.6 per cent for all of the 64 cities included in the survey."

"The same condition was disclosed with respect to sanitary conveniences. In Atlanta, 23,050 dwellings were found to be without a bathtub or a shower. This represents 31.9 per cent of all dwelling units in the city, an unusually large percentage when compared with the 23.3 per cent for the entire 64 cities in which the inventory was conducted."

Dwellings in Atlanta which did not furnish private indoor toilets totaled 14,918, or 20.6 per cent of the total, as compared with 17.1 per cent for the survey as a whole."

Tuberculosis Deaths. "An indication of the appalling price paid by cities in human life to the scourge of their slums is evidenced by the death rate from tuberculosis, particularly among residents of substandard areas. This was true in Atlanta which, according to mortality rates during 1937, stood fifth among 46 cities having a tubercular death rate in excess of 32 persons per 100,000 population. The total num-

Here They Go --- All Those Class Savings of the Year

Loganville High school seniors give their class savings to Superintendent Holland Strother to help keep the school open for the remainder of the school year. Presenting the money, which was to have been used to take the class to Washington, are Emma Doris White, class president, and Virginia Smith, class treasurer. "We'll give some money even if the legislature will not," Emma Doris said. Other class members felt the same way.

SENIORS HELP KEEP THEIR SCHOOL OPEN

ident, who is majoring in arithmetic, then suggested the 'class turn over its money to the school that it might be used to 'help keep the school open.'

There were those who expressed some disappointment over missing the trip to Washington, but the vote was unanimous. Class Treasurer Virginia Smith reported the class had $100 in cash with $3 yet to be collected. Class Teacher Mrs. L. C. McGarity advanced the $3. Yesterday the money was turned over.

Superintendent Strother said the sacrifice of the class was an inspiration to the townspeople. Citizens borrowed enough money to pay the teachers, and with the senior class donation of $103 as a starter, they began subscribing to the transportation fund until the $500 necessary to operate the buses until school closes May 19, was assured.

Taste of No School. "The teachers were making a great sacrifice in agreeing to give up part of their salary to teach us and it was as little as we could do to sacrifice something," Emma Doris said.

"The community in reality had given us the money by supporting our activities and in a way we are just giving the money back to them by giving it to the school. We got a taste of no school last week and we realized then how awful it would be to have to go to school nine more months to complete two months' work."

Only one of the class had ever been to Washington. He is Guy Barrett and Guy volunteered to tell the others all he could about the capital.

Yesterday none of the seniors showed any disappointment or regretted the decision to give the Washington money to the school.

"Even if the legislators aren't willing to sacrifice some political aims for the schools, the students are," Vernon Cox declared.

Just Wanted To Help. "Some people say we were crazy and just did it for the publicity," Jacqueline Hodges said, "but neither guess was right. We just wanted to help. I've got some brothers and sisters going to school, too."

Doris Phillips and Jo Prince said they naturally were disappointed but it was foolish to spend money on pleasure even if the pleasure were educational, when there wasn't any money to keep the schools open.

Georgia Ida Smith said Emma

BOOM FOR GARNER HEARD IN SENATE

Vice President Leaves Floor as Resolution Is Read by Clerk.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP) Rumblings of the Texas Presidential boom for Vice President Garner reached the senate today while Garner, blushing, hurried from the chamber.

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, asked that the clerk read a resolution by the Texas legislature backing the vice president for the Democratic nomination.

Garner, aware of the resolution's contents, asked if there was objection to reading it and heard none. Then before the reading could start he stepped quickly from the rostrum and turned over his gavel to Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, senate president pro tem.

Garner Stays in Office. Garner remained in his nearby office throughout the reading of the resolution, which praised his "statesmanship and grasp of national affairs."

"John Nance Garner," the resolution said, "is hereby endorsed and put forward as a candidate for the nomination of the Democratic party for the high office of President of the United States, and we call on fellow Democrats in all states to instruct their delegates to the 1940 Democratic convention to vote for Garner."

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, told the senate he was "in hearty sympathy" with the resolution.

Customary Procedure Followed. Connally told reporters he merely followed customary procedure in submitting the resolution, which had been forwarded to him by the Texas legislature. He said that all signs indicate Garner now is "out in front" for the Presidential nomination.

Although Garner has remained silent about the 1940 campaign, friends say his attitude is that he will do nothing at present to encourage or discourage efforts in his behalf.

In some quarters it was pointed out that even if Garner should decide not to seek the nomination, he still would be able to exercise strong influence in the 1940 convention if a sizeable bloc of delegates were pledged for him.

Doris deserved credit for making the class realize that the school must come before the trip.

"She could tell the legislators something about giving money to the schools, too," Georgia declared.

THE GREATEST FLORSHEIM VALUE IN 47 YEARS

T. W. READ SR., 76, DIES IN MARIETTA

Heart Attack at Desk Is Fatal to Veteran Businessman.

MARIETTA, Ga., March 30.—Thomas Wayland Read Sr., 76, one of Marietta's pioneer businessmen and associated a half-century with the commercial growth of the city, dropped dead of a heart attack this afternoon while at work at his desk in the municipal offices on Atlanta street.

Funeral plans will be announced by Mayes Ward & Company, of Marietta.

Born at Dallas, in Paulding county, Mr. Read as a youth lived near Powder Springs, and for a time lived in Texas. He came to Marietta in the 1880's to aid the late Saxon Anderson in establishing the old Marietta Paper Mill on Soap's creek, where pine was first used to manufacture newspaper. After a successful connection with this enterprise, he later established the firm of T. W. Read, clothiers, Marietta's first men's wear store.

Later he was associated in the firms of Read and Wiggins, and Read and DuPre. After the dissolution of the latter, he re-established his clothing store and later entered the real estate field, acquiring extensive holdings in the city.

During his business career he served several terms as Marietta city councilman and took a leading part in social, civic and political affairs.

He became connected with the city government in 1928. He was a member of the First Methodist church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Pauline Staunton Read; six sons, J. Staunton Read, of Marietta; Paul Read, of Atlanta; Robert Read, of Macon; Ralph Read, of Arlington, Va.; T. W. Read Jr., of Clearwater, Fla.; and Pat Read, of Marietta, and a daughter, Mrs. James Williams, of Marietta.

Scrapbook Tells Story of Many a Girl Graduate

night to Mrs. Lucile Hood, left, hostess, and Mrs. W. E. Thompson, right, president of Atlanta alumnae of the college. Dr. Bellamy was an honor guest at the alumnae dinner.

Mrs. F.P. Crown Describes Planting At Last Session of Garden School

Fashion Show Features Bridal Clothes; Work on Yards Through April Is Outlined by Lecturer to a Capacity Audience.

The curtain rang down yesterday on The Constitution's annual Spring Garden School, which has filled the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium to capacity audiences since the first meeting Tuesday. Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, noted lecturer and horticultural expert, conducted the classes, and each day presented interesting instructive topics of garden nature, and one class of interior decoration from the lighting angle.

Yesterday, Mrs. Crown spoke on planting of various plants and illustrated her talk by means of drawings on the blackboard on the stage as well as with actual plants. She used the plants with effectiveness, which gave the audience a clear and understanding explanation of plant life and its ground home.

Bridal Fashions.
As appropriate as the flowers will be when they bloom in the late spring and early summer, after the present planning and planting, was the fashion show staged by Davison-Paxon Company. Yesterday's revue, attractive ones having been presented each day of the school session, featured a bridal scene, as well as a complete showing of a bridal trousseau. In keeping with the wedding clothes, were the models shown of what the bride's mother should wear at pre-nuptial parties, at the wedding, and the reception. The bride was represented by Harriett Townsend.

As a result of Mrs. Crown's request that members of the audience at the Tuesday and Wednesday sessions of the school submit questions regarding gardening to be answered at round-table discussion, it was announced that at the school to be held next fall, that plants for Christmas blooming and for holiday arrangement would be discussed. This brought forth an enthusiastic applause.

April Schedule.
With April only a matter of hours—tomorrow is the first—gardeners will have 30 full days ahead of them to work in their garden. Garden work can be made light or heavy, but there are a few tips which gardeners should remember. Among these notes are that seeds of annuals should be planted as soon as the ground is ready and danger of frost is over. It's also necessary to begin thinking of lily pools. If you are fortunate and already have one of these beauty spots, now is the time to have them drained and cleaned before the lilies start to grow. Hardy water lilies may be put in during April, while tender varieties should be put in late in May or in June.

Rose pruning should be finished as soon as possible. Should a profusion of blooms be preferred, light pruning may be practiced. April is also a good time to divide delphiniums, and also a good time to plant such garden lilies as the golden-branded lily of Japan, the regal lily, the speciosum, the Formosa.

SOCIOLOGIST FINDS GIRLS HOME-MINDED

'Marriage and Family' Course Rated One of Most Popular at College.

Modern girls are turning more and more to social work and home life, Dr. Raymond F. Bellamy, head of the sociology department at Florida State College for Women, declared last night as he arrived in Atlanta to attend the annual convention of the Southern Sociological Society, which opens at 10 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

The first question a girl of today asks about a course is, "What application can I make it to my own life?" the sociologist said.

Honored by Alumnae.
Dr. Bellamy, Dr. Coyle E. Moore, Dr. Paul Shankweiler and Mrs. Margaret C. Bristol—all members of the sociological department at Florida State College for Women—were honor guests last night at a dinner given by Atlanta alumnae of the institution.

Talking informally before the dinner, Dr. Bellamy pointed out that the course on "Marriage and the Family" at the Florida college is one of the most popular in the school. Joining in the conversation, Dr. Moore, who teaches the course, said it had such a popular appeal it was taught in several sections every semester and during the summer quarter. He added 40 per cent of last year's graduating class were enrolled in the classes.

"It seems from this that Florida girls are more interested in marriage than any other profession," Dr. Moore laughed. "But seriously speaking, modern youth is approaching marriage with its eyes open. Young people today want as much knowledge on this subject as possible. They realize it is an important decision."

Study of "Petting."
Dr. Moore is now engaged in a study of courtship conventions and practices in southern colleges. In this survey he will study the expected to which "petting" is practiced on college campuses.

"Oh, yes, I know you'd like to have what I've discovered, but I haven't completed it yet," he said. Approximately 500 sociologists, students of sociology, prison officials and social workers are expected to attend the convention, which will continue through tomorrow.

A variety of topics will be discussed by well-known authorities. Among these will be marriage trends, agricultural progress, population shifts, birth control, criminology and penology.

Senator Wants Gold Fish Saved From Gulpers

BOSTON, March 30.—(P)—In the wake of an epidemic of gold fish gobbling by college students, a Massachusetts state senator today sought a legislative investigation to protect the fish from cruel and wanton consumption.

The order, filed by Senator George Krapf, Republican, Pittsfield, would authorize a department of conservation to investigate consumption of live gold fish by college students or others and would authorize the department to make any revision of law "necessary to preserve, conserve and protect the breeding grounds of gold fish and protect them from cruel and wanton consumption."

WIFE PRESERVERS

To set color in fabrics a woman finds a solution of one-half ounce sugar of lead to a gallon of hot water is effective. She dips the article into cold water first, then soaks it in the solution. Chamberlain Popularity Dips

The figures on the chart show the percentage of British voters satisfied with Neville Chamberlain as prime minister. The results are from surveys by the British Institute of Public Opinion, affiliate of the American Institute.

Down Slightly Since Germany's Seizure of Czech Territory, Survey of Britain Shows.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's popularity with British voters has declined since Hitler's seizure of Czechoslovakia early this month, but the 70-year-old statesman whose foreign policy has stressed European "appeasement" is still approved by a sizable majority of his fellow countrymen.

Sounding of British sentiment by the British Institute of Public Opinion, affiliate of the American Institute, shows that after a brief setback following the Munich Peace pact last September, Chamberlain's popularity climbed steadily until early March when 61 per cent of British voters said they were satisfied with him as prime minister, against 39 per cent who said they were not. Then came Hitler's swift march into Prague, which raised a flurry of criticism in England against the prime minister's policies. Today Chamberlain is approved by a slightly smaller majority—58 per cent, with 42 per cent opposed.

The six-month trend has been as follows:

	Yes	No
November, 1938	57%	43%
December, 1938	55%	45%
January, 1939	56%	44%
February	57%	43%
March	61%	39%
TODAY	58%	42%

The rise in Chamberlain's popularity during the winter months is explained to a great extent by the public's attitude toward appeasement. A recent British Institute survey found that the largest single group of voters—nearly half of the total—think the policy "will keep us out of war until we have time to rearm."

The London News Chronicle describes as "cynically realistic."

This survey asked a cross-section of British voters:

"Which of these statements comes nearest to representing your views of Mr. Chamberlain's policy of appeasement?"

"(1) It is a policy which will ultimately lead to enduring peace in Europe."

"(2) It will keep us out of war until we have time to rearm."

"(3) It is bringing war nearer by whetting the appetites of the dictators."

The vote was:

Lead to Enduring Peace	28%
Keep Us Out of War Until We Can Rearm	46
Bringing War Nearer	24
No Opinion	2

It is clear from the vote that the majority think the appeasement policy will either bring long-term peace or is at least a short-term expedient for safety.

BRITAIN TO FIGHT IF NAZIS MARCH sition regarding Poland in his interview with Viscount Halifax.

British who previously had said Britain's scheme for a European "halt Hitler" front would reach a climax during the visit here next week of Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, now asserted more haste appeared necessary.

They indicated that they regarded Germany's anti-Polish press campaign as more than attempt to wreck Colonel Beck's trip. The foreign minister is due here Monday.

Officials in London, Berlin and Warsaw, however, denied rumors that the Nazis were planning an immediate drive against Poland's frontiers.

One diplomatic source said "new British proposals were presented to the Poles today" after a cabinet "anti-entanglement" faction had receded from opposition to far-reaching British military commitments.

Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon were reported to have headed that faction.

The cabinet was represented now as being unanimous on the need for bold action.

There was no indication that Poland had abandoned her objections to joining directly any anti-aggression bloc with Soviet Russia.

COLONY MEMBERS PROTEST TO F. D. R.

Group Claims Price of Land Too High.

OSCEOLA, Ark., March 30.—(UP)—Nearly one-third of 376 families living at Dyess colony, federal rehabilitation project near here, charged tonight that they were being charged "holdup" prices for land and protested to President Roosevelt.

Members of 112 families signed a letter to the President in which they asserted that land valued at approximately $2.50 an acre when farmers settled on it a few years ago is now being offered to them at $75 to $100 per acre. They asserted that this violated an original agreement that they were to pay only actual cost plus improvements and interests. The letter said improvements would not be worth more than $25 per acre.

and now that Canada is prepared to support any action that may be decided upon by the government at Westminster.

The idea, he said, that Canada should risk the lives of citizens every 20 years in a war for democracy or small nations in Europe seemed to him a "nightmare."

Canada, he declared, had enough difficulty keeping her own house in order without risking bankruptcy to help "run a continent which cannot run itself."

Revealing President Roosevelt's promise last August that the United States would not tolerate foreign domination of Canada, MacKenzie King said the month of August was as important to Canada as September was to Europe.

"I want to emphasize these closer and more responsible relations with the United States have not in any way lessened the intimacy of our relations with the United Kingdom," he went on.

He said he did not think the time was ripe for efforts to have the Pan-American Union opened to Canadian membership.

HOGANSVILLE BUILDING. HOGANSVILLE, Ga., March 30. Hogansville now is enjoying a minor construction boom. Building under way includes four classrooms and a six-room brick building addition at Hogansville High school, and new homes for Clark Singletary, Hefflin Lane, John Hines, B. E. Carden, and W. J. Dunn. Work will begin soon on a new civic clubhouse.

GRAND JURY SEEKS TO AROUSE VOTERS BY ECONOMY POLL

Foreman Pledges Efforts to Awaken People as to Conditions in County Government.

An awakened citizenry, interested in an economical administration of county affairs, yesterday was declared to be the prime objective of the March-April Fulton county grand jury.

W. A. Baughn, grand jury foreman, made the statement as questionnaires were being circulated to the 1,100 county employees from the lowest janitor to superior court judges in an effort to find out what the employees do, their experience, education, length of service, salaries and the names of any relatives in county employ.

Possible political repercussions of the grand jury's findings were implied in a statement "we propose to give the people facts and figures."

"The prime objective of this grand jury is to wake up the people," Baughn said. "If we can do this, and if we do it well enough to keep the people awake, we will have accomplished something."

"This grand jury expects to lay the facts and figures before the people and if the people are not awakened by them, it will not be our fault."

"We don't deserve good government if but a small majority of the people take an interest in public affairs. We expect to make an honest effort to make an honest and thorough report of conditions. This information will be of importance to every citizen in Fulton county, and we hope that it will be considered by from 40,000 to 50,000 citizens on the registration lists instead of from 10,000 to 12,000 who have been participating in elections."

"With the county in such precarious financial condition, the question of economy is important, and the grand jury certainly has this problem in mind."

Baughn declined to say why the questionnaires were being circulated or to explain what the grand jury plans to show.

ITALY WILL PUSH CLAIMS, SAYS DUCE

Nation Will Not 'Remain Prisoner in Mediterranean,' France Is Warned.

CATANZARO, Italy, March 30. (UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today warned France that Fascist armed strength, having proved itself in Spain, will "forge straight ahead" and never will permit Italy to remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean.

Il Duce addressed cheering crowds in the great Lictor square of Cosenza and later spoke before 30,000 Italians in Catanzaro on a tour carrying him through the Calabria region of southern Italy, along the sole of the Italian boot.

Wants Satisfaction.

He asserted that Italy's claims on the Suez canal must be satisfied.

Mussolini's speeches, brief but belligerent, came only a few hours after Premier Edouard Daladier, of France, had announced that France refused to yield "a single inch" of her soil to Italy and that any initiative toward peaceful negotiation of Mussolini's claims on Djibouti, the Suez and Tunisia must come from Rome.

"We will never resign ourselves to remaining prisoners in the Mediterranean," Mussolini announced at Cosenza, a few hours before he reached Catanzaro.

Il Duce made it clear to his audience here—sheep raisers and olive growers—that he intends to push his claims against France.

"Did we forge ahead in Spain?" he asked.

"Si, Si!" roared back the crowd.

"Then I tell you we will continue to forge straight ahead despite the obstacles that anyone tries to place in our path," Mussolini said. "We are not afraid of what the future holds for us."

He told of plans for the development of the Calabria region with "quickened steps."

"These steps are bound to lead Italy to its new and greatest destiny," he said. "Above all, we intend to go forward."

Mussolini and his entourage departed tonight for Reggio at the tip of the Italian peninsula.

Mussolini, in his brief speech from a balcony of the government building in Cosenza, made no direct reference to Daladier's blunt speech, however.

Members of Il Duce's entourage believed he might issue a direct reply to Daladier in a speech tomorrow at Reggio, one of the principal stops on his tour.

Today he pounded his gloved right fist on the stone railing of the balcony as he shouted to the Cosenza crowd that:

"Facts or no diplomatic pacts, we will never resign ourselves to remaining prisoners in the Mediterranean!"

MACHADO TO BE BURIED IN MIAMI CEMETERY
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 30. (UP)—The family of Gerardo Machado decided today that the former Cuban president and dictator would be buried in Miami rather than the country where he was once a national hero.

Funeral services for Machado, who ruled Cuba for eight years until he was deposed in 1933 and fled into exile, will be at the home here at 4 p. m. tomorrow, with burial in Miami's Woodlawn cemetery, the family announced.

Machado died in a hospital here yesterday.

CHURCH TO GREET ITS NEW PASTOR

Rev. R. C. Weaver Will Serve East Point Christian Congregation.

East Point Christian church will welcome its new pastor, the Rev. Robert O. Weaver at 11 o'clock Sunday morning in the regular weekly service.

The Rev. Weaver comes to East Point from Rising Sun, Ind., where he has held a pastorate for the past four years. Prior to that time the Rev. Weaver has held pastorates at Jamestown, Ohio, and Georgetown, Ky.

The new pastor is a graduate of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary and is editor-in-chief of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary Alumni "Anchor." Back in 1932 Rev. Weaver was acclaimed the outstanding debater of Pennsylvania.

Plans are being made at the East Point church for a revival to start early in April, with Rev. Weaver conducting the services. An invitation has been issued to every member of the East Point church and their friends to be present Sunday morning and help welcome the new pastor.

Easter Seal Sale Will Aid Children Like This One

Every Easter seal bought by Atlantans will aid little patients like this in their struggle to regain sound, healthy bodies. Dr. Arnold Ingemann and the nurses are treating this patient at the Crippled Children's Home on Windsor street. George B. Yancey, president of the Crippled Children's Society of Fulton county, which is offering the Easter seals for sale, is watching the treatment. Several well-known citizens visited the home yesterday.

Crippled Children's Home Visited By Delegation Interested in Work

A delegation of Atlanta men and women, headed by Sam E. Finley, visited the Crippled Children's home, on Windsor street, Wednesday afternoon to learn first-hand just how much was being done for Georgia's crippled children, and to see the great need of larger and better facilities for the work the state is doing in cooperation with the Crippled Children's Society of Fulton County.

Those who attended a luncheon at the Elks Club, at which the campaign to dispose of thousands of Easter seals to help the little cripples was described, and then visited the home, were:

Sam E. Finley, Roy Harwell, Miss Jessie Muse, Ralph McGill, Walter Smith, Dr. Edgar Greene, president, Fulton County Medical Society; Dr. Martin T. Myers, head of the crippled children's division, State Welfare Department; Obie Brewer, Jesse Draper, Frank Fling, George Baker, Dr. Theodore Toepel, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. R. M. Cobb Jr., Mrs. Ora Carroll, George Yancey, Mrs. Alva Maxwell, Jere Wells, Louis Regenstien, Baxter Maddox and Press Hudson.

Yancey Presides. George B. Yancey, president of the county society, presided at the luncheon and presented Dr. Martin T. Myers, director of the crippled children's division in the State Department of Public Welfare.

Dr. Myers told of the work done within the past year or more, and stressed the need of greater help to care for about 12,000 crippled children in the state. The need for recuperative homes, such as the state has established on Windsor street, was emphasized, and he declared that the aid being offered by the Fulton county society was greatly appreciated.

He said that through his department 560 crippled had been treated, and that the number was increasing monthly, "as we are attempting to hospitalize approximately 40 new cases each month."

Yancey said that "we have only begun to fight for crippled children," in announcing that 10,000 Easter seals had been mailed out to thousands of citizens of the city and county.

"Our biggest job has been to let the people know about the problem. Using the seals as well as buying them will do much to spread the word," he said.

Treatment Shown. Upon visiting the home on Windsor street, the delegation found the nurses, Misses Brewer and Ambergrom, assisting Dr. Arnold Ingemann in the treatment of a patient who has been at the home as a result of infantile paralysis for the past several months.

At first the patient had absolutely no use of her legs, but now she has greatly improved, and with the assistance of braces will soon be able to walk. The patient is Callie Sue Bowles, of Madison, Ga. The money to be raised in this county will go partly to the general state-wide movement to pay for a permanent home, recently bought near Macon, which will be a central recuperative home, purchased by the Georgia Elks Association. A good portion, however, raised through the society here will go toward aiding the state home on Windsor street, and finally to secure a larger and better recuperative home in this city, where scores of the little cripples will be brought for operation, and where they can then spend awhile in restoration and rehabilitation, with proper attention, diet, and care.

Yancey asked that all those who receive the seals to send in a check for them at their earliest opportunity.

always am horrified," he said, "at all that needs to be done in the future to conserve the soil of the south. That is one of the great problems that lies with this generation and with you of the coming generation."

"That is part of the necessary economy if the south is to survive."

The President said the students had a great responsibility to devise "new methods, new means—experiments, if you like—in order to improve the conditions during your own lifetime."

"I have been called an imaginative person, an experimenter, a seeker of new ideals and, generally, when I have been called that I have been called something else that does not sound so good," he said amid laughter, adding:

"I believe this country is going somewhere, but it must depend on its future progress and prosperity very largely on the younger generation, the people under 30, the people who have got American ideals and are not afraid of trying new things."

He said he would like to live long enough to see soil erosion completely stopped in Alabama and a lot of other states.

Local Needs. "I would like to live long enough," he continued, "to see the products of factories supplying local needs, state needs. I hope to be able to come back to this state and to the state of Georgia before I die and see at least a part of that ideal come true."

The President started his motor tour at Chehaw, Ala., where he arrived by special train at 10 o'clock, central time, this morning.

He drove first to Tuskegee Institute, famous negro school at Tuskegee, stopping on a knoll to greet the patients and staff at the negro veterans' hospital on the outskirts.

After driving around the vast campus with its 110 buildings, including 28 trade schools, the President's car was stopped on a knoll overlooking the negro cadets spread out on a sunken greenward.

He listened to the rich voices of the negro girl and boy students as they sang old-time spirituals and then he turned to address them.

Dr. F. D. Patterson and R. R. Moton, president and former presidents of Tuskegee, by asserting he was proud of the "humane service" rendered by graduates of Tuskegee over the years since its establishment in 1881 by the late Booker T. Washington.

Point of View. Emphasizing the tackling of human problems from a national point of view, he asserted:

"More and more we are becoming a part of a nation which, because of changing conditions, means that we have to take part, all the way down to the smallest community and the home, in national affairs."

"Alabama cannot hoe its own row directly, other states, neither can my state of Georgia. More and more they have got to plan, plan for the future, plan for the present, plan to work with the other fellow."

"There is one thing you are learning and that is, you have got to co-operate with your fellow men and women, co-operate in your own community, in your own state and throughout the country."

Dr. Patterson advocated a "broad program of sound education" to combat world unrest and social and economic problems facing this nation. He said much that Tuskegee had accomplished would not have been possible without the "whole-hearted co-operation of friends of both races, north and south."

Dr. Moton declared "inter-racial feeling" was better today than ever before and added he did not believe "the negro race, or any race, high or low, had a better friend than the President of the United States."

A very dark man, Dr. Moton brought a smile to the President's face when he said he thought he had "brought a little more color" to the ceremony than anyone else present.

President Roosevelt chatted briefly with Dr. George Washington Carver, famed scientist. F. D. Patterson introduced the scientist to the chief executive as he paused on the institute's campus.

The President spoke the third time to a crowd assembled in the town square of Tuskegee, composed mostly of school children waving tiny American flags.

He urged the children to be good citizens for they were to be the "voters" of tomorrow. He told a story of Dick Connell, a Democrat in his New York district, who gained a seat in congress after many years of futile effort only by visiting the school children in three counties and waiting for them to grow up to be voters.

At Opelika, Ala., his last stop of the day, he addressed another crowd in front of a schoolhouse and talked about good roads making for more travel and better education.

"The more we can get around and see not only our neighbors five and 10 miles away and people in the next county, but also people in the next state and in other states, the better it is for us," he said.

En route to Warm Springs from Opelika, the President slowed down his car to wave to cheering citizenry in the Alabama mill towns of Fairfax, Langdale, Shawmut and Lanett, and the Georgia mill centers of West Point and LaGrange.

Southern Girl in 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye'

Ann Fairleigh, the Hopkinsville (Ky.) girl who went to England to lose her southern drawl only to have to learn it back again, has the lead in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," which opens tonight at the Erlanger theater. "Cindy Lou," heroine of the play, is a "native" of Athens, Ga.

ERLANGER TO SHOW CLARE BOOTHE PLAY

'Kiss the Boys Goodbye,' Satire on Scarlett Search, Opens Tonight.

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye," Clare Boothe's satire on the Hollywood search for an actress to play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," will open a two-night stand at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Erlanger theater. A matinee will be offered tomorrow.

The story of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" concerns an Athens, Ga., girl, "Cindy Lou," who goes to New York with a talent scout to try out for the lead in a play, which, like "Gone With the Wind," has a southern setting.

Characters in Miss Boothe's play have at intervals been identified as representing certain living people, a fact which Miss Boothe denies. Reminded that most people think they can identify the characters, especially the radical collector, whom most think is Heywood Brown, Miss Boothe said:

"That's casting. If he had been cast as a little bald man or a giant Irishman, people would have tried to think of someone else. If they'd given him spurs and a saber, people would have thought he was General Johnson."

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye" is currently being played by three companies—one in New York, one in Chicago and the one appearing here tonight. In each, the leading actress is a southern girl.

DAVISON'S BASHMENT

Are you better off today than a year ago?

Why not plan now to get somewhere? A Fidelity Income Plan representative will gladly help

NEARLY everyone hopes to be better off some day. But the years pass and most people make little progress.

Why? The answer is obvious in most cases. Many men and women have no financial plan.

Planning ahead is easy, if you adopt the time-tried Fidelity method. To make definite financial progress, you just set aside a little money regularly over a period of years.

You assess yourself a certain amount per month for future use. Then a day dawns when you have real money to fall back on instead of hope.

Be sure to see the Fidelity representative who may call to explain the plan to you.

There's no obligation on your part, of course. But learning how to start and complete a Fidelity Income Plan may prove to be the best move toward independence you ever made.

JOBLESS BENEFITS OBTAINED IN FRAUD LEAD TO SENTENCE

Painter Convicted of Illegally Receiving Aid While Employed; Others Warned of Violations.

Conviction and sentence of Elmer L. Osborn, a painter, of 87 Baker street, N. W., in Fulton county court yesterday on charges of fraudulently obtaining benefits under the Georgia unemployment compensation act, brought a warning that violators of the act will be vigorously prosecuted and punished.

Osborn's case was the first criminal prosecution under the law, officials of the bureau said. He was convicted on each of four counts, after pleading guilty.

The court imposed a fine of $20 and a sentence of 30 days on count one, and a 60-day sentence on each of counts two, three and four. He also was ordered to make restitution to the bureau the amount of compensation received because of alleged false statements and representations.

It was charged that Osborn, while working, made application for compensation under the new law, representing that he was totally unemployed, and was paid the sum of $12.40 a week for two weeks, receiving this sum in addition to the amount of money earned in his work as a painter.

Testimony at the trial revealed that Osborn earned $27.20 per week.

Under the unemployment compensation act a person making a false statement or representation to obtain benefits is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

CHARLES L. FISH, 97, INDIAN FIGHTER, DIES

Former Stagecoach Guard Also Fought in War Between States.

Charles L. Fish, 97, who fought Indians and rode guard for stage coaches during pioneer days of the midwest, died unexpectedly yesterday morning at his apartment in a downtown hotel. He had been living here for the past eight years.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Fish moved to the west when a child. He frequently recalled his many narrow escapes in Indian fighting, which included having his hat shot full of holes without a bullet touching him.

At one time he was an accredited mounted escort for the stage coach mail route between Denver and St. Louis when that section was just beginning to be developed. He also took part in the War Between the States.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Olive N. Oldknow, with whom he made his home here; Mrs. G. W. Wildin, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Carl Swanson, of Maxwell, Iowa; a son, George F. Fish, of Pittsburgh, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the chapel of Harry G. Poole and the body will be sent tomorrow to Galesburg, Ill., for burial.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 31, 1939.

END—AND A BEGINNING

Three years of the horror of modern warfare have come to an end on the Iberian peninsula. It is an end brought about by a weight of arms implemented by the aggressor nations, yet one which cannot be regretted because of this intervention. If the aftermath of the War Between the States may be taken as indicative, the price of these three years will not be soon met by the Spanish people.

Gone, in this three years, is the flower of their manhood. Left is the bitterness of conflict and the hatred of subjugated factions within the country. To be met is the cost of the conflict, with whole countryside and cities to be rebuilt, public utilities to be reconstructed, factories to be re-equipped, farms to be replanted, homes to be rejoined in peaceful living.

Youth hardened in the crucible of war must be re-oriented, or cast into a mold for further warfare on other fronts. This last is a terrible possibility, one which would seem impossible from a people only now emerging from the hell of battle, yet one which cannot be overlooked in any consideration of the international scene.

The effect of the outcome will not escape the United States. It has placed a nationalist government, one which has evidently a debt to pay to Italy and to Germany, in power in the mother country of millions of South Americans.

The effect of this impact upon American relations can only be measured after years of experience, yet it cannot help but be tremendous. With the sole exception of Brazil, all Latin-American nations will be affected, and any unity on the hemisphere against dictator ideology correspondingly weakened.

In Europe, the end of the war will open the way for a resumption of Italian and German agitation, the outcome of which no man can today foretell. Needless to say, it strengthens the hand of the aggressors and may possibly lead to recklessness—or to peace. The signs remain ominous, no matter how devoutly one may wish for calm.

But it is over, and for that all may be thankful. While the war continued, Spain was a world powder keg. If now the Italians are withdrawn, as promised, Spain can turn to reconstruction. If they are not, further trouble may be expected to ensue, particularly if payment of the debt to Italy and Germany is in terms of Balearic Islands and Moroccan lands.

Some new fuse may now be lit, but the world will sigh with relief that this particular one has been extinguished, however it was brought about.

ATLANTA BOYS' CLUB

Boys' Clubs, for many years, have been a haven for boys in the crowded workers' districts in the densely populated industrial centers of the nation. In less than 75 years, from a modest beginning, 326 clubs are now operating in the United States and 21 in Canada. Last May a Boys' Club was organized in Atlanta. Its membership already exceeds 800 boys—far in excess of the number anticipated in such a short time. This quick enrollment indicates the need for Boys' Club facilities.

This organization is rare in that it is not merely an idea, or an ideal, but actually a place. The impoverished urchin is made to feel a sense of equality and his morale is improved when he actually participates in the better things of life. Reading rooms, schooling, games, athletics, gymnasiums, swimming pools, camps, medical and dental care, as well as music, dramatics and art, for those having the inclination, are provided. Over 285,000 boys—63,000 of whom are participating in vocational training—are now enrolled in Boys' Clubs. The organization is, of course, non-sectarian.

It would be grossly unfair to class the work of Boys' Clubs as crime prevention work. Yet, it need not be denied that delinquency is most prevalent in the areas selected for club organization. It has been felt if the boys in these areas of less opportunity were given something wholesome to do, something to occupy their minds, something in the nature of training for useful occupations, they would be unlikely to fall under the less desirable "street" influences.

The Atlanta Boys' Club needs financial assistance. A campaign is now being conducted to raise $10,000. The gymnasium, where basketball, volleyball and other indoor group games are played, needs constant replacements. The workshop, with its power equipment, where useful vocations are taught, must be maintained. A library, a reading room, an adequate assembly room, lights, heat, food, all must be provided. It is now known that these facilities have long been needed. The people of Atlanta should generously provide them.

CANCER—THE GREAT SCOURGE

Cancer has moved rapidly to the front as a primary national health problem. Once far down the list in mortality tables, it now ranks second, exceeded only by organic heart disease. At the present time it is taking an annual toll of 150,000 persons. It is stated by medical authority, however, that at least 75,000 of these sufferers could be saved each year by early diagnosis, followed by proper surgical, X-ray and radium treatment.

In recognition of this problem the month of April has been set aside in 45 states, including Georgia, for an intensive educational and recruiting campaign conducted by the Women's Field Army for the Control of Cancer. This army was organized in 1936. It works under the direction of doctors representing state medical societies. Its work is not confined to the education of women alone, but is designed to familiarize all people with the danger of postponing diagnosis of suspicious symptoms.

The campaign in Georgia will be opened in Atlanta today. Dr. C. C. Little, managing director, American Society for the Control of Cancer, who has supervised the work of the Women's Field Army, will be here for the occasion. He will deliver an address before the Fulton County Medical Society.

But the people must not only be awakened to the need of early diagnosis; they must be provided with convenient centers, with funds to maintain them, for diagnosis and treatment within their ability to pay. If the ability to pay is lacking, facilities must be provided free of cost.

The state of Georgia, fortunately, is in the vanguard in this fight. The legislature, under the supervision of the medical profession, enacted cancer control legislation two years ago. Centers for diagnosis and treatment have been set up at favorably located points. These facilities, although more extensive than in most states, are still grossly inadequate. And their continuance is at present jeopardized by the recent difference of opinion in the legislature on the subject of taxation.

There has always been one fatal weakness in the campaign against cancer. Even with adequate facilities workers in the clinics and laboratories could do no more than treat such cases as were brought before them. All too often they found the dread disease had gone too far, that diagnosis was postponed too long, that the sufferer thought it was something else and didn't take it seriously.

The Women's Field Army proposes to close this gap in the line of battle. The campaign is on. The army needs recruits. It will get them. With full co-operation between these enthusiastic workers and those afflicted with the disease, or with suspicious symptoms, thousands of lives should be saved during the year 1939.

HOSPITAL FACILITIES

The American Medical Association should be commended for its watchful eye over the nation's hospitals. A standard of excellence compatible with the location of the facilities and the ability to maintain them is rigidly required if a hospital is to have the stamp of approval of the association.

Last week the Journal of the A. M. A. pointed out there had been an increase of 38 registered hospitals during the past year. There are now 6,166 such institutions in the country, maintaining more than 1,000,000 beds. The greater part of the increase was attributable to an expansion in public facilities. There are now 1,728 such hospitals. State institutions for the insane accounted for much of this increase.

Hospitals for nervous and mental cases, which cared for an average of 350,000 patients per day during 1927, were taxed with over 550,000 per day during 1938.

Hospital facilities are admittedly inadequate, particularly in rural sections. Although conditions in the cities are better, most states average only from two to four beds per 1,000 population. One state maintains only 1.4 beds for each 1,000 of its people.

Whether there are too few doctors to adequately administer to the needs of the people has not been and probably never will be decided. The A. M. A. Journal pointed out there are generally about 6,100 available internships in American hospitals every year. Inasmuch, however, as only 5,200 graduates received diplomas from medical schools last year, it left approximately 900 positions unfilled from the nation's medical schools.

There is, however, no getting around the need for more hospital facilities. They should be provided, but only as fast as competent doctors and nurses become available to man them.

Yoo-hoo, Einstein! The Lithuanian navy, consisting of one ship, now has no Lithuanian port to which to go.

All that Lithuania gets out of this last grab is a song by Hitler, "Thanks for the Memel."s."

Editorial of the Day

INTRODUCING THE PLYWOOD HOUSE

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

The nation's need for housing and the slump in the construction industry are old stories. A pre-fabricated house, to which mass-production processes could be applied, has often been urged as the solution to both problems, but a practical formula has not yet been worked out. A new method now is being pushed, in the use of plywood for building such ready-made houses, and its sponsors think they have solved the problem.

New synthetic resins make it possible to bind laminated panels together under heat and great pressure, and give them a strength greater than that of steel sheets of equal weight, says a writer in Business Week. Standardized panels are turned out at the factory, then assembled at the site chosen. Steel connector plates are bolted together, to form weather-tight joints. One of these houses tested by the United States Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis., has withstood severe wind and weather.

The possibilities are fascinating. A speaker at a recent housing conference stated this process could be the means of providing low-cost housing for the 66 to 70 per cent of the population that can afford to pay no more than $30 a month for rent. Communities of 30,000 houses, built on open farm land, with self-contained industries, were suggested.

Objections from trades unions may be expected should pre-fabrication be undertaken on a large scale. After all, however, the net gain in employment from a nation-wide undertaking of this sort would certainly be greater than any loss to a handful of specialized workmen. It is time that home building, still almost as much a handicraft industry as it was centuries ago, caught up with modern production methods, for the benefit of a badly housed nation.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

BUREAUCRATIC LOBBYING WASHINGTON, March 30.—During the debate on the government reorganization bill, Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, sent a message to the White House to this effect: "The President will have to stop the executive agencies from lobbying for exemptions in my bill. I'm having enough trouble beating Bert Wheeler's amendment, and I can't take on the whole government in another fight."

A group of bankers had urged Byrnes to exempt from the bill the office of the comptroller of the currency. Byrnes had been harassed for days by senators, government officials and private individuals pleading for exemptions for a wide variety of bureaus. He reasoned that the comptroller's office had asked the bankers to intercede and he used this case as an example to the President of the odds against which he was fighting.

His protest was relayed by the White House to Comptroller of the Currency Preston A. Delano, and Mr. Delano answered that his office had taken no part in the fight. Apparently what had happened was that some national bank officials were fearful that the President would take the suggestion of Federal Reserve Board chairman, Marriner S. Eccles, and merge the comptroller's office with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. They had taken on themselves the "protection" of the comptroller.

He denied that his office was seeking an exemption and, in an unusual letter to Byrnes, he said: "Aside from the impropriety involved in any intervention on our own behalf, I feel that the decision as to the future status of this office should be left entirely in the hands of congress and the President of the United States."

VESTED INTERESTS The comptroller's acquiescence to the reorganization bill was not typical of other bureaus. Their struggle for exemptions gave a good example of how difficult it is to simplify the government. Senators were active enough in behalf of their pet agencies. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, for one, tried hard for an exemption for the coal commission. But the really significant activity came from the vested interests, the officials of the bureaus. They lobbied untiringly themselves, and they persuaded the private companies which they regulate to do high-pressure pleading for them.

An example that happened to be unsuccessful will serve as an illustration. The Civil Aeronautics Authority wanted an exemption. Therefore, the aviation companies actively supported the bill. The general counsel of one large company almost literally lived on Senator Byrnes' doorstep, telephoning his home, waylaying him in his office and inducing mutual friends to intercede. The campaign of the bureaus became so intense that, for two days, Byrnes absented himself from his office and worked in a hideaway.

Over 20 agencies were finally exempted from the bill. And, before the President does any reorganizing, he will face a similar barrage. As one cabinet member recently put it: "If the President has a reorganization blueprint ready, and announces it quickly, he may get somewhere. But if he hesitates, the government lobby will get him as it eventually gets everyone."

BYRNES VS. WHEELER The reorganization bill is a much-watered-down version of the controversial measure of last year. Its acceptance was also made more likely by the fact that another year has passed since the supreme court packing venture. However, its passage shows clearly how much easier it is for the administration when its program is handled by an able senator like Byrnes. Byrnes is very popular with the group that usually opposes the President. He received support on his bill from senators like Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Gillette, of Iowa, and Walsh, of Massachusetts, who often oppose the President. Byrnes even persuaded Vice President John N. Garner to line up with the White House.

The fight was so close in the senate only because Byrnes was opposed by an equally able strategist, Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana. And an interesting aftermath will be the effect on the relations between Wheeler and the President.

The President became Wheeler's bitter enemy during the supreme court fight. But, recently, they kissed and made up, and the President volunteered the promise that he would not appoint the lame-duck congressman, Jerry O'Connell, Wheeler's bitter enemy in Montana and a 200 per cent New Dealer, to a government job. The President won the reorganization fight when Wheeler's restrictive amendment was defeated. Wheeler bears no grudge, and, unless the President is spilling for trouble, they should continue friendly. (Copyright, 1939 for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

The British Territorials.

Noticing in the news reports where Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has announced that the strength of the British territorial field army would be doubled, making it total 340,000 men, some boyhood memories of this branch of His Majesty's service were awakened.

The territorials, as you probably know, are the British equivalent for the National Guard in the United States. A civilian army of volunteers who attend periodical drills and go to training camps during the summer and generally provide the skeleton framework for the far larger force which must be created in time of war. Backing up the regular army as the second line of military defense.

In my own home city of Liverpool, in the early years of the century, when there was a youngster, there were eight regiments of territorials. Good regiments, all with records of which to be proud. But the most colorful of the eight were the Fifth Irish and the Eighth Scottish. They were both snappy outfits, both intensely proud, with great esprit de corps, and everlasting rivals in everything, from parade appearance to drilling perfection, rifle range scores and athletic supremacy.

The Fifth Irish was composed of lads from the poorer quarter of the city. From Scotland road and its environs. Corresponding, in the parlance of most American cities, to the "wrong side of the tracks."

But they made a tough crew of civilian-soldiers, terrors in a free-for-all scrap and ready to fight at the whisper of a challenge.

The Eighth Scottish was the swaggy regiment. The sons of society. The boys who had enjoyed all the refinements of life that come by being folks with money and social standing as parents. They wore the kilt for uniform and it was said there was never a private in the rear rank of the Eighth so humble or poor his uniform was not tailor-made, by an expensive tailor at that.

Who came back from that adventure.

If my memory doesn't serve me false, that Boer war unit was commanded by a young captain, son of a famous Scotch preacher and novelist, who used the pen name of Ian Maclaren.

World War.*

I don't know much about the record of the Fifth Irish and the Eighth Scottish and the other Liverpool territorials in the World War. I'll bet, however, it was something creditable. I believe it was from them they selected the lads who were packed like sardines on board a couple of Mersey river ferries and shipped all around the country, and through the English channel, to that heroic adventure on the mole at Zeebrugge. That failed, but the smokestack, riddled like a sieve with bullet holes, still stands as a memorial to the men who died that night, stands beside the ferry pier on the Wallasey side of the Mersey.

They are great regiments, all of them, and they are composed of the products of the tough streets, or whether they are boys from England's famous "public" schools and the homes of the better-to-do.

I wanted to join the Eighth Scottish, myself. Instead, however, I came to Canada for a visit, 35 years ago and that's how I'm today on this side of the Atlantic.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Reporters WASHINGTON, March 30.—For the first time in the long and sometimes acrimonious attempt of the present government to discredit, if not destroy, the American press, the conduct of reporters has been called into question, the accuser being Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities. Hitherto only the publishers have been accused, generally on a charge of distortion, suppression or false emphasis on the interests of their political beliefs and of the advertisers from whom they receive part of their income. Dies distinctly says that not all the reporters who covered his committee were guilty of the conduct or attitude of which he complains in some cases. But he frankly presents jeers and audible contemptuous comments on the part of individuals from whom newspaper readers received accounts and impressions of the hearings. He says some reporters revealed hostility in a manner that amounted to heckling of witnesses who testified as to activities of Communists and "fellow travelers," and even of the committee itself.

Washington reporters covering committee hearings enjoy privileges beyond those of reporters in the courts, but the chair always has authority to enforce order and protect witnesses. Thus Dies, by his complaint, adds weight to the charge that he did not conduct his hearings in a competent manner. In failing to preserve order, Dies at the necessity of ejecting individuals from the room, he sacrificed decorum to avoid even more bitter newspaper comment. He would have been fiercely ridiculed for doing this, but on the other hand he certainly would have won respect, for, if his own accounts of certain incidents are not exaggerated, the committee was held in contempt and made to like it.

The reporters of Washington are not united on any political front or even as a craft, and if Dies had rebuked unseemly conduct in a doubtful way, he would have found objective reporters to state the facts of the case for the public to judge. In the absence of any positive move on his part, however, the heckling by some journalists escaped mention in the papers because by tradition the side comments and conduct of reporters are not news.

No Time The volume of straight news in Washington is so great that descriptive or atmospheric reporting seldom finds room, and reporters never regard their own kind as figures in the picture. In this case apparently tradition rather than a purpose to conceal was responsible for failure to report an important phase of the hearings. By courageous action, Dies could have jogged the press table out of this tradition, and he has himself to blame for not doing so. This failure is the more important because of Dies' resentful feeling that his committee did get a very bad and unfair press in some respects. The Shirley Temple distortion still rankles, although in the end, the committee emerged with the victory and those who took liberties with the true meaning of the testimony in a clumsy attempt at humorous propaganda, only smeared themselves.

Dies is at odds with the administration and his grievance against individual journalists is no part of the administration's war against the press as a whole. But anyone who finds himself arrayed by circumstances against the administration or the CIO is sure to be attacked by individuals who are regarded as New Deal or CIO journalists with a mission to fight opponent of the New Deal and the CIO, and it will be remembered that some testimony concerned Communists in both the New Deal and the CIO.

Matter of The main fault of the press of the press seems to have been that some executives and reporters, both, misjudged the public interest in the Dies committee and, in some cases, preconceived everything that the committee might do on the basis of a low opinion of Dies' ability. Some approached the story with the conviction that it was a farce and were embarrassed to discover that the country thought otherwise and wouldn't be satisfied with light or heavy attempts at humor, which, incidentally, is not a specialty of Washington journalism.

Dies, however, studied his subject and his mistakes of procedure and is now more confident of himself and more determined than ever.

If next time he should find the nerve to eject disturbers who abuse their press privileges to hamper the work of a congressional committee, objective reporters among the many will have no choice but to give honest accounts of the incidents.

Postal Moguls Worry.

Edgemore, Del., which is a small town, has no house for its postmaster. Postal regulations require that third-class postmasters live in the communities in which they are appointed.

"But," says Postmaster John D. Lewis, "how can you live in a town when it has no houses?"

Edgemore does have two houses, but both are occupied and the occupants have no idea of moving.

United States post office department officials heard about the situation, expressed doubt, investigated and grumbled, "A plague on both your houses."

But the examination was called off. Neither of the two residents wants the $1,300 job.

Father and Son.

In Panama City, Fla., R. W. Wilcox, back in 1918 was the first person to be struck and killed by an automobile in Bay county.

Twenty-three years later his son, Mitchell Wilcox, 27, was the first to be killed by an airplane crash in the county.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

WHILE WAITING WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 30.—There is the smell of plowed earth in the Georgia air as one drives Georgia roads. Even the rains do not wash it away. The dogwood is blooming. Spring has come. The major league baseball teams are beginning to move north. But at the filling stations and on the front porches they are talking WPA and closed schools and economy in government. Not baseball or the dogwood blossoms or the plowing. Waiting here for the arrival of the greatest American of his day; for the man who most profoundly has affected American thinking and opinion, one may review the thinking in Georgia.

The thinking is not congruous. They believe there can be spending to carry on and yet that less money should be spent. There is the feeling that money has been wasted. They believe this of the state and national government. There is no dispelling it. There is a sort of anger about it.

Perhaps it is not, after all, an incongruity that they want spending and yet want less money spent.

There is confusion in that the administration apparently has no leadership in the state. Not until it was apparent that Jim Gillis, chairman of the state executive committee, had a powerful influence in patronage, was there any indication of where the administration had put its weight. There had been so many "close friends" who apparently had no influence but who talked much, that confusion was created. There was uncertainty among the personnel of the administration bureaus.

There is, on the large farms, a lack of farm labor. These owners curse the WPA and relief. They point to the cities and to those on relief who will not take farm jobs. Relief is, even if inadequate, easier than plowing.

There is confusion of thought in considering county, state and national government. There is a feeling there has been duplication and that certain groups have taken advantage of the confusion.

For all our talk of a plan there has been no well-defined plan.

PUBLIC OPINION It is easy to illustrate the change in public opinion.

Six years ago people said how awful it would be if anything were to happen to Mr. Roosevelt, because then Jack Garner would become president and Mr. Garner was, of course, impossible.

Today most of those same people believe Jack Garner ought to be the next president.

The Gallup poll finds that 51 per cent of the voters think a Republican ought to be the next president.

Meanwhile, the trend which is evident in Fulton county goes forward on a national scale. The Fulton county commissioners grumble that even if they produce $300,000 for relief they are told by the welfare board that the situation is more acute than before. This in the face of improved industrial conditions.

In that one statement is the yeast which is working the leaven of national thinking.

All the spending hasn't produced any permanent solution. The problem of relief seems to grow worse. All the spending hasn't produced a plan; hasn't solved the problems.

The leaven of discontent is at work and must run its course.

WPA PENETRATION One who has not gone into the hard-hit rural communities of Georgia may think WPA is an urban problem. It is not.

Recently I visited a school in a poor rural community. The board was composed of men no one of whom had been through high school. Two had not been past the seventh grade. One was engaged in moonshining whisky.

Of the 36 families represented by the children, 90 per cent were agricultural. The next profession represented was WPA. Third was turpentine. Fourth was storekeeping, one family.

In the so-called tobacco road sections, WPA ranks with farming as a profession.

It is an inescapable conclusion that, if the forces which produced WPA and the relief plans in general have failed, those who would curtail it or abolish it must substitute some plan.

NONE SO BLIND Those who so blindly and bitterly oppose the President destroy their own perspective. They are unfair to themselves even more than they are unfair to the President.

The weakness of the opposition lies in the fact that it is built merely on opposition and not on a plan.

The man who comes to Georgia today is the outstanding American. He did one of the great jobs in American history in his first administration. That the second development of those plans was too much for a conservative people to absorb; that world-wide and national economic factors contributed their drag; that relief and unemployment were not solved; that the farm program failed—all these have served to decrease the prestige and effectiveness of his administration.

15,000 TO WITNESS BRIDGE DEDICATION

Huge Ball's Ferry Span To Be Opened Today With Speeches, Barbecue.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., March 30.—(P)—Five mid-Georgia counties tonight awaited the arrival of thousands of visitors expected for the dedication tomorrow of the new-famous Ball's Ferry bridge across the Oconee river, on the Macon-Savannah route.

Editor Charles D. Rountree, who sees a dream come true with the formal dedication of the bridge, estimated that upwards of 15,000 persons would watch the ceremonies, starting early tomorrow with a barbecue dinner as one of the day's attractions.

Rountree campaigned for some 20 years for construction of the bridge. The trim white structure which, with an overflow bridge and approaches, cost around $340,000, will be opened to traffic by his daughter, Mrs. N. Cecil Hill, of Atlanta. She will cut a ribbon in the center of the bridge as the signal for the day's activities to start.

The main structure is 1,684 feet long. Formerly passage across the river was by ferry, dating back to the days when John Ball, of Revolutionary War fame, plied his craft on the stream. Nearby is Ball's grave, and there is a marker on the bridge embankment set up by the John Ball Chapter of the Wilkinson County Daughters of the American Revolution to perpetuate his memorial. This marker will be unveiled after the bridge dedication.

Most of the public officials of Bibb, Emanuel, Wilkinson, Washington and Johnson counties are expected to take part. Garden clubs of the section, school students and their bands, and representatives of the various towns and cities on the route will participate in the parade and speechmaking.

Chairman W. L. Miller, of the State Highway Board; W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph; Congressman Carl Vinson; Governor Rivers and State Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huitt are among the notables scheduled for talks during the day.

BROWN NOMINATED FOR COMPTROLLER

Former Senator of New Hampshire, New Dealer, Defeated for Re-election Last Fall.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(P)—Former Senator Fred H. Brown, of New Hampshire, New Dealer, who was defeated for re-election last fall, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be comptroller general.

If confirmed by the senate, the 59-year-old Brown will take over the post of "watch dog of the treasury" from Richard N. Elliott who has been acting comptroller since John R. McCarl's term expired three years ago.

An objection from Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, prevented senate consideration of the nomination today. Senate rules require a one-day wait before action on nominations, but Majority Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, asked unanimous consent to set aside the rule as a "courtesy" to a former senator.

Burke refused to agree and told the senate, "I think all nominations ought to go to committee." McCarl and Elliott clashed several times with administration officials over expenditures.

The salary of comptroller general is $10,000 a year and the appointment is for 15 years.

Former New Hampshire Governor. Brown, a former New Hampshire governor, served only one term in the senate. He was elected in the Democratic sweep of 1932, defeating the veteran George H.

Benning Rites Will Usher In Easter's Dawn

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 30.—(P)—Georgia's vast military reservation will echo to the hymns of faithful thousands assembled at the dawn of Easter morning, next April 9, for the annual outdoor services in a natural amphitheater cut out of a bluff overlooking the Chattahoochee river.

Last year Benning officers counted 10,000 persons at the sunrise service, and predictions this year indicated a crowd of equal or larger proportions.

Brigadier General Asa L. Singleton, post commander, who started the sunrise services when he assumed command here, announced the 1939 program to start at 5:15 o'clock, when the sun is due to appear above the ridge land along the Chattahoochee valley.

Two thousand men of the 29th infantry will form a living cross and join in chorus singing.

Negro troops of the 24th infantry will sing spirituals.

Two bands and trumpeters of both regiments will participate, while the general singing will be led by the large mixed and vested choir of the Fort Benning chapel.

Most of the audience will occupy the bank of the Campbell King horseshoe bowl, which has been terraced for seats, opposite the troop formations.

Visitors from such distant cities as Tallahassee, Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Macon and Atlanta are expected.

As an added touch of southern hospitality on a military reservation, army personnel will serve, without charge, doughnuts and coffee to the visitors who feel the need of refreshment at the early hour.

BUSY DENTIST BUSIER. Dr. Herbert Riemenschneider, of Cleveland, Ohio, besides being a successful dentist, sings in the Orpheus Male Chorus, travels to Pittsburgh once a week, rehearses twice a week, takes special coaching, and "manages to keep busy."

The Pulse Of the People

"MUSIC FESTIVAL" AS NAME FOR PARK

Editor Constitution: If the new city park is to be named for an individual, no more appropriate names could be found than those of Colonel William L. Peel or Harry Atkinson. But instead of a difficult choice among a number of outstanding individuals, the park could most suitably be named "Music Festival" park, thus honoring a notable group of citizens. Since the auditorium, in the minds of many Atlantans, will always be closely linked with cherished memories of our 20 years of Metropolitan opera, we should have some memorial to the men who made this glorious civic event possible.

The Music Festival Association was organized in 1909 to commemorate the opening of the auditorium-armory. It functioned so successfully that the surplus proceeds purchased for the city the splendid organ whose music we still enjoy. The association brought to thousands of Atlantans the wealth of the world's most beautiful music and the world's greatest singers. It gave Atlanta a musical and civic prestige which made the city famous not only over the United States, but even in Europe.

It is interesting to read in the 1911 program that when Caruso sang in "Aida" the year before, that the auditorium was crowded far beyond its seating capacity with an audience of over 7,000 people—"by far the largest audience that great Italian tenor had ever faced in his whole life." At any rate, $12,000 was cleared to pay on the organ.

Now that Atlanta has lost its musical leadership to Dallas and New Orleans, the Music Festival Association's achievement is even more worthy of note, because they accomplished for a score of years a civic glory that Atlanta could not regain this year, though it has three or four times the population it had in 1910.

Some day we shall again have leaders with faith in Atlanta and enthusiasm for taking up the work of the association. In the meantime, I give you the names of Colonel William L. Peel, Harry Atkinson and the Music Festival Association. To choose one of these for the auditorium park will honor not only the name chosen, but Atlanta.

Rivers Hits Freight Differentials In Talk to South Carolina Solons

Declares South Would Become Economic Opportunity No. 1 if Barrier Were Removed; Attends Session of State Planning Bodies.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 30.—(P)—Governor Rivers, of Georgia, told the South Carolina general assembly today that the south would become the nation's "economic opportunity No. 1" instead of "economic problem No. 1" if it were given "equality in freight rates."

Speaking before a joint session of the house and senate, the Georgia Governor pleaded for "a national system of transportation" costs.

Artificial Barrier. "Remove that artificial barrier, not a fundamental barrier, that artificial barrier of cost of transportation," he said, "and the south will move forward."

"I am entirely sympathetic with and understand the problems you are wrestling with," he told the legislators.

"Something must be done," Rivers said, to keep southern young people from going to other states.

The freight rate differential, he said, was "at the bottom of the exodus." He asserted that "once we strike down this fundamental proposition" there would be "a lessening of the problem of government financing."

Against "Isms." Rivers said he was against Communism, Fascism and other "isms" but he thought an attack should be made on "pessimism."

He came here to attend a meeting of the Southeastern Planning Conference.

Charles W. Elliott, second executive officer of the national resources committee, spoke on "State Planning in National Development" today at a conference luncheon.

State planning accomplishments were reviewed at the morning session, and talks on South Carolina's natural resources were planned for the afternoon.

Telling of the work of planning boards in their respective states were H. T. McIntosh, of Albany, Ga.; W. T. Ellis, Nashville, Tenn.; Owen Cooper, Meridian, Miss.; and L. A. Emerson, of Columbia.

George C. Cross, executive secretary of the Georgia board, emphasized the importance of co-operation with the state government in making board work successful.

Gable Bought Carole's New Ring About Time Divorce Was Started

Couple Ready To Move Into New 'Ranch' Home 15 Miles From Hollywood; Clark To Resume Making Love to Vivien at 9 A. M. Today.

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—(P)—that happened on their wedding trip was the hitchhiker at Daggett, Cal., who came over to their car at a gasoline station and said:

"I just heard a broadcast that you were married. May I be the first to ask you for an autograph, Mrs. Gable?"

Carole signed a slip of paper, "Carole Gable."

"Gee!" exclaimed Carole. Mr. Gable has to resume making love to Vivien Leigh, his leading lady, at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Divorced March 7. Maria Langham Gable went to Las Vegas about two months ago and six weeks later, on March 7, obtained her divorce.

Carole and Clark returned from their 725-mile wedding jaunt to Kingman, Ariz., at 4 o'clock this morning, slept a few hours and were up at noon.

They were "at home" at Carole's house, but there was evidence in every room that they will move soon. Dishes and pictures had been packed and Carole said she was moving to Clark's little ranch house in about a week.

"You'll have to put the word ranch in double quotes," laughed Gable. "It's only 14 acres. But we like it, don't we, honey? I ploved it personally and Carole did the interior decorating."

"Ranch" Boasts Mule. The "ranch," about 15 miles from Hollywood, boasts a mule, a hand tractor, walnut trees and chickens. The house is Dutch colonial, seven rooms only.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Far along the world-wide whisper
Of the south wind rushing warm..."

Floridians, trained in the fine art of boasting their state and its manifold gifts of God, miss a trick when they overlook the southern motif. Sometimes, in their invocations to Spain, they forget equally important invocations to the southern states of America—and that is a pity. One of the allures of Florida to people who come there from the north, east and west, is that it is southern, that southern people, customs, charms, smiles, memories, ways and days, are there. The south has a tremendous selling value as a place to come to—but some of our Florida friends are overlooking it. Because they cater mostly to people from above or beyond the south they eliminate the south from their offerings.

Being in the south is as great an asset to Florida as having a blue sea, a healing and blessed breeze, white sands, and a milli lakes, hills and groves. It is one of the things people come to Florida for. The really getting Floridian will take care that it is one of the things people get when they come to Florida.

Florida is an overwhelmingly southern state. Geographically the most southern one of all, it is southern in population too. Fifty per cent of its resident whites were born in the state, and another 25 per cent were born in some other southern state. Three-fourths southern, Florida should consider, too, that the one-fourth of it which isn't southern has come south at any rate and that many of them came anticipating southern ways and days. People from Kalamazoo, Mich., for example, are not half so pleased when they find Florida like Kalamazoo, Mich., as when they find it like Augusta, Ga., Charleston, S. C., Montgomery, Ala., or Richmond, Va.

Who says the south hasn't any statesmen as in olden days? Not the 53 Washington correspondents who picked for Life magazine recently the 10 congressmen they considered most able. Of the 10 selected six were southerners—Hatton Summers, of Texas; Sam Rayburn, of Texas; William B. Bankhead, of Alabama; Clifton A. Woodrum, of Virginia; Lindsay C. Warren, of North Carolina, and Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina. What's more, the cor-

YOUNG EXPLAINS PROSPERITY KEY

Magnate Speaks to Convention in Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 30.—(P)—Owen D. Young, New York industrialist, said today "cheap production is the key to prosperity."

He was a speaker at a convention of the Southeastern Electric Exchange, members of which are utility company executives.

"How long will it take us in America to learn," asked Young, "that production, cheap production, is the key to prosperity and to that economic strength which is the best guardian of democracy both from attacks within and threats without?"

He said the spending of millions to aid recovery is a dose of expensive medicine which does not remedy.

Young called for support of the President in his foreign policy and a reliance on representative government to meet the aggression of totalitarian states.

respondents voted Hatton Summers as possessed of the finest integrity in all the lower house, and Sam Rayburn as having the greatest influence.

C. P. Talbot, of Atlanta, agrees with this column that "you can't increase purchasing power by law or leture, but only by increasing the production of wealth." He suggests, though, that "laws can prevent the citizen" from being able to "increase production of wealth." Well, if he is going to mope up our neat little copybook maxim with an amendment we'll add one too. Ours is that "laws can prevent the crooked or the greedy or the unsocial from producing wealth for themselves in such a manner as to lessen the sum total of all wealth produced."

Neville Chamberlain is doing better these days than some of his idolaters after Munich. He is accepting the fact of his mistake and going ahead on the only possible course remaining, but they are spending all their days in self-conscious effort to prove that even though they were wrong they were real, right. Unseemly as "I told you so's" may be at a time like this, Dorothy Thompson is entitled to all she insists upon.

GOOD MORNING
By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE DOGWOOD. Mrs. Maude Bentley gave me a copy of J. L. Miller's legend of the dogwood the other day, and it comes just at the time when Georgia is once again a fairland of beauty because of the dogwood blossoms. Mr. Miller, by the way, was a former newspaperman in Ozark, Ala. Thinking you might like to have a copy of Mr. Miller's legend, I herewith quote it:

"At the time of the Crucifixion the dogwood attained the size of the oak and other forest trees. So strong and straight was the wood of it that it was chosen for the timber for the Cross. To be thus used for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree, and Jesus smiled upon it, sensed this, and in His gentle pity for sorrow, said to it:

"Because of your regret and pity for my suffering I make you this promise:

"Never again shall the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used for a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and bent and twisted, and

INSTALLMENT X.

Heathcliff—Mr. Heathcliff I should say in future—used the liberty of visiting at Thrushcross Grange cautiously, at first; he seemed estimating how far his owner would bear his intrusion. Catherine, also, deemed it puerile to moderate her expressions of pleasure in receiving him; and he gradually established his right to be expected. My master's uneasiness experienced a lull, and further circumstances diverted it into another channel for a space. His new source of trouble sprang from the not-anticipated misfortune of Isabella Linton evincing a sudden and irresistible attraction towards the tolerated guest. She was at that time a charming young lady of eighteen. Her brother, who loved her tenderly, was appalled at this fantastic preference; he shrank forebodingly from the idea of committing Isabella to his keeping, and laid the blame on Heathcliff's deliberate designing.

We had all remarked, during some time, that Miss Linton fretted and pined over something. She grew cross and wearisome, and one day, when she had been peculiarly wayward, rejecting her breakfast, Catherine insisted that she should get to bed.

"It is only your harshness which makes me unhappy," Isabella said. "When have I been harsh, tell me?" asked Catherine.

"In our walk along the moor: you told me to ramble where I pleased, while you sauntered on with Mr. Heathcliff! You wished me away, because you knew I liked to be there! I wanted to be with—"

"Well!" said Catherine, perceiving her hesitate to complete the sentence. "With him! I won't be always sent off!" she continued, kindling up. "You are a dog in the manger, Cathy, and desire no one to be loved but yourself!"

"You are an impertinent little monkey!" exclaimed Mrs. Linton, in surprise. "But I'll not believe this idiosyncrasy! I hope I have misunderstood you, Isabella."

"No, you have not," said the infuriated girl. "I love him more than ever you loved Edgar!" "For shame! for shame!" cried Catherine. "You are worse than 20 foes, you poisonous friend!" Then she left the room.

"I must suffer for her egotism!" Isabella sobbed. Mr. Heathcliff has an honorable soul, and a true one, or how could he remember her?"

"Banish him from your thoughts, miss," I said. "He's a bird of bad omen; no mate for you."

"You are league with the rest, Ellen!" she replied. "I'll not listen to your slanders!"

Whether she would have got over this fancy if left to herself, or persevered in nursing it perpetually, I cannot say: she had little time to reflect. The day after, there was a justice meeting at the next town; my master was obliged to attend; and Mr. Heathcliff, aware of his absence, called rather earlier than usual. Catherine and Isabella were sitting in the library, on either side of the hearth, when the door opened.

"Come in, that's right!" exclaimed the mistress gaily, pulling a chair to the fire. "Here are two people sadly in need of a Isabella swears that the love Edgar has for me is nothing to that she entertains for you."

The poor thing couldn't bear it: she grew white and red in rapid succession, and while tears beaded her lashes, she began to make use of her nails; and their sharpness presently ornamented Catherine's arms with crescents of red.

"There's a tigress!" exclaimed Mrs. Linton, shaking her hand with pain. "Begone, for God's sake, and hide your vengeful face!" And Isabella left the room.

"The conversation ceased. Mrs. Linton sat down by the fire, flushed and gloomy. He stood on the hearth with folded arms, "Ellen," said he when I entered, "have you seen your mistress?"

"Yes; she's in the kitchen, sir," I answered. "She's sadly put out by Mr. Heathcliff's behaviour; and, indeed, I do think it's time to arrange his visits on another footing."

"This is unsufferable!" he exclaimed. "It is disgraceful that she should own him for a friend, and force his company on me! Call me two men out of the hall, Ellen. Catherine shall linger no longer to argue with the low ruffian—I have humored her enough."

He descended, and bidding the servants wait in the passage, went, followed by me, to the kitchen. Its occupants had recommenced their angry discussion; Mrs. Linton, at least, was scolding with renewed vigour; Heathcliff had moved to the window, and hung his head, somewhat cowed by her violent rating apparently. He saw the master first, and made a hasty motion that she should be silent; which she obeyed, abruptly, on discovering the reason of his intimation.

"How is this?" said Linton, addressing her; "what notion of propriety must you have to remain here, after the language which has been held to you by that blackguard? I suppose, because it is his ordinary talk, you think nothing of it; you are habituated to his baseness, and, perhaps, imagine I can get used to it too."

"Have you been listening at the door, Edgar?"

Heathcliff gave a sneering laugh at the latter.

"I'd wrench them off her fingers, if they ever menaced me," he answered brutally, when the door had closed after her. "But what did you mean by teasing the creature in that manner, Cathy? You were not speaking the truth, were you?"

"I assure you I was," she returned.

At last from their tongues they dismissed Isabella; and Catherine, probably, from her thoughts. The other, I felt certain, recalled it often in the course of the evening.

I saw him smile to himself—grin rather—and lapse into ominous musing whenever Mrs. Linton had occasion to be absent from the apartment.

I determined to watch his movements. I wanted something to happen which might have the effect of freezing both Wuthering Heights and the Grange of Mr. Heathcliff, for his visits were a continual nightmare to me. I felt that God had forsaken the stray sheep there to its own wicked wanderings, and an evil beast prodded between it and the fold, waiting his time to spring and destroy.

The next time Heathcliff came, Isabella chanced to be feeding some pigeons in the court. I was standing by the kitchen window. He stepped across the pavement to her, and supposing himself unseen, the scoundrel had the impudence to embrace her.

Mrs. Linton saw Isabella tear herself free and run into the garden and a minute after, Heathcliff opened the door. I couldn't withhold giving some words to my indignation; but Catherine angrily insisted on silence.

"Hush!" she said, shutting the inner door, and then to Heathcliff: "Don't vex me. Why have you disregarded my request? Did she come across you on purpose?"

"What is it to you?" he growled. "I have a right to kiss her, if she chooses."

"If you like Isabella, you shall marry her. But do you like her? Tell the truth, Heathcliff!"

"And would Mr. Linton approve of his sister marrying that man?" I inquired.

"Mr. Linton should approve," returned my lady decisively. "He might spare himself the trouble," said Heathcliff. "And as to you, Catherine, I have a mind to speak a few words now, while we are at it. I want you to be aware that I know you have treated me infernally; and if you fancy I'll suffer unrevenged, I'll convince you of the contrary. Thank you for telling me your sister-in-law's secret; I swear I'll make the most of it."

He descended, and bidding the servants wait in the passage, went, followed by me, to the kitchen. Its occupants had recommenced their angry discussion; Mrs. Linton, at least, was scolding with renewed vigour; Heathcliff had moved to the window, and hung his head, somewhat cowed by her violent rating apparently. He saw the master first, and made a hasty motion that she should be silent; which she obeyed, abruptly, on discovering the reason of his intimation.

"How is this?" said Linton, addressing her; "what notion of propriety must you have to remain here, after the language which has been held to you by that blackguard? I suppose, because it is his ordinary talk, you think nothing of it; you are habituated to his baseness, and, perhaps, imagine I can get used to it too."

"Have you been listening at the door, Edgar?"

Heathcliff gave a sneering laugh at the latter.

TRACKLESS BUSES MAY BE PLACED ON PIEDMONT LINE Change Is Approved by Public Works Committee; Council Will Give Consideration Monday.

Substitution of trackless trolley buses for motor buses on the Piedmont-Stewart avenue line was unanimously approved yesterday afternoon by the public works committee of council.

The matter will come before city council Monday for final consideration.

Complying with the wishes of residents of Ansley Park, the trackless trolleys will not run within the park but will terminate at Piedmont and The Prado, so far as Ansley Park residents are concerned. Motor buses will cover the same routes in the park as they do now and will supply feeder service for the 40-passenger trolley buses.

Members of the Ansley Park Civic Club, meeting Tuesday, objected to the overhead wires of the trackless trolleys within the park, it was said.

The ordinance which council will consider Monday will provide that the feeder buses must keep a regular schedule with the trackless trolleys. The electrically powered buses will ply the regular motor bus routes through Morningside.

Officials of the Georgia Power Company offered to place the trolley buses in service as rapidly as possible if council approves the change.

The public works committee, of which George Lyle is chairman, advised a proposal to change the name of Luckie and Hemphill streets to Northside drive.

POLAND IS UNITED BY FEAR OF NAZIS

Takes Vigilant Stand Despite Denial That Hitler Has Made Demands.

WARSAW, March 30.—(P)—Opposition political leaders today gave the Polish government assurances which reliable sources said were a pledge of co-operation against any German attempt to "trample on Polish rights."

The Polish press was instructed to inform its readers tomorrow that, contrary to "widespread rumors," Poland had received "no German demands having the character of an ultimatum, nor has any German pressure been exercised."

The press instructions said further that "in view of the fact German circles may be inclined to apply the same methods of surprise to Poland that have been applied to other countries, it is quite natural that the Polish government must take a vigilant stand."

Two council members of the Peasant party, Wladyslaw Witke and Wladyslaw Krzeptowski, called on President Ignace Moscicki to promise their support.

The President, who has had no official contact with opposition political parties for many months, also received eight prominent university professors who are close to the Center Opposition group.

They discussed Poland's foreign policy and advocated a strong stand toward Germany.

It was reported 20 Ukrainians had been arrested at Lwow, in southeast Poland, and other Galician towns, charged with fomenting unrest among Poland's Ukrainian minority.

At Chojnice, in the Polish corridor which Poland fears Germany may seize, a grammar school teacher took her pupils to the German frontier.

"There is the border and we all have to keep it there," she said as the children sang the Polish national anthem.

GEORGIA CCC CAMPS WILL BE INCREASED

Approximately 5,800 Enrollees To Get Work in State This Summer.

Georgia CCC camps will be increased by one to 29 during the April 1-September 30 enrollment period, it was announced yesterday.

The new camp will be located at Magnolia Springs State park, near Milledgeville. It will be opened about July 1.

Four camps now in operation will be abandoned, and replaced by camps in other sections. New camps will be built at Waleka, Cherokee county; Greensboro, Greene county; Gainesville, Hall county; and Royston, Franklin county, to replace camps at Lakeland, Lanier county; Washington, Wilkes county; Sparta, Hancock county; and Buford, Gwinnett county.

Of the 29 camps, five will be located in national forests; six on private forest land; one in the Okefenokee Wildlife Refuge; nine on soil erosion demonstration areas; three at national monuments and five in state parks.

Approximately 5,800 CCC enrollees will be given work in Georgia this summer.

2 INFANTS BURN TO DEATH. TEXARKANA, Ark., March 30. (UP)—Two infant girls were burned to death today when kerosene thrown in a wood fire exploded. A 17-year-old girl was burned so critically that she was not expected to live. All were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Satterfield.

Roosevelt Kept 30-Year Promise In His Visit to Tuskegee Institute Recalls Pledge to Booker T. Washington in Address to Students; President Declares His Pride in School and Urges Co-operation of All People.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 30.—President Franklin Delano Roosevelt visited Tuskegee Institute today and told the students that it gratified a desire which he had cherished for 30 years.

"I have always wanted to come to Tuskegee," the President said. "Thirty years ago I promised Booker T. Washington that some day I was coming to visit this institution. Then in later years I promised Dr. Moton frequently that I would be here, and in more recent years I have given the same pledge to President Peterson. There are those," the President continued, "who charge me with being both persistent and insistent. Well, perhaps I am. Though I was a long time coming here, here I am."

Members of Party. The President was met at the railroad station by President Frederick Douglass Patterson, of Tuskegee Institute, and greeted upon his arrival on the grounds by President Emeritus Robert R. Moton and the chairman of the trustee board, William J. Schieffelin.

In the President's party were Governor Frank L. Dixon, of Alabama; Senator Lister Hill and Congressman Henry B. Steagall. The student body was drawn up in military formation and the famous Tuskegee choir, under the baton of William Dawson, rendered spirituals as the President, seated in an open car, looked down from an elevation upon the massed body of students and visitors.

"I am proud to come to Tuskegee because I am proud of what Tuskegee has done," the President said. "I wish that almost every American could come to Tuskegee and see what has been done. I don't know whether in any individual institution the members of that institution, the faculty and the students realize how much they are being watched by the outside world. The things that they do in their institutions count. But more than that, the things that their graduates do are the things that count very greatly, not only among the body of graduates, not only among their immediate neighbors, but also throughout the state and throughout the nation. I notice because I travel around the country a good deal, the graduates of Tuskegee more than some of you who are right here. I hear about a man or a woman, not only in the lower south, but in the middle of the country, in the north, somebody who is making good, somebody who is having an influence for human service in their community. And then I hear that he or she is a graduate of Tuskegee, and that is what counts.

"I did not come to make a formal address to you. This is a homey gathering. Tuskegee is a homey place. We think, necessarily, and rightly in terms of the American home and you are doing much through your great body of graduates to improve and bring up to higher standards the American home. Today is not the old home of half a century ago, because of necessity with modern inventions it must extend its interest, its contacts with other people in neighboring communities, just in the same way that no one can become entirely self-contained and a state was 20 or 30 years ago. More and more we are becoming a part of a nation which, because of changing conditions means that we have to co-operate all the way down to the smallest unit; from the home to national affairs. Alabama can go its own way, but it must co-operate with the other states; neither can my state of Georgia. More and more they have got to plan for the future, plan for the present; plan to work with the other fellow. And that is one thing you are teaching here at Tuskegee; that is one thing you are learning. That is, that you have got to co-operate with your fellow men and women by co-operating in your own community, in your own state, and throughout the country. And that is why I have been not only interested but very proud of all that your graduates are doing; of the fine spirit of human service that the overwhelming majority of them carry with them throughout their lives."

"Doctor Moton was talking about getting old," the President said, "but there is one thing that he exemplifies and that is the thought that it is a terrible thing for anybody to say, 'Why should I keep on living?' We are realizing more and more that it is a great privilege to be alive no matter what the number of years we have covered. And somebody said it is grand no matter how old you get to keep on living because there is still so much to be done. This is the spirit of you youngsters, the spirit of us in middle life, and it is the spirit increasingly of the older people of our nation. So, my boy and girl friends, keep the ideals of your youth all through your lives. I am happy to have been here. I want to come back some day to see you. I will, if I can. In the meantime, I give you my affectionate regards. Good luck to you in all the days to come."

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Retirement of one Georgia officer in the regular army, and transfer of the graduates was announced yesterday by fourth corps area headquarters. Colonel James H. Bryson, field artillery, and a native of Sharon, will be retired May 31. Major Dover Bell, Carrollton, was ordered from his present station in Philadelphia to William Beaumont General Hospital, El Paso, Texas, and Dr. J. L. Powell, Arlington, was transferred from the coast artillery school, Fort Monroe, Va., to Fort Barrancas, Fla.

Resolutions urging the state highway department to take over Glenwood avenue and Memorial drive as a part of the state highway system will be sponsored in council Monday by Councilman E. A. Minor, he announced yesterday.

Charles Marler, R. B. Estes, Paul Gentry and Kenneth Murrell have been elected representatives of Local No. 3, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, to the annual Georgia Federation of Labor convention in Augusta this year. Edgar Gunn, chairman of the publicity committee, announced yesterday.

Bank clearings totaled $9,000,000 yesterday, an increase of $1,000,000 over the same day a year ago, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported.

Sons of Jewish War Veterans. Post No. 112, will hold a special meeting Sunday at the Henry Grady hotel, it was announced yesterday by Louis Vrono, honorary commander. Special services will be conducted by Mack Frankel, national deputy chief.

Adjutant Louise Baldry will be principal speaker at a fellowship meeting conducted by Salvation Army women of the Southern Training College and women cadets at 8 o'clock tonight at the Army auditorium, 54 Ellis street.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday excused the three jurors subject to call as United States district court finished its criminal calendar for the March term. More than 100 cases were disposed of, mainly violations of alcohol tax laws.

Dr. Frank K. Boland will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in Rich's tea room. His topic will be "How To Lengthen Your Life."

Agnes Scott College will take part in a dual debate tonight with Sophie Newcomb College on the subject "Resolved: That World Democracy Should Be Preserved." Ann Henry and Arlene Steinbach will debate here and Margaret Hopkins and Marjorie Merline will debate at New Orleans.

Dr. Ralph E. Wages will speak at a meeting of the public health

NATIONAL POLICIES CALLED ANTI-SOUTH

Senator Bailey Blasts Freight Rates in Symposium on Dixie's Plight.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 30.—(P)—In a symposium here tonight one speaker blamed low wages, illiteracy and the like for the south's economic plight; another blamed national policy, and a third pointed to what he termed Dixie's lack of machinery to convert its natural wealth to the uses of its people.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, a member of the southern economic council which made a report on the south describing it as the nation's No. 1 economic problem, took the first view.

"Southern states have abundant natural resources and more than a third of the nation's good farming land," he said, "but we have the most eroded soils, the poorest housing and health record, the least organization of labor, the most tenants and sharecroppers, the lowest wages and purchasing power, the highest interest rate, the highest illiteracy, the least per capita book circulation, and the lowest proportion of students in high school and college."

Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, cited data on wages and income and what he termed the "simple facts of current record" in his contention that "there is no nation's problem here except the problem of a just national policy."

Resources Cited. The national policy, he asserted, for the last 80 years has favored other regions and has been adverse to the south.

John Rust, of Memphis, Tenn., co-inventor of the cotton picking machine, said that the south was not only the nation's No. 1 economic problem but was also the nation's greatest untapped market.

"Despite the south's natural power resources," he said, "its potentialities have been neglected and its opportunities unrealized. The south's poor in machinery for converting its natural wealth to the uses of its people."

The symposium was presented in a coast-to-coast radio broadcast of "America's Town Meeting of the Air" as a part of the program of the fifth human relations institute at the University of North Carolina.

Attacks Rail Rates. The broadcast was presented in co-operation with the Carolina Political Union, a non-partisan student organization which has brought President Roosevelt and a number of other speakers of varying political shades here.

Said Dr. Graham: "This section (the south) was 28 per cent of the population, receives only nine per cent of the nation's income, pays 60 per cent of the country's fertilizer bill, educates 33 per cent of the nation's children, pays only 12 per cent of the national income tax, has less than 11 per cent of the nation's deposits and has less than one billion dollars of the nation's more than 28 billions of insurance assets."

"Freight rates," Bailey said, "have long been higher in southern territory than in northern and are a factor for the north and against the south."

"The federal government subsidized great railroad systems from the west to the north and not a mile in the south or to the south. There were billions in pensions to Union soldiers, none to the south."

"Immense sums have been spent developing canals, rivers, harbors and ports serving the north—comparatively small sums in the south."

"The congress," the senator said, "has maintained an external tariff policy frankly contrived to aid northern industry at the expense of the south."

He said only two American farm crops were taxed by the federal government. "Both are southern crops: one tobacco . . . the other cotton . . ."

ADVISORY COUNCIL URGED FOR SOLONS

Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell Also Advocates Four-Year Gubernatorial Term.

SPARTA, Ga., March 30.—(P)—Changes in the Georgia political system to provide a legislative council to advise sessions of the Georgia general assembly and establish a four-year term for the Governor were proposed here tonight.

Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell, of Emory University, widely known authority on political science, pointed to the recently adjourned legislature and commented that the assembly "could have accomplished vastly more with a legislative council."

This body, as advocated by the professor before a citizenship institute here tonight, would be composed of less than 25 members and would meet regularly at least once a quarter to plan for future legislation.

A research authority to study conditions and suggest policies for the legislature to formulate at the regular session would be employed. "No end of time and trouble could have been saved if facts on state taxes had been prepared previously, for the 1939 general assembly," Dr. Gosnell said. "Also, advance planning would have brought more systematic operation of the legislative machinery."

"This plan has been tried with notable success in several other states. Certainly it is time that Georgia gave it a trial in an effort to avoid a recurrence of the 1939 legislature."

"The joint session . . . revealed a definite need for a four-year Governor's term. Much time was wasted by factions squabbling in obvious efforts to determine candidates for the 1940 gubernatorial election. Such bickering only nullified efforts to provide a much-needed revamping of our tax system."

committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building. His topic will be "How To Stamp Out Syphilis in Georgia."

Sam Lowe Jr., son of Dr. S. F. Lowe, pastor of Inman Park Baptist church, and Mrs. Lowe, of 432 Candler street, has been named on the dean's list at Mercer University, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Mollie Frierson, of 69 Fifth street, N. W., was reported in serious condition at Crawford W. Long hospital from injuries received Tuesday when she fell down an embankment in front of her home, striking her head on the pavement.

Mrs. Mae Varner, Marietta beauty parlor operator, injured Wednesday night when her automobile collided with a street car on Peachtree road near Brookwood station, was reported improved at Crawford W. Long last night.

JAPANESE STRIKE AT FOREIGN POWERS

Decide to Repudiate All Loans or Credits to Chiang's Government.

SHANGHAI, March 30.—(P)—The Japanese-dominated Peiping and Nanking governments aimed two blows today at foreign influence in China, apparently after setting the stage by a campaign in Chinese newspapers published in Japanese-occupied cities.

A joint meeting of ministers of the puppet regime at Nanking: 1. Decided to repudiate all loans of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek; 2. Approved a statement "denouncing foreign powers which are giving assistance to the Chiang Kai-shek regime."

The two governments, which Japan recognizes as heirs to governmental authority in northern and central China, declared jointly they would refuse to respect the vested rights or interests of powers assisting Chiang.

U. S. Gave $25,000,000. (The United States last December made credits of $25,000,000 available to the Chinese government and Britain backed a $25,000,000 loan to support China's currency two weeks ago.)

Translations from the Japanese-controlled press in Shanghai, Nanking and Hangchow in the past ten days show similarity in attacks on Occidental nations in editorials, language and slogans, hinting at common inspiration.

Foreign observers point out that Chinese newspapers in Japanese-occupied cities are published under strict supervision of the Japanese army's special service section which has acknowledged that its work includes propaganda for Chinese-Japanese collaboration.

Demand New Order. All the editorials emphasize Japan's friendly motives toward China and repeatedly demand a "new order in Asia"—which is Japan's current slogan.

"East Asia for the people of East Asia" is one recurring theme. Another urges a common front of yellow races for complete equality with the "ferocious" white race.

The United States, France and Soviet Russia are mentioned but almost all single out Britain. They charge her with attempts to enslave China's millions, nefarious exploitation schemes, trying to make China "another India" and attempting to dismember China through credits to Chiang.

Providence, Jersey Win Safety Awards. CHICAGO, March 30.—(P)—Providence, R. I., and the state of New Jersey were named grand prize winners today in the national traffic safety contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

Six other cities and three other states won first-place awards in their divisions of the contest. States were grouped geographically and cities by population.

Cleveland Milwaukee tied for first place among cities of 500,000 or more population. Other winners were Trenton, N. J., the 100,000-250,000 group; Saginaw, Mich., in the 50,000-100,000 group; Waukegan, Ill., in the 25,000-50,000 group; Mason City, Iowa, in the 10,000-25,000 group. Providence, R. I., won first place in the 250,000-500,000 group, in addition to winning a grand award.

States which won first place in their divisions were Oklahoma in the southern division, Iowa in the midwestern division, Washington in the western division. New Jersey won first place in the eastern division in addition to winning the national grand award.

Mrs. Lessie Ulmer, O. E. S. Leader, Dies. Georgia Worthy Grand Matron Succumbs After Three-Month Illness.

Mrs. Lessie Ulmer, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star in Georgia, died last night at a private hospital after an illness of three months. She was 40 years old and resided at 598 Cresthill avenue, N. E.

Mrs. Ulmer was the wife of Harry O. Ulmer. She was a native of Valdosta, Ga., and had lived here for about two years.

Well known in fraternal circles throughout the state, Mrs. Ulmer leaves a wide circle of friends. She was a member of Peachtree Christian church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a son, Harry O. Ulmer Jr., of Valdosta; three sisters, Mrs. R. G. Herbert, of Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. D. T. Lyman, of Tampa, Fla.; and Mrs. C. S. Garcia, of Bartow, Fla., and four brothers, J. W. Collins, of Albany, Ga.; O. C. Collins, and G. L. Collins, of Memphis, Tenn., and R. O. Collins, of Tallahassee, Florida.

The body will lie in state today at the Peachtree chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor, and will be taken to Valdosta tomorrow for funeral services and interment Sunday.

and chamber of deputies, was reported by informed sources to be trying to induce President Albert Lebrun to accept another term. Election of a new president of France is scheduled for April 5.

Observers interpreted the three-day pressure to keep Lebrun in office as a move to maintain France's domestic and political balance during tense international developments.

Flower Lovers Visit Three Cities, Nearing End of Garden Pilgrimage

LaGrange and Newnan Tours Follow Morning Trip to Fort Benning; Athens on Schedule Today Before Climax in Atlanta During Week End.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. NEWNAN, Ga., March 30.—Despite bad weather earlier in the day, approximately 200 garden lovers from throughout Georgia paused in Newnan today to visit the gardens at "Bankshaven," beautiful estate of Mr. and Mrs. William Banks, on Pearl Lake, near here, as part of the third annual garden club pilgrimage.

Coming in for the principal share of attention were the formal English gardens, now starred with tulips and Easter lilies. Of equal interest to many, however, was the spacious home of Italian renaissance design, at the top of a sweeping lawn on the shores of the lake.

Out-of-state visitors to "Bankshaven" found the large wooded estate of paramount interest, covering many acres and containing almost every variety of native Georgia shrubs and plants. In the wooded land, visitors found azaleas, redbud and dogwood, the outstanding sights in a forest of flowers.

The pilgrimage will visit Athens tomorrow, and will come to a close in Atlanta the first three days of April.

CALLAWAY GARDENS VISITED IN LAGRANGE. Special to THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., March 30.—LaGrange was visited today for the third annual pilgrimage of the garden clubs of Georgia, the century-old gardens at Hills and Dales, estate of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller E. Callaway Jr., attracting about 200 visitors to the city.

Begun more than 11 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Mickleberry Ferrell, the gardens were inherited by the late Sarah Coleman and Blount Ferrell, and more recently by the late Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Callaway Sr. The formal lines of the gardens are perfect examples of Italian renaissance design, and form an ideal setting for the Italian villa which is the Callaway home.

Plant boxwood lines a lover's lane that leads to the west garden, where smaller boxwood fashions the Ferrell motto, "God Is Love" and "Fiat Justitia," and the Callaway coat-of-arms motto, "Ora Pro Mi" and "St. Callaway."

There, too, is a complete church of boxwood, an organ, pulpit, lyre and choir box.

Stops were made at the new theater, the chapel where three faiths were in the same edifice, the charming rustic building that is the Girl Scouts' little house, and the museum. The tour ended with luncheon at the Officers' Club.

The pilgrimage left Benning and Columbus this afternoon to move on to LaGrange and Newnan.

BEER FOR A KING BREWED BY PRINCE GIVEN BY LABORER. LONDON, March 30.—(UP)—King George was presented today with a bottle of beer brewed by his brother, the Duke of Windsor, who abdicated the throne in George's favor.

The King noticed the bottle in a place of honor at the home of John Layton, a brewer's laborer, which he and the Queen visited on a tour of a home for the aged.

Layton, explaining that the brew was laid down by the then Prince of Wales in 1932, asked the King to take it along as a keepsake if he cared to. His majesty assented and sent his equerry later to fetch the beer.

CLIPPER ARRIVES SAFELY AT LISBON. LISBON, March 30.—(P)—The Yankee Clipper, giving its 21 passengers and crewmen a preview of the trans-Atlantic air service of the future, arrived here today after a 7-hour 7-minute hop from the Azores.

Huge crowds lined the banks of the River Tagus as Pan-American Airways' 42-ton flying boat alighted on the calm surface of the river at 10:21 a. m., Atlantic time.

It was a bright, sunny day with a slight northwest wind and only a few white clouds flecking the sky.

The crew and passengers, including Pan-American engineers and United States government observers, were greeted at the gaily decorated air terminal by United States Minister Herbert Claiborne Pell, consular attaches, the British air attaché and Portuguese aviation officials.

Today's hop was the second leg of the flight of the huge 74-passenger commercial plane which left Baltimore last Sunday.

More than 250,000 of whom already are building highways, bridges, railroads, streets and homes for the reconstruction.

The food situation was improving. An estimated $750,000 worth of supplies came to the city in a seemingly endless line of trucks following the surrender on Tuesday.

Robbing, sacking and pillaging. Sabotage of mails, telegraphs, telephones, railways, street cars, subways, factories and electricity, water service and industrial installations.

Keeping pace with these measures were steps toward reconstruction which Generalissimo Franco ordered pushed with all possible speed.

Engineers began drafting plans to rebuild the University City on the edge of Madrid and other shell-torn sectors of the fallen capital and the ports of Valencia, Almeria, Cartagena and Alicante. Franco expected to use a large part of his 600,000 prisoners, more

STATE JOB CUTS FACE LEGAL SNAG

1937 Act Gave Revenue Commissioner Exclusive Power to Fire Employees.

By The Associated Press. Capitol conjecture centered yesterday on the possibility of a legal obstacle arising in Governor Rivers' course of slashing departmental budgets and personnel due to lack of funds to pay current appropriations.

The possible snag related to the department of revenue. It was pointed out that the 1937 act reorganizing the state's tax collecting agency gave the revenue commissioner exclusive authority to hire and fire his employees and fix their salaries without approval of the Governor.

Revenue Commissioner Grady Head eliminated 47 workers in the face of the impending budget prunings and Governor Rivers wrote off 42 more in making drafts of the closing quarter departmental allowances to become effective tomorrow.

Capitol reports said the department's motor vehicle division would receive a personnel reduction from a normal of 34 to 22. Commissioner Head would not comment on the speculations.

The revenue reorganization act giving the commissioner authority over his personnel "provided, however, that all employees engaged directly or indirectly in the assessment, investigation or collection of tax under this act shall be employed upon a fixed salary basis and not upon a commission or a contingent fee basis."

It provided further that any salary in excess of $300 per month, "shall be subject to the approval of the Governor."

Governor Rivers was in speaking trip, continuing, meanwhile, his examination of budgets preparatory to fixing fourth-quarter limitations.

"DEPLORABLE SITUATION" AT STATE HOSPITAL. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 30.—(P)—Captain Frank W. Spencer, member of the State Board of Public Welfare, today issued the following statement on conditions facing the Milledgeville state hospital:

"It has come to my attention that considerable criticism has been aroused over the fact that patients of many years' standing in the Milledgeville state hospital are being sent to the county jails. Some of the patients have been in Milledgeville for upwards of 20 years. Many of the families of these unfortunate have passed away and others who are still living, are distressed over the situation for the reason that they have no means of taking care of these people if they are sent home."

"Governor Rivers, at the instance of the State Board of Public Welfare, which has charge of state institutions, made an earnest appeal to the general assembly to pass a deficiency measure which would take care of the inmates of Milledgeville state hospital and other eleemosynary institutions of the state for the next two years. Milledgeville state hospital has a deficiency at this time of approximately $375,000 and the legislature passed a small deficiency bill which will only serve in small measure to pay some of past-due debts of long standing against the hospital. The Governor, who is an ex-officio member of the State Board of Public Welfare, left no stone unturned to bring the above conditions before the general assembly."

"I am submitting this article to the newspapers with the hope that it may be passed to all newspapers throughout the state in order that the public may have a clear understanding of the deplorable situation now existing in the state of Georgia."

PROGRESS REPORTED ON CLUB CAMPAIGN. Goal Set for $10,000 to Carry on Work of Atlanta Boys' Club.

"Substantial progress" was reported yesterday in the campaign to raise $10,000 to carry on the work of the Atlanta Boys' Club during the coming year.

Henry C. Heinz, president, announced that several contributions of $1000 have been received in addition to a large number of smaller gifts.

Organized last summer, the club began operation in July on a budget of $8,000 based on estimated membership of 600 during the first year. It now has a membership of 800 which will require a larger outlay during the next fiscal period.

Backed by some of Atlanta's leading business and professional men, the club has as its main purpose the providing of wholesome recreation and entertainment for underprivileged boys.

Headquarters are maintained at 314 Washington street, S. W., where members have access to a gymnasium, a library, art room, workshop and game rooms.

NOTED SPECIALIST TO VISIT ATLANTA

Medical Associations Plan Big Welcome for Dr. C. C. Little.

Dr. C. C. Little, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, is scheduled to reach Atlanta from Chicago at 8:20 o'clock this morning for a visit sponsored by the Fulton County Medical Society, the cancer commission of the Medical Association of Georgia and the Georgia division of the Women's Field Army for Control of Cancer. He is to be honored guest at dinner at the Biltmore hotel at 7 o'clock tonight. From 8:30 to 9 o'clock he is to be interviewed over WSB in a broadcast that will formally launch the Women's Field Army cancer control educational campaign in the states of Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas.

The campaign is one to save human lives through spreading knowledge about signs and symptoms of cancer and inducing people to apply to their family doctors for early diagnosis and treatment. The Woman's Field Army slogan is "Early Cancer Is Curable; Neglected Cancer Fatal." The campaign in Georgia will reach its peak in April, which has been designated by President Roosevelt and also by Governor Rivers as cancer control month.

Attending will be: Dr. E. H. Green, president of the Fulton County Medical Association; Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens; Dr. C. C. Harold, of Atlanta; Georgia representative on the board of directors of the American Society for Control of Cancer; Dr. J. L. Campbell, chairman of the cancer commission of the Medical Association of Georgia; Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the State Department of Public Health; Robert F. Maddox, president, State Board of Public Health.

Dr. Grady Coker, of Canton, president Medical Association of Georgia; Dr. William H. Myers, of Savannah, president-elect Medical Association of Georgia; Mrs. Besie Shaw Stafford, fifth district vice commander of the Women's Field Army; Mrs. Byron H. Matthews, colonel for Fulton county; Mrs. D. D. McMaster, DeKalb county colonel; Mrs. Joseph F. Gatins, of the advisory board, who has been engaged in cancer control work in Paris; Frank M. Berry, cashier of the First National Bank, and treasurer of the cancer control campaign for the fifth district.

CHANGE OF VENUE DENIED POLICEMEN

P. E. Jones and J. T. Mitchell Face Bribe Charge Trial Monday.

Denying a motion for a change of venue, Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton county superior court, yesterday ordered cases against two Atlanta policemen—P. E. Jones and J. T. Mitchell—placed on calendars for trial Monday.

A sharp exchange between William Schley Howard, chief defense counsel, and E. E. (Shorty) Andrews, racket prosecutor, impelled Judge Humphries to admonish both attorneys.

"I think these men can get a fair trial in Fulton county, and if the attorneys will refrain from personalities and injection of irrelevant matters into the case and co-operate with the court as it proposes to do with them, I know the defendants will receive fair treatment," Judge Humphries said. Howard exhibited several score affidavits purporting to show that Fulton county citizens have been prejudiced in the cases because of the wide publicity given the indictments, and Andrews countered with a group of similar statements, some from jurors, intended to show that no prejudice exists.

The officers are indicted on six counts alleging they accepted bribes totaling $180 from Byron Shaw and Hugh Downs, both of whom are well known in law enforcement circles.

FOES OF MERGER MEET TOMORROW

Laymen's Organization Will Discuss Plans Here.

Opponents of the merger of the southern and northern branches of the Methodist Church will meet here tomorrow to complete plans for taking legal action against the union.

Collins Denny Jr., of Richmond, Va., attorney and chairman of the legal committee of the Laymen's Organization for the Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church, will attend the meeting and will broadcast at 9:30 o'clock tonight over WSB.

Sessions will begin with a meeting of the executive committee at 10 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel, to be followed by a meeting of the legal committee. A special committee of seven will meet in the afternoon.

BUILDING, LOAN GROUPS HELP 11,500 FAMILIES

The 55 Georgia savings, building and loan associations affiliated with the Federal Home Loan Bank have helped 11,500 Georgia families to buy their homes, Francis F. Shurling, state director of the National Emergency Council, said yesterday in a radio address.

In addition, he said 20,000 Georgians have entrusted $12,000,000 of their savings to these institutions. The loan bank, established in 1932, has 12 regional offices, and is the largest home finance credit reservoir in the world, with assets in excess of four billion dollars.

"How Can I Have Friends, Without Money?" Asks High School Boy

Youth Should Develop Interest in Hobbies

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I'm a boy 15 years old with nothing to look forward to. I get up, go to school, come home and stay there until time to go to school again. There are plenty of places I would like to go but when you haven't a nickel to your name you can't go anywhere. The family income is above average but my parents refuse to give me an allowance and only enough spending money to buy my lunch at school. They say save out of that but I'm always hungry at noon time. I have interests I would like to carry out—but how? I'd like to have friends which I can't have with no money to spend. Please answer quickly as life is getting me more miserable every day.

UNLUCKY.

Answer: Now, my boy, you can't lay the blame for your misery on your family. While everybody will agree with you that a lad your age should have an allowance, mainly to teach him how to spend and save sensibly, if your parents don't see it that way, there's no earthly reason why you shouldn't get out and hustle to find some afternoon jobs that will put pep in your heart and change in your purse.

Leaving out the question of money (it doesn't make us happy), there are all sorts of hobbies for boys your age and you should be developing interest in several while you are in school. Manual hobbies such as wood work, cabinet and carving, scientific hobbies and, best of all, nature hobbies that will take you outdoors. Your parents are giving you a chance at education and you are getting by with a minimum of work: simply studying your lessons and not trying to interest yourself in anything else.

I know a youngster several years younger than you who could write a readable article on what he's discovered about birds. He's familiar with every feathered thing that flits through his neighborhood, spring and fall, as well as those that stay with him the year around. Any day you can see him peering through his second-hand binoculars (bought with money he earned) studying the habits of his feathered friends. He has a collection of nests, eggs and stuffed birds that have a substantial commercial value.

Lincoln and Edison and many of our national heroes were reared in the poorest sort of homes but their poverty didn't put them to griping, it put them to work. They thought they were lucky to have bread and meat. They were and so are you.

Life is miserable for everybody that sits around home and wishes he had cash and friends and amusements. We have to push out the misery with work and even if the work doesn't yield us all the money we want, it provides interests and amusements that make us happy. Look around you and see if you can find one happy person, old or young, who hasn't plenty of friends.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Rejuvenation Diet Tends To Build Up Your Vite

By Dr. William Brady.

The character of the diet has something to do with the degenerative changes of premature old age, changes which begin normally in individuals past their prime, after middle age, but in others as early as 30 or 35.

It should be clearly understood that the dietary suggestions offered here are not suitable for and might do harm in cases of anemia, chronic nephritis, myocarditis, diabetes, cancer, tuberculosis, apoplexy. Only the physician who knows the patient's condition and the individual requirements can advise intelligently about the diet in any such circumstance.

Senile degeneration manifests itself in various ways in various cases. Some of the more familiar manifestations are a gradually increasing disinclination or inability to exercise or make a physical effort which one formerly enjoyed doing; the occurrence of digestive difficulties or discomforts, such as "gas," bloating, sour stomach and a sense of torpor and heaviness after eating; insidious development of so-called "neurotic trouble," headaches, dizziness, dry, harsh skin, dull heavy eyes, accumulation of flabby corpulence, noticeable puffing or shortness of breath on exertion. Individuals training for early senile decline frequently monkey for years with the "acidosis" nonsense. If by chance a medical examination is made, say for life insurance or for appointment in some coveted position, the blood pressure may be found above normal. At just what point actual hardening of the arteries, arteriosclerosis, begins, it is difficult to determine by the senses or by the most accurate or precise diagnostic apparatus. Can you tell the instant the hair begins to turn gray or the week or month the body begins to lose the elasticity or resilience of youth?

Any change of diet that will reduce the proportion of the daily energy requirement derived from refined carbohydrate (sugars and starches and innumerable dishes made chiefly with sugar, cornstarch or refined white flour) and increase the proportion derived from milk, eggs, fresh vegetables, fresh fruits and whole cereals such as wheat, oats, unpolished rice, will tend to build up vite and may therefore be regarded as a rejuvenation diet.

Professor Sherman estimates (Food Products, Macmillan) that about one-fourth of the daily calories of the average individual in the United States are obtained from sugar, and the daily intake of protein, phosphorus, calcium, iron and vitamins is proportionately diminished. Recent investigations indicate that we cannot assume that the ordinary diet provides such an abundance of these elements that the high per capita sugar consumption is of no consequence. Sherman suggests it would be an improvement if sugar consumption were reduced and the needed energy obtained by increasing the consumption of other food materials. For vite's sake I would say especially more fresh fruits and more salads (raw vegetable dishes), greens and milk or milk products.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Potassium Chloride.

Your suggestion that persons suffering with allergic rhinitis, hay fever, asthma, sinusitis and the emmitic is made, say for life insurance or for appointment in some coveted position, the blood pressure may be found above normal. At just what point actual hardening of the arteries, arteriosclerosis, begins, it is difficult to determine by the senses or by the most accurate or precise diagnostic apparatus. Can you tell the instant the hair begins to turn gray or the week or month the body begins to lose the elasticity or resilience of youth?

Answer—Potassium chloride is described in the National Formulary, but is not listed in the Pharmacopoeia. It has a salty taste, but five grains in a glass of water is almost tasteless.

Smart Cape-Ensemble by Barbara Bell

It's a truly inspired design (1707-B) for the cape-ensemble that every smart woman wears, more than any other single type, for afternoon and shopping during the late spring, and all through the summer. Notice, in the small sketch, how excellent lines the dress has, even without the cape. The waistline is lifted in front, to flatten the diaphragm, and gathers just above give bosom fullness. The skirt is slim-hipped, but has grace and animation because of the inverted pleat and blouse flare at the hem.

High-shouldered, with convenient arm-slits, the cape is just the right length to minimize your hips. Thin wool, flat crepe, georgette and chiffon are smart fabrics for a cape ensemble like this. You'll want a cotton version, later on. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1707-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 3/8 yards of 39-inch material for the dress and 2 1/2 yards for the cape; 2 1/3 yards to line cape. Send for Barbara Bell's spring pattern book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners. Price of pattern 15 cents. Price of pattern book, 15 cents. Heavy Eaters Should Break Habit

By Ida Jean Kain.

Some women just don't try! I am talking about the ones I saw at a social affair the other evening. They were all between 40 and 55 and so expensively groomed that presumably they have both the time and the money to make themselves unusually attractive.

But they were not up to their husbands and, generally speaking, the contrast was appalling. On the average the men were trim and spruce with that air of alertness which seems to characterize the successful businessman. Eight out of every ten of the women were grossly overweight—and avoidpous never appears to such disadvantage as in formal evening gowns!

So many of them were obese that I wondered whether they might not be among the 5 per cent who are gluttonously overweight. But I got the right answer at dinner. As a typical example, one who was about 50 pounds overweight said she hadn't eaten since three o'clock in the afternoon. She was too hungry to wait for the soup so she signalled to a waiter to bring some butter and she filled in with the rolls.

From there on she took everything in her stride. She had a second serving of the fried scallops, then went through the main course like a hungry farmhand. When the dessert arrived, it proved to be a particularly rich ice cream and someone remarked how rich it was. Our fat heroine paused only to say, "Yes, isn't it? But awfully good!" And she polished that off.

Usually you will find me fighting on the side of the women. There are so many who have a struggle, and I mean a struggle, to make ends meet, raising their families, and help their husbands haul themselves up the ladder of success by their bootstraps. They have very little money and not very many minutes out of the day to spend on themselves.

But these women were not in that category. They either didn't care, or they liked their food too well. Either way, it is a mistake! It is really tragic for food to be so important to a woman that she disregards her health and appearance. Overindulgence in food to that extent is as bad as overindulgence in alcohol—and probably the habit is just as hard to break! Any woman who can do an about face and reduce after she has allowed herself to become excessively overweight certainly deserves all the credit in the world.

It is hard enough to conquer an appetite that is only a little too large but it takes a heroic struggle to stay on a diet when you have been overeating for years. Your diet itself, however, will help you. Your menus should be high in protein, vitamins and minerals, so have lean meat twice a day, one egg, two glasses of skim milk or buttermilk and liberal servings of green leafy vegetables and fresh fruits.

The butter must be restricted to three pats, each one-fourth of an inch thick, per day and the bread to four slices of whole wheat. In addition, the reducer should have daily one concentrated A, B, D vitamin capsule.

With excessive overweight, it is a temptation to see how fast you can reduce it, but you should never try to lose faster than two pounds per week.

Once you have won the battle with your appetite, you will find an improvement in your health and well-being as you reduce, not to mention your appearance! If you will follow the balanced menus, take the weight off slowly and exercise every day, you can shed years with the pounds.

Send for the "Pointers to Slimness" and the "Reducer's Recipes." All you have to do to obtain these leaflets is write Ida Jean Kain, care of The Atlanta Constitution, and enclose a large, adequately stamped return envelope.

A Bride's House With Lasting Qualities

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

Oh me, oh my. . . I remember when Nell R. was born. So it was quite a blow to find her grown up and married when I went back to my old home town recently.

Her new little house is very fresh and bride-y. Yet very practical, livable and furnished with chests, tables, cabinets, chairs that she won't blush for fifty years hence—simple finely made pieces of authentic design. Style and smartness are there in the pieces that will be changed more often, the upholstered chairs, the curtains, the accessories. The walls throughout the little cottage are painted cream, but Nell hasn't let this spell "commonplace" in her home. Instead, she's made the most of it. In the living room, for instance, the curtains and slip covers are in a large scale flowered chintz with a cream ground, and the rug is a soft sage green. For accent odd cushions in a deep red, and silver for accessories.

POISE IN A SMALL HOUSE.

The dining room and the guest room are both done in the same colors and material—which gives a feeling of spaciousness and poise to a small house.

Nell's room has curtains in cream nixon draped softly and fully and tied back in big swooping loops, and the bedspread is

Hollywood Snoop Brings News of Stars and Pictures

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—"The Old Maid" . . . "A bit of luck getting Bette Davis for this picture, what?" says Director Edmund Goulding, pointing to Miss Davis in a pink hoop dress of the Civil War period, rushing into the Philadelphia railroad station. Her object—to act as shock absorber to George Brent, who has just arrived from Europe to marry Bette's sister (Miriam Hopkins), who married someone else two hours before. In the story, Bette and George go away together for a week end (the influence of "Yes, My Darling Daughter") but Bette is not as fortunate as Priscilla Lane was. There is a baby.

I congratulate Miss Davis on "Dark Victory." "I haven't seen it yet," she tells me. "But wasn't everyone marvelous to me?" "So you read your reviews," I comment. "That's different," says Bette. "Besides, I'm saving those for my grandchildren. . . . Oh," she adds as a sudden thought strikes her, "I shall have to have children before grandchildren. Won't I—and that doesn't seem likely at the moment." And she laughs and goes into her scene.

"How do you enjoy directing the first lady of the screen?" I ask Goulding. "It's easy," he replies. "She obeys the director implicitly. At the end of each day, we discuss the work for the next. If she has any ideas of her own, she says so then. And we don't have to talk about it again if she does something I don't like, all I have cream candlewick. The furniture, painted light green, has small flowered garlands painted on it, and the rug is an all-over floral.

Because of the subtle simplicity of the decorative scheme, you have a feeling that the house itself has more dignity and size than it really has.

A Defensive Ducking Play Illustrated

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Ducking-play strategy by the defending side is usually confined to the opening leader.

Plays of this type by partner of the opening leader are employed only when it is a certainty the leader's hand is trickless, and because of this fact, there is, apparently, more to be gained by fooling declarer than could possibly be lost by misleading defending partner.

MAKES ADDED TRICKS.

In general, a defender refuses to win a trick for the principle purpose of creating an entry for partner or to establish a tenace position over declarer.

The following diagram is a fair illustration of a defensive ducking play:

S—9 (4)
H—A 7 6 4
S—(A) 10 2
S—Q J (3)
H—Q J 10 5

Against North-South's notrump contract, West opens the Spade 6 and as dummy plays the Spade 4, East wins with the Ace, declarer playing the Spade 3.

RETURNS HIGHEST CARD.

At the second trick, East returns the Spade 10, his highest card in partner's suit. West is able to place the Spade Queen and Jack in the closed hand and feels certain East holds one more spade, unquestionably the spade deuce.

Declarer covers East's King and returns with the Jack. If West wins with the King and returns a spade, declarer wins with the Spade Queen.

WEST DUCKS JACK.

The only way West can get the most out of his spade suit is to deliberately duck South's Jack by playing low, trusting defending partner, East, will be able to regain the lead later in the play and send his Spade deuce through declarer.

If West ducks the Spade Jack and East can lead spades through declarer, West will be able to cash two extra spade tricks.

East's Heart King makes it possible for this to be accomplished. 'Til tomorrow . . .

Here's Booklet Of Cowboy Favorites

On parties, dates, get out the songbooks—and take turns picking tunes. Many will like "Red River Valley."

"Come and sit by my side if you love me, Do not hasten to bid me adieu; But remember the Red River Valley."

And the girl that has loved you so true, And here's one that calls for good old-fashioned feeling: "O bury me not on the lone prairie."

These words came low and mournfully, From the pallid lips of a youth who lay On his dying bed at the close of day.

Roundly you hiss the villain in the song "Jesse James"—particularly if you saw the moving picture about that bold dashing Jesse: "But that dirty little coward That shot Mister Howard Has laid poor Jesse in his grave."

At times one, "The Yellow Rose of Texas," is grand to wind up the evening:

"I'll pick my banjo gaily, Just like I did of yore, And the Yellow Rose of Texas, She'll be mine for evermore."

Get into the swing with heart-warming western songs. Our 50-page songbook, Western Heart Throbs, has 27 sure-fire hits—cowboy favorites, ballads of the plains. Complete with words, music, piano accompaniments, guitar diagrams. Easy to sing and play. Send 15 cents in coins for our songbook, Western Heart Throbs, to Home Institute Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of book.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Is there any way to remove the strong flavor from beef fat, so that it may be used for cooking?

A. Heat the fat with sweet milk to the boiling point. Stir it constantly while heating, then cool and remove the cake of solid fat from the top. To make the fat plastic, melt it and mix with enough oil, chicken fat, or lard for the desired consistency.

Q. When a child is restless and grits his teeth at night does that indicate worms?

A. Not necessarily. These symptoms are often signs that the child has gone to bed too tired; or of enlarged adenoids, improper food for supper, too many or too few bedclothes, or tight nightclothes.

Q. What was the birth rate in the United States in 1937?

A. It was 17 per 1,000 estimated population and slightly higher than the rates for 1936 and 1935.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service, Room 313, 13th Street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone; write as directed.

MY DAY: "Such As I Have Give I to Thee—"

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Yesterday, with one of Anna's friends, we lunched out on a green lawn overlooking the lake, with the mountains in the distance. This little taste of outdoor life is a real joy to me, and I must say that, to live in the city and be able to have some of the joys of the country so close at hand, has many advantages.

Another great pleasure is that, as a rule, I find Anna's friends most congenial. With one's family and friends, one sometimes has to like "their friends," because they are "their friends." But, when you can like them for themselves, it adds to the joys of even casual acquaintanceships.

We basked in the sun until 3:30, and then came home to do a little real work on the ever-accumulating mail. Just as I was dictating the column yesterday, there was a strange whizzing sound, and the typewriter ceased to work. Miss Thompson looked at me and said, "The spring has gone," and then with a funny little smile, she added: "It is a most considerate typewriter, after six years, to have waited until we were here where we can borrow another one until this is mended. It might so easily have gone back on us on a train or somewhere that we would have been without one." So, if inanimate objects are deserving of gratitude, I think we both feel very grateful to our little portable.

The chef of one of the hotels has sent me one of the most beautiful cakes I have ever seen. The profusion of flowers here must have inspired him, for I have rarely seen such beautiful roses made of sugar, decorating any confection.

Now to turn to more serious things for a minute. I have three letters in my mail, all of them drawing attention to "causes" which are important in different parts of the country. Two of them come from New York city. One of them is a plea for the Greater New York fund, which comprises New York city's private health and welfare agencies and is their effort to finance themselves. This seems to me most important, for these agencies do much that city, state and federal agencies can never do. I feel, in saying a word about this fund, I am at the same time making a plea for all such funds throughout the nation. Hard as it may be for many people to give at the present time, where we possibly spare anything, we will gain great satisfaction by supporting these private agencies.

Then, for the first time, my attention has been drawn to the work of the New York Adult Education Council, which is becoming a center to which all people who desire to know where they can obtain training in subjects which interest them, can come for advice. At the same time, they are accumulating a vast store of knowledge on occupations and available opportunities for education. This bringing together of opportunities and of people who are searching for them, is certainly a great service in any community. The New York Adult Education Council, with offices at 254 Fourth avenue, New York city, should prove an interesting place for all of us to visit, even if we are not searching for new opportunities ourselves.

I shall have to tell you about my third letter tomorrow. Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

LaCasa Monte To Provide Setting For Party Honoring Mrs. McCall

By Sally Forth.

ON APRIL 5 a group of prominent Atlanta women will motor to Griffin for an informal luncheon at which Mrs. Robert Gilchrist Hunt will entertain at her country home, LaCasa Monte. The occasion will honor Mrs. Howard McCall, of this city, a lifelong friend of Mrs. Hunt, who has invited for the affair a group of prominent members of the Georgia division of the National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, of which Mrs. McCall has served as regent for the past two years.

Situated on a high hill eight miles from Griffin, LaCasa Monte is surrounded by hundreds of dogwood and redbud trees that are now in full bloom. Incidentally, the Spanish name is "Little House on the Hill." Built of logs, the home presents a rustic appearance, but its interior offers a luxurious contrast with its appropriate furnishings and modern conveniences. A flagstone walk leads down a sloping hill from the lodge to the picturesque Lake Addabob, the attractive name formed from the first syllables of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt's first names.

Mrs. Hunt's daughter, Mrs. William L. McDougall, one of Atlanta's most popular young matrons, will assist her mother in entertaining, as will Mrs. P. B. Boardman, Mrs. Charles H. Patterson and Mrs. Ralph Jones, of Griffin.

Atlanta's invited for this important occasion are Mesdames Charles Rice, John M. Slaton Sr., Thomas Mell, Moreland Speer, John Rice, DeLos Hill, Bun Wylie, Harold Nicholson, N. B. Jelks, Frances Brown Chase, E. R. Kirk, Harvie Jordan, Felix DeGolian, Lucius McConnell, W. F. Dykes, George Breitenbacher and Misses Lillian Tidwell, Virginia Hardin and Hazel Kirk.

A quartet of Milledgeville matrons who will motor to Griffin for the luncheon includes Mesdames J. H. Yarbrough, F. E. Longino, N. B. Miller and Mary Richardson.

Other guests will include Mrs. Hugh Hardin, of Forsyth; Mrs. Walter Touchstone, of Griffin; and Mrs. John Lane and Mrs. Thomas Butler, of Jackson.

Another complimentary gesture extended Mrs. McCall on the eve of her retirement as head of the Georgia Daughters of the American Colonists was the luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. Hugh H. Hardin at her home, Hill Arden. Before luncheon was served the guests, who included members of the state American Colonists' executive board, enjoyed a stroll through the spacious gardens of Hill Arden, where flowers of every hue and variety are in full blossom.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining her guests by Mrs. John Lindsey, of Washington, Ga., and members of the Major William Horton Chapter, D. A. C., including Miss May Cabaniss, Mesdames Reland Andersen, L. M. Wright, H. F. Kurtz, E. W. Banks and Fred Stokes.

AMONG honor guests present at the dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Julian Ragland and Mr. and Mrs. Winborn Willingham entertained last Saturday in Chattanooga were Laura Troutman and her fiancé, Pollard Turman, of this city. The affair, which took place atop Lookout Mountain in Fairland, honored a group of brides-elect and their fiancés.

Laura and Pollard spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ragland at their home on Lookout Mountain, and Saturday's party marked the high light of their visit.

Feminine honor guests at the affair were presented with sprays of fragrant gardenias and groomsmen received boutonnières. Laura wore for the occasion a becoming model of colonial design.

The popular bride-elect and her parents, the Henry B. Troutmans, are familiar figures in Chattanooga, having spent several summers there in the guest house of Commissioner and Mrs. Eugene Bryan, in Summertown, Walden's Ridge.

AN interesting visitor scheduled to arrive here next week is Mrs. George Taubman Jr., of Long Beach, Cal., who will be the guest of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Clare, at their home on Pace's Ferry road. According to advance news given Sally, Mrs. Taubman, who is of the patrician type of beauty, was recently named the most outstanding woman in her adopted California home, where she takes a leading part in civic, cultural and social circles. She has taken part in many civic plays presented by the Theater Guild there, and served as first president of the Junior Charity League. Her interest in the political situations is evidenced by her present office as president of the Pro-American Club.

Mrs. Taubman is the former Elizabeth Clare, of Lexington, Ky., and during her visit here she will be honored at a round of parties, the first being a luncheon planned for next Wednesday by her hostess, who entertains at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Kirkwood Homemakers.

Mesdames Sam Hamby, W. T. Evans and William Foster entertained the Kirkwood Homemakers' Club recently at the home of Mrs. Hamby. Mrs. J. H. Wilson, the president, presided.

Mrs. Kirk Gilgore gave an interesting program. A contest contained the jumbled names of flowers was held. Names were drawn for the exchange of potted plants.

Glennwood Club To Hold Contest

Glennwood Estates Garden Club met recently at the home of the president, Mrs. Sam R. Clement, to discuss business to be brought before the next meeting of the club on Monday at the home of Mrs. F. B. Graham, 229 Glendale avenue, Decatur.

Mrs. C. E. Pattillo, chairman of the civic committee, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Burwell, gave reports on the civic activities of the club. It was announced that 128 crape myrtles had been planted throughout the subdivision in a beautification of streets and parkways project. Mrs. R. C. Daub was asked to head a special committee on planting and beautification of a particular parkway. It was voted to ask three members of the Men's Civic League to act as judges of bird houses to be constructed by the boys of the vicinity in a contest to begin immediately. This was undertaken in connection with the bird protection activity of the club. Boys between the ages of six and 12 years of age will compete for prizes to be named later and also those of ages ranging from 13 to 18 years for another prize.

Mrs. L. Bushfield announced that a joint entertainment with the Men's Civic League is being planned for April, further details to be announced Monday.

Mrs. Mace Green, chairman of the flower show committee, gave a comprehensive report on the show planned for the first May open house at the Holy Trinity church, sponsored by the club and entries to be made by the club members only. Mrs. Green has named as chairman of the judges' committee, Mrs. Frank Richards; entries, Mrs. D. B. Phillips; classification, Mrs. A. B. Lee; luncheon, Mrs. N. W. Cragg; ribbons, Mrs. Frank Dunn; publicity, Mrs. J. M. Bunnell; hostess, Mrs. Frank Hope.

Fairacres To Be Open Sunday Afternoon.

Fairacres, the lovely terraced gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Furstenberg, with the wealth of gorgeous azaleas and other blossoming flowers, will be open to the public Sunday, April 2, from 2 o'clock throughout the afternoon.

A tour of these gardens is being sponsored by the East Point Woman's Club and members of the club will serve as hostesses and guides. A small admission fee will be charged, and the public is invited to visit Fairacres, which may be reached by the Hogan road, and also the Stone road. Markers along the way will direct visitors.

DeKalb Women Voters To Meet.

Mrs. O. P. Bray, treasurer of the DeKalb League of Women Voters, will entertain the executive board of the league on April 26 at her lodge in Rockdale county. Invited for the outing are the following officers and chairmen: Mesdames Wellington Stevenson, A. L. Wade, W. Bryant, W. A. Ozmer, W. P. Smith, G. W. Hoch, George W. Woods; J. C. Johnson, James H. Allison, F. B. Dickey, T. W. Ayers, C. R. McQuinn, Z. W. Jones and T. M. Mason.

No April meeting will be held as the date falls on Good Friday, but league members are urged to actively work toward getting all new voters registered before May 1. County government, the theme for study during April, will center around the services the county provides, particularly in education, child welfare and health. Since Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state director of health, has issued a call for the observance of May Day as child health day, all leagues will co-operate and the DeKalb celebration will be on the first Friday, May 5.

Mrs. G. G. Hoch was hostess to league officers and chairmen at her home on Briarcliff recently. Reports of legislative committees interested in the various proposed bills as well as bills not on the league's program, were given. League members interested in joining study groups are asked to communicate with the officers of the league.

Do-Al-Ta Team Party.

The Do-Al-Ta team girls of American Grove 217, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle will sponsor a benefit birthday party with Miss Kathryn Fortner as hostess this evening at her home, 303 St. Michael avenue, at 8 o'clock. Information may be obtained by calling Ca. 1214.

The Do-Al-Ta team girls of American Grove 217 will practice at the hall, 226 1-2 Peachtree street, on April 2 at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Howard McCall, state regent of the Georgia Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, who will preside today at the opening session of the fifth state assembly and the nineteenth state meeting of the organization at 10:30 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. William F. Stone, of Chattanooga, national president, will be the honor guest at the assembly and will speak on "Ideals and Aims of the National Society." Miss Nancy Stone, daughter of Mrs. Stone, will be among the bevy of pages, and will attend Mrs. McCall. Election of new officers will be the high light of this afternoon's session, which will follow the luncheon at the club.

Y. W. C. A. Camp To Attract Visitors.

Camp Highland, Y. W. C. A. camp, will be the week-end rendezvous of high school girls, business and industrial club members and young married women of the Leisure Time Club during the spring months.

This evening Girl Reserves from Murphy Junior High and Exposition Cotton Mills will enjoy an outing at camp under the direction of Miss Frances Keir. A group of business girls from all clubs will spend the week end there and will enjoy hiking, out-door suppers, dancing and games.

The week ends of April 22 and May 12 are set aside for Girl Reserves. On April 29, Camp Highland will be used by the Atlanta Bird Club.

The state industrial conference will be held at Camp Highland, May 5-7, and state Business Girls' conference, May 19 and 20. On May 27 and 28, Leisure Time Girls will enjoy camp.

Camp Highland will be host to southern regional Girl Reserve conference, on June 8-16.

Junior camp season will be held June 20 to July 31.

Benefit Bridge.

Atlanta Agnes Scott Club will entertain at a benefit bridge on Saturday at 3:30 o'clock in Davidson-Paxon's tea room. A fashion show will be presented under direction of Miss Jean Chalmers.

Striking, and so soignée... the tri-colored dinner dress. Pleated white crepe bodice, bright green kid belt, and a floating chiffon skirt of Mandarin red.

A gypsy medley of gay Romany stripes above the flowing grace of black chiffon. Tied gypsy-fashion around the hips... a magenta sash.

This silk crepe is a headliner. It has a flattering hood, and the new, full culotte skirt. Chocolate brown skirt, chartreuse blouse and hood, (lined with vermillion) and a vermillion belt. Also navy with smoky blue and rose.

Guileless, white embroidered organdy with black velvet beading and nursery-school bows to make you a "sweet little heartache."

For that "little girl playing grown up" air. It's a blue and white taffeta Shepherd check... with a bustle! This one can pull a disappearing act, because it's nothing more than the full back skirt looped over a ribbon-tie, (that slips into the side-seam when not in use) thereby creating a bustle and disclosing a beruffled petticoat.

Miss Sanders Weds John W. Elder

MRS. JOHN WESLEY ELDER.

Miss Ruth Sanders, daughter of Mrs. William Sanders and the late Mr. Sanders, of Eastman, became the lovely bride of John Wesley Elder, of Atlanta, at a beautiful ceremony taking place at 6:30 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bergin, on Forest way.

The Rev. B. A. Roth, of Hastings, Fla., brother of the bride, read the marriage service which was witnessed by an assemblage of friends and relatives of the bridal couple. Mr. Elder is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Elder, of Barnesville.

In the living room of the home an altar was formed by a massing of palms and ferns, against which stood in relief tall floor standards which were topped with seven-branched candelabra holding lighted cathedral candles. Flanking either side of the foliage background were white wicker flower vases filled with stately white calla lilies. The other rooms where the guests were received were adorned with attractive arrangements of spring garden flowers.

The table in the dining room was centered with a Wedgwood bowl filled with roses, tulips, snapdragons and sweet peas in the Dresden tints.

Mrs. M. E. Bergin was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, and Carroll E. Cook was Mr. Elder's best man.

Mrs. Bergin chose for the ceremony a becoming gown of dusty crepe, which she wore with a matching hat trimmed in fuchsia, and a cluster of talisman roses.

The distinctive beauty of the bride was emphasized by her modish ensemble of Arcadia blue wool, collared in azure fox. Forming an effective contrast to the costume was a dusty rose hat, accented with trimming and veil of spring wire, and dusty rose gloves. The bride's flowers were sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bergin were hosts at an informal reception. Mrs. William Sanders, the bride's mother, was gown in black crepe and lace, which she wore with a matching hat and a cluster of talisman roses. Mr. Elder and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip to Florida.

Upon their return they will take possession of their apartment on Frederica street.

Mrs. Elder chose for traveling a smart beige suit trimmed in beige fox fur, with a hat and accessories to match.

Guests from a distance who attended the wedding were Mrs. William Sanders, Mrs. E. S. Moon, Mrs. Robert Wynne and John Sanders, all of Eastman; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Huber, of New Orleans; Mrs. A. W. Adams, of Seneca, S. C.; sister of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Elder, of Culloden, brother and sister of the groom.

Miss Bryan Feted.

Miss Maude Bryant, whose marriage to Marvin H. Sneed will be solemnized Easter Sunday, was feted last evening at a Chinese checker party at which Mrs. Garnett Giesler and Miss Marion McDonald were hostesses at the former's home on Oakview road.

Guests included 25 friends of the hostesses and honor guest.

YOU CAN ALWAYS TELL
LIPTON'S TEA—IT'S SO RICH AND DELICIOUS—SO FRAGRANT,
TOO. AND HOW IT PICKS
YOU UP WHEN YOU'RE TIRED!

MY FAMILY ADORES IT—WON'T HAVE ANYTHING BUT
LIPTON'S. IT'S ECONOMICAL,
TOO—MORE THAN 200
CUPS IN EACH POUND!

SIR THOMAS LIPTON spent his life developing finer tea. And today—Lipton's is the world's favorite! Here are the reasons:

1. WORLD-FAVOR FLAVOR—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. TENDER YOUNG LEAVES—and luscious flavorful buds—give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. SUPERB BLEND—that doesn't vary—praised by professional tea experts.
4. DISTINCTIVE UNIFORM BLEND—which choice teas from Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.
5. ECONOMICAL—you use less Lipton's per cup—it's so rich in flavor.

Five Atlanta Homes and Estates Open For Eggleston Tour Tomorrow

The high point of the annual garden pilgrimage will be reached tomorrow as gates of five of Atlanta's loveliest homes and estates are thrown open to mark the beginning of the 11th annual Eggleston Garden Tour.

Tomorrow's itinerary includes the magnificent regency home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Smith on West Pace's Ferry road, the attractive interior of which is enhanced by rare and authentic 18th century furnishings. A unique feature, in sharp contrast to the scheme of decoration carried out in such exquisite detail in the main part of the home, is the modern penthouse which commands an unbroken view of Kenesaw and Stone mountain.

The tour continues from the Smith home to the colonial house and garden of Mr. and Mrs. Rhodan Perdue, the front facade of the home presenting an interesting view through a colonnade of old-fashioned magnolias. The lovely estate is located on the historic site of the Battle of Atlanta, an event that marked a crucial period in the War Between the States.

Near the Rhodes home is beautiful Knollwood, home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kiser, where a series of terraced gardens at the rear of the Virginia colonial home lead to a tea house. The lower terraces are planted in roses, including many rare species.

The Bolling Jones garden completes the series of homes and gardens in the West Pace's Ferry road vicinity, the cynosure of which is a formal garden with reflecting pool that has as its axis a quaint gazebo.

Saturday's tour will be concluded at historic Mimosa Hall, home of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Tolson, at Roswell. The beautiful old home, an outstanding example of classic Greek revival architecture and reminiscent of the colonial grandeur that characterized the heyday of the old south, will be a high light of the tour. Fine old mimosas, fragrant English lavender, and a reclaimed old-fashioned garden, will be of particular interest to those making the tour. Refreshments will be served in the garden.

Miss Chambers Weds Richard Lee Davis.

Miss Flora Evelyn Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chambers, became the bride of Richard Lee Davis, of Atlanta and Chicago, on March 10 at the home of the bride's uncle, Rev. R. E. Chambers, who officiated in the presence of friends and members of the families. Music was rendered by Miss Louise Chandler.

Miss Faith Maxwell was maid of honor, and only attendant. She wore a model of navy and white crepe, with matching accessories. Her shoulder bouquet was of gardenias.

The bride was gown in a powder blue dress trimmed with a wide mulberry-colored girdle, with which she wore navy accessories. Her shoulder bouquet was of roses and lily leaves.

After a short motor trip in north Georgia and Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside at 1461 Lakewood avenue.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. W. E. Petty entertained at a birthday party recently on Fairbanks street, in honor of the sixth birthday of her son, Billy.

COMEDIES TO STAR ATLANTA CHILDREN

All-Talking Films Will Be Made Here Under Theaters' Sponsorship.

Atlanta's potential Shirley Temples, Freddie Bartholomews and Spanky McFarlands are going to get their long-dreamed-of opportunity to break into the movies.

Under a special plan worked out with the managers of neighborhood and suburban theaters, Melton Barker, motion picture producer, will arrive in Atlanta soon to produce several all-talking comedies.

Principal reason for making the pictures is to give local children an opportunity to see and hear themselves on the screen and compare themselves with the real movie stars.

Theaters co-operating are the West End, Cascade, Tenth Street, Techwood, Sylvan and Palace theaters in Atlanta; the DeKalb in Decatur; the Fairfax in East Point, the Fulton in Hapeville, the College Park in College Park, and the Buckhead in Buckhead.

Approximately 100 children between the ages of 3 and 12 will be selected to play in each of the comedies. A separate comedy will be made for each of the theaters co-operating. Children wishing to take part must register at the box office of one of the theaters.

Those registering will come to the theater for tryouts after the casting director arrives.

Some of the comedies will feature singing and dancing, and all of them will be produced in Atlanta. Ability to sing or dance will not be necessary for good roles, however.

After selection of the cast several rehearsals will be held to teach the children to act before the sound camera and to talk over the microphone. There will be a small charge for this training. No charge will be made for registration or tryouts. Rehearsals and "shooting" of the pictures will not interfere with school work.

Opportunity Knocks for Young Film Talent

Scenes like this will soon be typical around Atlanta. Under the sponsorship of the neighborhood theaters in the Lucas & Jenkins chain, Atlanta children will be given an opportunity to act in Atlanta-made comedies.

Crime in Comedy, and Romances Billed for Week by Movie Houses

Loew's Shows 'Fast and Loose'; Rialto, 'Lady and the Mob'; Paramount, 'Wife, Husband and Friend'; and Fox, 'Cafe Society.'

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

The pre-Easter week finds comic treatments of crime and comedy romances offered at Atlanta theaters.

Loew's shows the sequel to the sleuthing book dealers, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sloane, with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell at Loew's Grand. At the Rialto, Academy Award Winner Fay Bainter takes the lead rather than a supporting role in "The Lady and the Mob" in which a society leader undertakes to run racketeers out of town.

Loretta Young and Warner Baxter appear at the Paramount in the sequel to "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," which has the somewhat similar title, "Wife, Husband and Friend." Binnie Barnes is the third party.

Lovely Madeleine Carroll teams for the first time with Fred MacMurray in the comedy romance, "Cafe Society," which is opening today at the Fox. The Capitol has a race-track drama, "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor," which the publicity department announces gives a preview of cars to run in this year's Indianapolis race. The Rhodes is playing "Star of Midnight," featuring William Powell and Ginger Rogers.

"FAST AND LOOSE"
BILLED AT LOEW'S

Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell have the starring roles of "Fast and Loose," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new Marco Page film which opens at Loew's today. This is the sequel to last year's highly successful romantic mystery, "Fast Company."

Montgomery and Miss Russell play Mr. and Mrs. Joel Sloane, the sleuthing book dealers who move from hilarious situations to dangerous ones as fast as they can say "Scotch and soda." "Fast and Loose" is concerned with the Sloanes' activities to uncover a sensational rare book robbery and three murders resulting from it.

The Sloanes are invited out to a country estate to negotiate the sale of an eccentric millionaire's valuable manuscript. On the night of their arrival, Sloane finds that the millionaire's broker has been knocked unconscious, and that the manuscript in the safe has been replaced by a forgery. The following morning the millionaire is found dead. Joel is accused of the murder.

The principal supporting roles are enacted by Reginald Owen,

The results include many of the most thrilling and laughable situations yet devised for the screen. When the lady goes to jail, and when the mob sets out to set her free, the fun really begins. The cast includes Warren Hymer, Henry Armetta, Harold Huber, Forbes Murray, Joseph Sawyer, Tom Dugan, Joseph Cais, Jim Toney, Tommy Mack, Brandon Tynan and George Meeker.

"WIFE, HUSBAND, FRIEND" COMES TO PARAMOUNT

"Wife, Husband and Friend," which co-stars Loretta Young and Warner Baxter, opens at the Paramount theater today.

Reported to be a romance filled with gaiety and wit, the new film finds Loretta teamed with Baxter for the second time with Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief of 20th Century-Fox. They last appeared together in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse."

The story concerns the hilarious misunderstandings which result when a lovely wife, who has loads of money, a beautiful home and a grand husband, decides that she wants one thing more—a career as a singer. The film is based on a novel by James M. Cain, famous novelist who wrote such best-sellers as "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and "Serenade."

The supporting cast features Binnie Barnes, Cesar Romero, George Barbier, J. Edward Bromberg, Eugene Palette and Helen Westley.

CAPITOL TO SHOW "BURN 'EM UP O'CONNOR"

A new type of screen drama from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios makes its debut at the Capitol theater, starting Sunday, under the title of "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor," which will star the new star, Nat Pendleton and Harry Carey.

"Burn 'Em Up O'Connor" is an auto race track story and marks the first venture of MGM into production of pictures of this type. In addition to the featured cast in the film, many of the country's leading and noted racing drivers are shown in action.

On the stage the theater will present the Three Olympians, equilibrium stars; Lois Maree, in her cobra drama; Fitz and Carroll, comedians; Dave Tannen, pantomime star; George Boston and Thelma in "A Rhapsody in Rags," and others.

"King of Chinatown," starring Akim Tamiroff and Anna May Wong, ends tomorrow, together with the present vaudeville program.

RHODES FEATURES "STAR OF MIDNIGHT"

A glamorous mystery romance of modern New York, "Star of Midnight," starts today at the Rhodes with William Powell and Ginger Rogers co-starring.

REPRISAL THREAT HURLED AT POLAND

Treatment of Minorities Will Have Repercussions, Nazi Minister Says.

BERLIN, March 30.—(UP)—Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick said tonight that any mistreatment of the German minority in Poland may have repercussions on Germany's treatment of Poles living in the Reich.

Frick spoke to an international audience of diplomats and correspondents at an evening reception given by Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi intellectual leader.

The minister of interior said that the Polish-German minorities agreement of November 5, 1937, has "not been able to satisfy all wishes" and that there "still is a series of burning questions to be solved."

His words took on special significance in view of Nazi charges of recent days that the large German minorities in the Polish Corridor and the free city of Danzig were being subjected to "mistreatment."

The charges, regarded in some quarters as the prelude to a campaign of Nazi pressure in connection with German claims upon Danzig and the Corridor, were followed by semi-official warnings that unless the situation was changed it might result in developments harmful to the existence of "the Polish nation itself."

REPRISAL THREAT HURLED AT POLAND

Treatment of Minorities Will Have Repercussions, Nazi Minister Says.

BERLIN, March 30.—(UP)—Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick said tonight that any mistreatment of the German minority in Poland may have repercussions on Germany's treatment of Poles living in the Reich.

Frick spoke to an international audience of diplomats and correspondents at an evening reception given by Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi intellectual leader.

The minister of interior said that the Polish-German minorities agreement of November 5, 1937, has "not been able to satisfy all wishes" and that there "still is a series of burning questions to be solved."

His words took on special significance in view of Nazi charges of recent days that the large German minorities in the Polish Corridor and the free city of Danzig were being subjected to "mistreatment."

The charges, regarded in some quarters as the prelude to a campaign of Nazi pressure in connection with German claims upon Danzig and the Corridor, were followed by semi-official warnings that unless the situation was changed it might result in developments harmful to the existence of "the Polish nation itself."

Work Lasting 64 Years
Still Called Temporary

NEWTON, Mass., March 30.—(P)—Sixty-four years ago, Miss Grace Thompson, at the age of 16, was hired as a temporary employee by the city of Newton to serve as a clerk. Today, at the age of 80, Miss Thompson still is doing the same work and still is listed as a "temporary employee." Her status was discovered by the city's finance committee while checking accounts.

BITTER ROW OPENS OVER RELIEF FUND IN NATIONAL HOUSE

WPA Is Charged With 'Waste, Extravagance'; Showdown in Battle Scheduled for Today.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(AP) A crucial fight on the question of additional relief funds for this year began today on the house floor, where critics raked WPA with charges of "waste and extravagance" and defenders of the agency declared it must have $150,000,000 to put "more food on the tables of the undernourished."

At first leaders believed they might obtain a vote on the question tonight, but later decided to recess the house and put the showdown over until tomorrow.

The President had asked $150,000,000 to carry WPA through June but the house appropriations committee cut the figure to $100,000,000. While most Democratic members of the "economy bloc" appeared ready to vote for the $100,000,000, Representative Taber, Republican, New York, declared that if WPA would eliminate waste, no further appropriation for this year would be needed.

"Gag-Rule" Assailed. Debate on the bill was preceded by a stormy battle over the procedure to be followed. The rules committee proposed that there be four hours general debate and that amendments be restricted to changes in the amount of the appropriation.

Representative Martin, Republican leader, spoke angrily of "arrogant gag-rule." New Dealers also objected vigorously to certain phases of the suggested procedure on the ground it would not permit a record vote on the question of increasing the appropriation.

From Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, a leader of the economy bloc, came a frank admission that the procedure was "stringent" and might even be termed "gag rule," but he said that such procedure frequently was good for the country. In the end the rules committee suggestions were approved.

Taber charges that WPA increased its rolls so that they could turn people down just as we were approaching consideration of this bill.

"Shows $40,000 Each." "They went back six years and picked up people who had been denied relief six years before because they couldn't qualify and had never applied for it since," he said.

Asserting that the WPA theater project had put on 1,215 shows at a cost of $40,000 each, he asserted "money is being wasted so fast it's a menace to every thinking man in America."

Representative Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, leading the fight for the full $150,000,000 appropriation, retorted that critics of WPA could produce no evidence that relief money had been misappropriated, and were forced to confine their criticism to a small group of projects employing a few men.

Both Taber and Woodrum had criticized the removal of the musical show, "The Swing Mikado," from Chicago to New York, saying that in the latter city it had been put into competition with private theatrical ventures. Cannon replied that the government made money on the production, and noted that neither Taber nor Woodrum mentioned that fact.

Overhead Costs Hit. Appealing for the full $150,000,000 appropriation, he said it would mean "more food on the tables of the undernourished, more clothing on the backs of the underclad."

Woodrum told the house that the $100,000,000 appropriation would be ample if WPA reduced its "terrific overhead expenses," and modified its methods with a view to "retaining those in the greatest need of assistance." He conceded that WPA had done some fine work, but held that the time had arrived for overhauling that agency.

Administrative costs were well above $60,000,000 annually, he said, pointing out that this was double the comparable costs of the social security board, "whose activities are equally as comprehensive and widespread."

POWER OUTPUT GAINS IN SOUTHERN STATES

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP)—Production of electricity in the United States during the week ended March 25 totaled 2,193,681,000 kilowatt hours, a drop of 1.2 per cent from 2,225,486,000 in the preceding week, but 11.3 per cent ahead of 1,975,239,000 in the comparable 1938 week, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The decline was more than seasonally expected and the Associated Press index of production dropped to 113.4, the lowest thus far in the year.

Percentage advances over a year ago according to major geographical areas were reported as follows by the institute: New England 14.7, Middle Atlantic 10.9, Central Industrial 12.9, West Central 3.2, Southern States 8.1, Rocky Mountain 8.7, Pacific Coast 12.9.

BOY SCOUTS ADVANCED. NEWNAN, Ga., March 30.—Eleven Coweta county Boy Scouts were advanced in the monthly court of honor for Coweta district, according to Joe W. Parks, district commissioner. They were: To star scout, John McCalla; to first class, Ollie Burt, Epps Edge and C. J. Loftin; to second class, Bill Carmichael, Hal Gordon, Ransley Lyle, Thomas Smith, Robert Summers Jr., Lawrence Wade, and Dan Wright.

The Life of a Red Cross Volunteer Worker Is Just One Button Sale After Another

A day in the life of a volunteer worker in the annual Red Cross roll call is just one button sale after another. Here Miss Lois Hunter temporarily halts operations in a hat cleaning shop to pin a membership emblem on Steve Pappas, the proprietor.

What David L. Swint actually had in mind was the delivery of an express package, but he found it impossible to turn down the appeal of Miss Lois Hunter, one of the volunteer Red Cross workers. Net result: One more name added to the 1939 roll call.

This probably was a rush job but when Miss Lois Hunter invaded the typewriter repair shop of K. M. Davis in her rounds of the city yesterday, Davis stopped long enough to put his name on the dotted line and join the Red Cross.

COUNTY CHARITIES SOLUTION OFFERED

missioners have been quoted as being anxious to preserve the organizations to which it has contributed in the past.

"I am hopeful that something can be worked out on an equitable basis and on some program which will enable the organizations to continue. Atlanta has already made its budget. Fulton county has included the charities in its tentative budget. Under the law the county can contribute to the hospitals."

Legal Ruling. The law firm of Spalding, Sibbey, Troutman & Brock, county attorneys, ruled that about $150,000 in contributions which the county has marked for various organizations cannot be made legally and commissioners announced they will not vote for any unlawful appropriations. They have expressed regret that they cannot continue to make contributions, which have been made in the past.

Hartsfield last night said the switch in county donations "would be an adjustment of the entire problem if it were done on a basis which is equitable to the city."

Earlier in the day, the mayor had threatened to stop library services at the city limits and intimated that free water provided to the county, water service to thousands of persons living outside the limits of Atlanta, and other city facilities might be closed to county residents.

"It is apparent that in the matter of revenues the county officials are losing sight of the fact that more than 85 per cent of the taxes collected in Fulton county are paid by residents of Atlanta," Hartsfield said before the West compromise proposal was made.

$30,000 Free Water. "We of Atlanta also pay a large amount to the support of the Fulton county schools and they are not available to the children of Atlanta. The city supplies the county with more than $30,000 worth of free water every year. It is only fair that the county shoulder its fair responsibility in the conduct of joint city-county services which we have been conducting for years on end.

"While a member of the legislature, I sponsored a law authorizing cities and counties of Georgia to make contributions for the construction and maintenance of airports. The state courts already have held that law valid. I think there is some mistake in the ruling that the county can not lawfully make a contribution to the Atlanta airport."

Carnegie library is operated by the city, but the county has paid certain sums to it for years and its facilities have been available to all people of the county.

Decision Wednesday. Some definite decision is expected to be made by the commissioners at the regular meeting of that body next Wednesday afternoon, it was indicated yesterday. It was expected that representatives of practically all the organizations mentioned in the legal ruling to the commission in which donations were ruled illegal, will be present.

In the meantime Commissioner Glover Bailey, chairman of the aims and juveniles committee, said his group will begin its work of attempting to ascertain what portion of the 8,000 listed as unemployed and who have places in the county relief rolls are entitled to remain there. The committee work is an effort to cut down on relief expense.

Dr. Charles R. Adams, commission member, Wednesday suggested that the city increase its contributions to the organizations pending a change in the law which would permit the county to make such donations lawfully.

This led yesterday to the West suggestion and to Hartsfield's blast at the county.

DEFENSE BOOSTS TAXES. Increase in Birmingham's (England) tax rate was attributed to cost of air-raid precautions.

Red Cross Campaign Intensified As End Nears With Goal Far Away

4,700 Enrolled, But Volunteers Seek To Boost Total to Quota; 100 Per Cent Enrollments Are Reported by Many Institutions.

Red Cross canvassers yesterday redoubled their efforts to attain their objective of "every resident a member" before the close of the 22d annual roll call campaign of Atlanta Chapter, American Red Cross, tomorrow.

C. A. Stair, roll call chairman, announced that a partial report from Troy Stone, of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, yesterday afternoon brought the total to date to 4,700 members. This is far below the anticipated goal, the chairman said, and every effort will be made to complete the quota before the close of the drive.

County Membership. Jere A. Wells, chairman of Fulton county committees, announced partial returns from workers indicated that approximately 1,100 members have been signed in the county, but this total is expected to be increased substantially when complete reports are made after the first of next week. Chairman Wells said. He declared illness of several workers handicapped progress.

Fifteen county schools have reported 100 per cent enrollments, Chairman Wells reported. These are Bolton, Carey Park, Chattahoochee, Colonial Hills, Lena Cox, Harris Street, Mayson, Mount Vernon, Newtown, North Avenue, Northwestern, Ocoee, Rock Spring, Union City and West Haven.

Complete Enrollments. Complete enrollments were reported yesterday by the Rankin-Whitten Realty Company, Economy Drug Store, General Electric Supply Corporation and Local No. 148, Atlanta Federation of Music. Riley Elder, chairman of city government committees, reported 100 per cent subscriptions from the law, health and purchasing departments, mayor's office and superintendent of the buildings office.

Solicitation of memberships in office buildings in the city so far has netted 750 members, Edwin Haas Jr., chairman of the office building group, reported, while Miss Byrd Blankenship, chairman of booths, reported enrollment of 300 members since opening of booths several days ago. Sixteen booths have been erected in department stores and banks.

'HERESY' AT MERCER FLARES INTO RIOT

ministerial studies last quarter, defied the mob and started to run across the campus. The mob gave chase. With the angry students close on his heels, Lunsford was finally halted on the campus.

Cries filled the air, and he was roughly handled. At that point, Dr. Joseph Crutrup, professor of physics, and one of the faculty members accused by Lunsford and others, "turned the other cheek."

Dr. Crutrup interceded in Lunsford's behalf, and stemmed the attack of the mob. Both hurried to an automobile and drove off, the mob running after the car. The automobile had proceeded down the street for a short distance, when it hit a dead-end street.

The driver, Dr. Crutrup, was forced to turn around and drive through the mob. It was at this point that stones and bricks were hurled. The car ran the gauntlet without damage either to the occupants or the vehicle.

A few minutes later, police arrived. They protected the remaining students in the chapel, and dispersed the mob. One of the students, C. E. Everett, left with a police escort and remained at police headquarters for an hour before going home.

Chairman Martin said the committee would "weigh the evidence" heard at the hearing. He indicated action may be taken on the charges tomorrow.

Accused Professors. Besides Dr. Crutrup, the accused faculty members are Dr. John D. Freeman, senior member of the Christianity department; W. T. Smalley, of the English department; John D. Allen, head of the journalism department, and James Wallace, assistant instructor in biology.

At the hearing, it was reported that Wallace had once said in a classroom that "some babies are born with tails."

The 13 ministerial students who appeared at the hearing last night, according to reports, are known as "strict fundamentalists." The students participating in the violence were reported as "liberal" elements of the university.

On March 22, it was brought out at the hearing, the 13 students addressed a letter to 1,000 Baptist pastors of Georgia, in which they lamented "heretical conditions" on the campus.

Text of Letter. The letter, couched in ministerial phrases, explained that the missive resulted "from much prayer and consideration," and that they "believed they were being led by the Holy Spirit."

The Holy Spirit, they continued, prompted in them the belief in christian education "with all our heart, and the principles upon which Mercer University was founded. We appreciate the great contribution that Mercer has made, not only to our state, but to the whole world. We love her, and look forward with joy to the time when she shall be a shining light to all men that seek after knowledge."

"However, as much as we love her we regret that certain conditions do exist on our campus, certain things are being taught in our classrooms, and certain statements have been made in our local chapel programs to which we cannot subscribe. We further feel that head over a considerable period of time.

"Therefore, believing that you love Mercer as we do, and that you long to see it become an institution in which Christ will be glorified, we offer the following in evidence for your careful prayer and consideration. (Then followed the affidavits.)

"Such teachings have their consequential counterpart in the present degeneration of the moral and social life of the students.

"We are praying for a thorough investigation and we shall appreciate your prayers and co-operation in any effort to adjust this serious situation."

The letter was signed by C. K. Everett, Alvin Hirsch, Reid Lunsford, John M. Birch, J. B. Pickren, Julian Dyess, James M. Vinson, William Kirkland, E. C. Shichan, C. N. Larsen, W. J. Peacock, R. L. Price and C. J. Steed.

Dr. Spright Dowell, president of the university, indicated the hearing would continue for several days.

114 ARE HURT IN CRASH OF NEW YORK SUBWAY

NEW YORK, March 30.—(UP) Fourteen persons were injured seriously and at least 100 others received minor hurts tonight when two independent subway trains collided in Astoria, Long Island, at the height of the rush hour.

The accident occurred approximately at Forty-second street between the Steinway street and Forty-sixth street stations.

Eighteen doctors, seven ambulances, three police emergency trucks and a fire department hook and ladder were at the scene.

HOME OF J. P. ALLEN RANSACKED BY ROBBERS

Burglars last night entered the home of J. P. Allen, 1506 Cahaba drive, S. W., and escaped with clothing and jewelry valued at $350.

Mr. Allen reported to Fulton county police that he and Mrs. Allen returned home at 6:25 o'clock and discovered that someone had gained entrance through a side window. He said the place had been ransacked and many articles of value stolen.

I KNOW FOUR ROSES IS ALL WHISKEY AT LEAST 4 YEARS OLD - IS THAT WHY YOU SAY IT'S AMERICA'S FINEST WHISKEY?

AGE IS MIGHTY IMPORTANT, JIM - BUT IT'S ONLY ONE OF 5 REASONS WHY FOUR ROSES IS TOPS!

DO YOU KNOW

- 1 Aging improves a good whiskey, but it can't make a poor whiskey good. So all the whiskeys that go into Four Roses are outstandingly good to start with.
- 2 All of them are at least 4 years old—old enough to be bottled in bond. And they would be bottled in bond, if we thought they would be as good, sold separately that way.
- 3 But our 74 years' experience has taught us that the finest whiskey is made by combining several of our whiskeys into one whiskey that's finer still.
- 4 Then we purposely make Four Roses lighter and milder, by reducing it to 90 proof (instead of the stronger 100 proof which bottled-in-bond whiskeys must be).
- 5 Four Roses is ALL whiskey—with the mellowness of age, and the greatness that only generations of distilling skill can give. Compare it with any other whiskey made.

'Curse of Sky Still on Bob Jones, Augusta National'—Rice

by Jack Troy

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—Curious thing how time passing in its flight alters things.

Nine years ago, Lloyds of London, wagered 50 to 1 against Robert Tyre Jones Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., winning all four major golf tournaments, British amateur and open and American amateur and open.

A number of Bob's followers in Atlanta cashed in on it. Chick Ridley, professional at Piedmont, had a slice of it. Today, odds of 40 to 1 against Jones winning one tournament, the Masters, are almost as high as they were to win four, and, if pressed, certain fellows with a flair for wagering would give 50 to 1.

And the odds approximately are right, especially since the rain. Nothing has been so consistent about the Masters as the weather, unless it be the hospitality.

Last year, shortly after the start, there was a tremendous downpour. This time, tournament officials held up the start as the skies lowered. And shortly after the scheduled start what had been intermittent showers turned into heavy rain.

And so another postponement was inevitable.

It is a tragedy, in a sense, that there should be so much rain, because the course was in perfect condition. Ridley and others walked out in front of the clubhouse in the rain just to get a close-up view of the magnificent putting green, which looked like a picture out of a book. The huge practice green has the undulations of the regular greens and was smooth as a carpet.

A certain amount of rain helped the course, but as it continued to come, water collected in the low places, and if the rain should continue through the night any chance of record scoring will be washed away.

You see, this course is never allowed to bake out. Consequently, the course at its best does not allow for a long roll on tee shots. And when the ground is made soggy by rain there is just that much more reduction in the roll.

In the five tournaments to date, there have been only 23 players having a scoring total under 290. And that's less than an average of five per tournament. The big year in this respect was 1935, when Gene Sarazen fired his famous double eagle. Sarazen, Craig Wood, Olin Dutra, Henry Picard, Denny Shute, Lawson Little and Paul Runyan all bettered 290. Seven is the top figure. There were five in 1934, three in 1936 and four each in 1937 and 1938.

OPTIMISM REIGNS.

Usually, the weather has turned for the better after opening day. And there is a hint, now and then, of the sun struggling to break through. It's encouraging.

What might be a good idea next year is to schedule the start of the tournament a day in advance, let it rain that day and then get away the following day on a normal schedule.

The fastest field in American golf is here ready to challenge once again par's right to supremacy on the Augusta National. And if the old weather eye isn't deceiving, everything will be all right for a decent beginning tomorrow.

DIZ UNLIMBERS HIS $185,000 ARM IN HITTING DRILL

Cub Batters Say Pitches 'Live,' 'I'm Okay,' States Dean.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(P)—Chicago's Cubs trounced Los Angeles, 12 to 1, today in their farewell California exhibition. Of more interest to Manager Gabby Hartnett, however, was Dizzy Dean's official 1939 pitching debut. Dizzy unlimbered his $185,000 arm in batting practice under a warm sun. He pitched to 14 batters in the workout. Then, with perspiration streaming down his face, he strode from the mound directly to where his wife sat and said:

"Honey, I'm well. I'm okay." Gabby showed his best grin and said, "He looks good all right. We'll give him work to strengthen his arm as long as we keep getting warm weather."

The Cubs who hit against Dean all reported his pitches seemed "live." He threw no curves and made no effort to turn on great speed.

Lee Handley Sprains Shoulder Sliding

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—(P)—Lee Handley, Pittsburgh's third baseman, sprained his shoulder sliding into first base today as the San Francisco Seals were beating the Pirates, 5 to 3.

Dr. Charles Jorgensen, club trainer, said Handley's hurt was not serious.

Buddy Hassett Hits Five for Five

BRADENTON, Fla., March 30.—(P)—Buddy Hassett hit five for five, including a double and a triple, today when the Boston Bees pulverized three Newark hurlers for a total of 21 hits and a 21-11 victory. The National leaguers belted 10 runs in the second inning, after the Bears had built up a 4-1 lead against the veteran Freddie Frankhouse.

Other long-range slugging was Al Lopez's homer and Eddie Miller's pair of triples.

GRANT IS UPSET BY HAL SURFACE

Kansas City Star Whips Atlantan in Straight Sets, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

HOUSTON, March 30.—(P)—Top-seeded Bryan (Eitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, was blasted out of the River Oaks tennis tournament today by the smashing drives and heady game of blond Hal Surface, of Kansas City.

Surface pounded out a 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 victory to eliminate Grant from the annual tournament for the first time in five years.

Young Frank Guernsey, of Rice Institute, intercollegiate champion, disposed of Ernie Sutter, of New Orleans, former intercollegiate champion, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0.

Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., refused to become rattled by the smashing service of lanky Bobby Kamrath, of the University of Texas, and sent the Austin netter from the quarter-final round under a 7-5, 6-4, 6-3 defeat.

Frank Kovacks, of Oakland, had little trouble disposing of his fellow Californian, J. Tidball, of Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-3, 6-0. Kovacks will meet Cooke tomorrow in the first semi-final match. Surface and Guernsey will play Saturday.

Buffalo Bill Runs Mile in 1:48 3-5

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 30.—(P)—Buffalo Bill, William E. Smith's Kentucky Derby candidate, galloped a mile in the mud at Churchill Downs today in 1:48 3-5—the most impressive trial recorded by a Derby nominee here so far this season.

Accompanied by Miss Sarah, Buffalo Bill stepped the first quarter in 26 seconds flat, the half in 51 3-4, and the three-quarters in 1:18 2-5.

Clockers caught Timoful, another Derby eligible, breezing seven-eighths of a mile in 1:23. Two other candidates—Viscounty and Lightspur—were timed in 36 4-5 and 40 3-5, respectively, for three-eighths, breezing.

Rain Failed To Interrupt 1st Tourney

But Succeeding Masters' Golf Meets Have Been Jinxed.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—(UP)—A rain that made the magnolia leaves rattle like snare drums and scattered purple wisteria blossoms over the lush greens today forced postponement of the first 18 holes of play in the sixth annual masters' invitation golf tournament.

In the snug little clubhouse, built before the War Between the States, the 46 crack professionals and amateurs twitted Bobby Jones about the weather, called him a "rainmaker," and asked him why he didn't hire himself out to the farmers of the dust bowl area. Today's postponement marked the fourth successive year that a round of the tournament has been called off because of weeping skies. Only in 1934, the first year of the tournament, did the 72-hole medal competition proceed on schedule.

When the rains came today a gallery of some 500 had gathered, and some of the spectators were a bit angry when the postponement was announced. Their anger cooled very quickly, however, because even as they stood sulkily about the first tee a gray sheet of water swept in over the pine-clad hills and drenched them to the skin.

DOUBLE UP SUNDAY.

The tournament committee decided that 18 holes would be played on each tomorrow and Saturday, starting at 1 p. m., and 36 holes Sunday beginning at 9 a. m.

The postponement did not affect the betting line. That stolid man in the white cap, Ralph (Goldilocks) Guldahl, winner of the last two national open championships, remained a heavy favorite. Even with the sort of opposition he has AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—The curse of the sky is still upon Bob Jones and the Augusta National.

For the fifth straight year rain fell upon the all-star field, forcing another postponement, with the brilliant field ready to go in a wide-open scramble. All this after a four-week drought.

Gene Sarazen, the Connecticut farmer, peering through the wisteria blossoms surrounding the clubhouse porch, still says that one of four men will carry away the crown of the masters. "The winner," said Gene, "will come from Ralph Guldahl, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson or Sammy Snead."

"I've picked these four in the last seven tournaments," Gene continued, "and they made good for me six times. That's all the percentage I want."

Guldahl, Horton Smith, Snead, Picard and Nelson led the pool but there are still others left—Harry Cooper, Jimmy Demaret, Ed Dudley, Ben Hogan, Craig Wood, Jimmy Hines—these and many more who have their chances in a wide-open scramble.

There will be 18 holes Friday and Saturday and a final 36-hole whirl on Sunday to give us the answer. The two all-time masters, "Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen, are given little chance at the odds of 40 and 50 to 1, but there is still the hope that one or both may reach back through the years and come up on an old-time inspiration. But they are no longer the lean, hard, sun-baked stars who have traveled 7,000 miles and are what Bill Tilden once called, "campaign tough."

And they are no longer somewhere between 22 and 28 with youth riding in the saddle, riding hard and fast.

Tech High Gridmen Meet Purples Today

Proceeds of Game at Grant Field Will Go To Finance Spring Sports.

By ROY WHITE.

Tech High and Boys' High will battle at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Grant field in a climax to their annual spring football training grind. It's the first time in the history of the two schools that a spring game has been arranged, but it was the desire of the many candidates to end the work in a regulation game.

Spring sports, baseball, track, swimming, golf and tennis, have been sadly neglected due to insufficient funds, so this afternoon's football game will serve a double purpose—carrying on a big sports program and to provide another scrap for the athletes between the two schools.

ELIGIBLE PLAYERS.

Only players eligible for the fall grind will be permitted to participate in this afternoon's game, so both coaches will get some sort of line on the relative strength of their clubs for next fall.

Favorites are out of the question, just as they are during the regular season. It's foolish to try to select a winner in any Tech High-Boys' High contest, especially today's football game.

Tech High will enter a veteran backfield, of Ben Cogburn, quarterback; Paschal and Bonner, halfbacks, and Frank Heindol, fullback. That group worked together most of last year.

TALENTED BACKS.

Boys' High also will not be lacking for backfield talent for Loftin Smith, Conner and Cox are available from last year. Cox, one of the greatest punters ever to wear the Purple, has been shifted to guard, but will do all the kicking this afternoon.

Boys' High has a fine pair of ends, Duck Conger and Jack McKinney, holdovers from last year. The tackle, guard and center positions don't look so promising to Coach Shorty Doyal at present.

Tech High's line also is not so "hot" and is causing Coach Gabe Tolbert no end of worry. While the varsity battles Tech High, Boys' High will send its B team to Newman to play Newman High at 7:30 o'clock tonight in a climax to Newman's first spring football practice.

Hapeville Organizes New Softball Loop

The Hapeville Softball league had been organized after several meetings of interested parties to talk over the proposition. A. L. Rousey was elected president of the league which will include six teams. Two games per week will be played by each team starting April 27.

They will play twilight games for one month of the season and lights will be installed on the field to take care of night playing.

Tech Hi Swimmers Beat Purples, 41-25

Tech High's swimming team defeated Boys' High, 41 to 25, Thursday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. pool.

Honors were well divided on both teams, with no one swimmer overloaded with awards.

The summaries: 40-Yard Free Style: Rosenberg, T. H. S.; Dougherty, E. H. S., and Epstein, B. H. S. 100-Yard Breast Stroke: Savage, T. H. S.; Cox, T. H. S., and Blackshear, B. H. UNDULATIONS WORRY JONES.

Bob Jones, who had a big hand in building the course, is now having trouble putting. He can't seem to solve the angles caused by small mounds or hillocks on or near the putting surfaces. These bother all the players.

Otherwise, Jones has his game well in hand. Where once he solved the undulations to the extent of shooting an unofficial course record of 64, he now finds in his hands a stuttering putter. The angles are worrisome.

Then, too, there is the mental and physical strain of both playing host as president of the Augusta National and engaging in tournament play at the same time.

As Chick Ridley says, "I thought the comparison of Babe Ruth and Bob Jones was very apt. And you might add this to it. What would you expect of Gene Tunney in the prize ring after all these years? You might say that is a little far-fetched, but tournament golf exerts a tremendous physical, as well as mental strain. I've seen Bob come in from a big tournament limp as a dishrag."

SARGENT GOES INTO ACTION.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, has a keen, analytical golfing mind. And it was interesting in the clubhouse this morning to bend an inquisitive ear in on his quiz of George Sargent, East Lake professional, who tees off first in the company of Jock Hutchinson tomorrow.

Runyan was highly interested in George Sargent's recent discovery of the ideal angle of swing and the possibility of manufacturers having to alter clubs to fit players.

Runyan questioned the discovery from all angles, and before he was through George Sargent had stripped down to his shirt and had rolled up his sleeves. I do not mean that he was contemplating fistfights, he simply was planning the discovery to the extent of matters concerning the effect of the swing on the muscles of the left arm. He illustrated his point that there is no strain on muscles in swinging at a reduced angle of, say 22 degrees.

Runyan questioned if one could get out of his own way playing so much over the ball, and Sargent showed him how easily it could be done.

"As a matter of fact, I have added 25 more yards to my drives," Sargent said.

"What you have discovered is against all the accepted teachings," Runyan replied, "and how, by the way, does it affect the trajectory of iron shots?"

"The shots are lower," Sargent pointed out. Which reminded listeners of Charlie Yates' success in the British Amateur when he sent his crisp iron shots low into the wind.

They had quite a session, Runyan and Sargent did. And I would not be surprised if the East Lake pro did not convince the alert White Plains pro that he has something there.

"Of course," Sargent pointed out, "I do not expect it to help the experts who have a set way of playing, but the effect on duffers should be tremendous. I think it will help their game a lot. It also should help in getting youngsters off on the right foot."

LO, THE SUN.

The sun actually won its battle over the elements during the late afternoon. It was an in-and-out sun, but nevertheless it promised an end to the rain. Overnight the course should dry out sufficiently for the crack field to have an even shot at Old Man Par.

Paul Dean Checks Redwing Hitters

WINTER GARDEN, Fla., March 30.—(P)—Making seven of their 11 hits good for extra bases, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Rochester Redwings, 9 to 5, here today in their first exhibition game this spring against minor league opposition.

Paul Dean, one of the big "question marks" of the year, held the Redwings to two hits and a single run during the final three stanzas.

Senators Blast Grissom, Derringer

ORLANDO, Fla., March 30.—(P)—The Washington Senators set upon a pair of Cincinnati pitchers today and took an exhibition ball game, 9 to 2.

Washington had seized a 3-0 lead by the end of the first inning by the pitching of Lee Grissom, Cincinnati southpaw. The Senators pounced on Paul Derringer for six more runs in the eighth.

Chicks Win First Exhibition Game

DELAND, Fla., March 30.—(P). Pounding over five runs in the final inning, the Memphis Chicks won their first exhibition game of the training season here today, defeating Milwaukee 10-9.

The Memphis club slapped out 14 hits to the Brewers' nine. The Chicks play Minneapolis tomorrow at Daytona Beach.

Lookouts Beaten By Orioles, 4-3

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 30.—(P)—The Baltimore Orioles profited by the wildness of Chattanooga Lookout pitchers today to win an exhibition game from the Lookouts 4 to 3.

Six walks by Bass and Sauerbrun in the eighth gave Baltimore the deciding run. The Lookouts have won five out of their seven exhibitions.

L.D. Thompson Wins Bogey at East Lake

L. D. Thompson was alone in winning the regular mid-week blind bogey on the East Lake courses. The winning score was 77. Second place was shared between Alan Aytes and A. C. Bromberg, one stroke away from the winner.

Others in the prize list included Travis Johnson, Judge Ralph McClelland, W. L. Markert, P. D. McClelland and Judge Jesse M. Wood. Dr. H. W. Ridley won the booby prize of one golf ball.

Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, Ga., valloped Katherine MacCloskey, of Pittsburgh's Oakmont Club, 7 and 6.

Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., won by default when Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., was forced out of the meet by illness.

In the other quarter-final match Mrs. William Hockenjos, of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., nosed out Mrs. William Hamilton, of Philadelphia, in a 20-hole match.

Mrs. Page will play Miss Bauer tomorrow and Miss Kirby will meet Mrs. Hockenjos.

game of 138 and series of 351 to be runner-up for the league's bowling. On Saturday, April 6, members of the Coca-Cola Club will go to Columbus, Ga., for a return match with the Columbus Coca-Cola Bowling Co.

*R. L. Parrish, of the Opaline five, had the top single game and high three games for the league with a single score of 135 and other games of 113 and 114 for a 32 series as his team won three games from Credit Cards.

Ben Hogue had a 307 as his Emerald team dropped two games to Pennsylvania. Oscar Heimerich turned in a 349 net as his Kerosene five won three from Dinosaurs and H. C. won two from P. D. in other matches.

ARMSTRONG, DAY CLASH TONIGHT

Henry Quoted as 8-to-5 Favorite to Stop Chicagoan.

NEW YORK, March 30.—(P)—You can just about forget all those rumors of "smart money" riding on Chicago Davey Day against Henry Armstrong in their 15-round welterweight championship party tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

That buildup, usually attendant on a championship encounter, is fine stuff for bringing in the customers. But the betting fraternity were still around town today offering odds as high as 1 to 4 that Armstrong is "winnah, and still champagne" when the firing ceases. In fact, the odds were 8 to 5 that Hammerin' Henney would stop the skinny, but tough, Chicago clouter before the slated distance.

This corner, having observed both belters in training and remembering recent fights of each, rides along with the Hammer to win by a decision and thereby successfully defend his 147-pound crown for the sixth time since he succeeded gallant Barney Ross to the throne.

The aforementioned "rumors" have reacted as expected on the faithful. Promoter Mike Jacobs makes no predictions, but that satisfied smile can be taken as a "weather vane." All signs now point to a "house" of 14,000 or 15,000 paying customers, with a gate around $35,000.

Incarnation Loses To Sultanic Cagers

The Sultanic Club won the West End basketball tournament by defeating the Church of the Incarnation team, 38 to 30. Sultanic took an early lead and was never in danger.

Webb was the best player for Sultanic, while Burnett was best for Incarnation.

SULTANIC: Moseley (10), Gabriel (4), Webb (12), Taylor (10), Burton (4).

INCARNATION: Wagner (15), Youngblood (3), Harding (6), Mason (4), Burnett (7).

N. Y. U. Names Georgia For World's Fair Game

Great Gridiron Show Being Planned for 'University of Georgia Day' at Fair.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. It isn't well known, but Georgia's Bulldogs are playing N. Y. U. in football next season—at the Violets' request.

Officials of the New York World's Fair asked each of the city's major colleges to select an opponent for a game which is to be a regular part of the big show.

And N. Y. U., evidently remembering those thrillers a few years ago, picked the Bulldogs without hesitation. But not without reason.

Four games were played between the two schools in New York and a fifth in Athens.

SLAM-BANG AFFAIR. All Gotham games were real slam-bang affairs fans love. In fact, it soon became the most popular gridiron series in New York.

The first game was in 1929. The Violets ran up a big score in the first half but the Bulldogs came back and almost pulled it out of the fire, 19-25. In 1930, the first 7-6 victory for Georgia was played. The score was repeated the next year.

N. Y. U. evened the series, 13-7, in 1932. The next and last game was played in Athens under a blistering sun and the brown Bulldogs won 25 to 0—the only real decisive game of the series.

SMART MOVE. So there is little wonder the Violets picked Georgia as their opponents. It was a mart move because New York fans remember the exploits of the underdog Bulldog and will flock by the thousands to the Polo Grounds.

The Georgia Athletic Association this week sent two pennants to fair officials. Already plans are underway for one of the greatest gridiron shows in history on "University of Georgia Day" at the present day peek into tomorrow.

here Guldahl was held at 8 to 1 to win, 4 to 1 to place, and 2 to 1 to show. He proved by his victory in the Greensboro open last week he is decidedly "on his tick," and when he is hitting the ball he has no peer in American golf today.

The second favorite was Sammy Snead, the West Virginia hillbilly who knocks the ball a mile. At the Calcutta pool last night Sammy sold for only a few dollars less than Guldahl, and if it were not for the fact that he is a bit over-gilded, underweight and a trifle weary, he would be held as short as the open champion.

Byron Nelson, the birdie man from Pennsylvania, is the third favorite. Winner of the tournament year before last he has been playing well in practice. Behind in public estimation is Henry Picard, winner of the tournament last year. In this group of four—Guldahl, Snead, Nelson and Picard—you have the winner of the last six medal play events, and as Gene Sarazen said, in making a wager that one of the four of them would win here, "good golfers run as surely as good horses. Form counts, and these four men have form."

Bobby Jones, whose presence in the tournament really makes it, is given little or no chance. He scored well in warm-up rounds in Atlanta, but his duties as unofficial host here always rob his game of the sure touch that once was his. He was quoted as high as 50 to 1 by the bookies, and his backers were strictly on the sentimental side.

The second of the two-game series will be played at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Hermance field.

Dettweiler's Second Shot At 15 Pretty

Helen Blasted 7-Iron Recovery Four Feet From Pin; Got Birdie.

By DOROTHY KIRBY. PINEHURST COUNTRY CLUB, March 30.—After much threatening weather the rain came this morning with force included, wind which didn't help the situation. It cleared off around noon, though, and I think there is a chance that it will be fair tomorrow.

I got around today better than I have at all this week, and won from Kathrine McCloskey by 7 and 6. I was out in 37 and was one over par for the three holes we played on the back side. It would have been a good idea if I had saved some of these strokes, for I will need them worse tomorrow.

As Mrs. Page said this morning, they had a hard time making up their minds who would be my opponent for tomorrow, for Mrs. Hockenjos and Mrs. Hamilton had to go 20 holes before one of them would give in. Finally Mrs. Hockenjos got the best of it by sinking a good-size putt to win the 20th.

Therefore Mrs. Hockenjos and I meet for the second time. I played her about two years ago in Miami, where I scrambled in a win on the 18th.

She is a very good match player and steady. Mrs. Page and Jean Bauer will play in the other match of the semi-finals by the way of Jean having a default from Deb Verry, who is very sick in bed.

Mrs. Page won from Helen Dettweiler by 4 and 2. This was a good match, however, for I watched some of it after I had finished. Helen got off to a bad start by losing the first three holes and when you give Mrs. Page a three-hole advantage it is just too bad.

On the 15th Helen made one of the prettiest shots I believe I have ever seen. She had pushed her drive to the right in the rough and had to play off the sand, where she used a seven iron and she really got into the shot and hit right on dead line for that pin. The ball stopped about four feet from the flag. She then sank the putt for her birdie and Page took four.

The same thing happened yesterday for Helen. She birdied the same two holes.

Jean Bauer beat Mrs. Page here last year and they will have a close time of it tomorrow. Mrs. Page has had two very good days in a row. She had par in today for a 73 and it was 72 yesterday. That is pretty hard golf to handle. It is pretty to look at, but oh, how hard it is on the opponent.

CUBS GAMBLE ON CAVARETTA FOR FIRST BASE

Sale of Collins Leaves Job Up to Weak-Hitting Phil and Rookie.

CHICAGO, March 30.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs, with their National league championship on the line, are going to gamble on young Phil Cavarretta coming through at first base when the major league season opens next month.

That was the essence of a statement today by P. K. Wrigley, president of the club which yesterday sold Jim (Rip) Collins, smooth-fielding and experienced first sacker for two years, to Los Angeles. The sale left the Cubs with two first basemen—the light-hitting and erratic Cavarretta and Rookie Glen Russell. Reports the Cubs were after an established star to fill the gap were spiked quickly by the club owner.

"We aren't in the market for Johnny Mize, of the St. Louis Cardinals, nor are we in the market for any other first basemen to take Collins' place," Wrigley said. Hartnett (Manager Gabby Hartnett) is satisfied with the set-up and is confident Cavarretta and Russell will handle the job.

Stein, Robinson Hurl Today; Red Sox Are Foes Here Saturday.

By THAD HOLT.

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 30.—The Crackers hadn't played on a smooth diamond this spring and when they finally got on one today they didn't know how to behave. Consequently, the hustling Knoxville Smokies made it two in a row over the Southern league champions by winning, another close one, 4-2. The final game will be played here tomorrow and then the Crackers return home to meet the Boston Red Sox Saturday and Sunday.

Luman Harris, who pitched six innings and allowed six hits and three runs, was losing pitcher today, but infield misplays aided the Smokies materially in scoring three of their runs. The usually brilliant Russ Peters had an off day and committed two costly bobbles that set up three Knoxville tallies.

MUFFS BALL.

Russ muffed a double play ball in the first inning that would have retired the side and Dutch Meyer, old Texas Christian athlete, came up and patted a triple into right to send both runners home. Meyer drove in three of the four Knoxville runs.

The Crackers scored their only runs of the game in the first frame when John Rucker singled to right and raced to third when Pitcher Rip Schroeder tried to pick him off first. Rucker scored on Anderson's infield out. Then Malho dribbled a hit through second, went to second on an infield out and scored on Bolling's single.

The Crackers never could find home port after that as Schroeder bled down in the pinches during his five-inning stay on the hill and his successor, Pete Mallory, was even more effective.

Knoxville, having tied the score in the first, went ahead in the fifth. Peters will throw on Meyer's grounder put the Texan on first and he reached second on an infield out from where he scored when Bud Hefey popped a single into right.

LOCKBAUM GOOD.

Emil Lockbaum, the young mathematics professor, relieved Harris at the start of the seventh and finished in impressive style although he had a run in the seventh. Reitz worked Lockbaum for a pass and Rucker barely missed Young's drive to center which went for a single. The thornish Mr. Meyer brought Reitz home with a single to left.

Each team collected eight hits. Malho and Bolling rapped out a pair each for the Crackers.

Weather permitting, Paul Richards will shoot Pete Stein and Onnie Robinson at the Smokies tomorrow. The wind was blowing and it rained some during today's contest.

There were several ways to look at today's defeat. The Crackers were either none too potent at the bat, or the Knoxville pitchers had more on the ball than the hitters were ready for just yet.

It is a bit early to get excited about the Smokies, who annually are world beaters in the spring. Perhaps this time they will continue their fine play after the bell rings. They look good now.

The Crackers lost because the greatest fielding shortstop in the minors was having one of his rare letdowns. That probably won't happen twice during the entire regular season.

TOOMEY ATTEMPTS DIFFICULT JUMP SUNDAY

Buddy Toomey, crack Washington, D. C., motorcycle stunt star, will attempt his celebrated blindfolded motorcycle jump Sunday afternoon at Lakewood park, when, with his vision completely obscured, he will try to send a speeding motorcycle hurtling off a high rampway and over three motorcycles placed in his pathway.

This thriller is one of more than 30 which will be presented by Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers in their annual thrill show engagement here.

Toomey's blindfold leap is regarded as one of the most difficult ever attempted on motorcycle. It requires an uncanny sense of direction, boundless nerve and the complete mastery of a motorcycle to jump successfully over the unique obstacle while blindfolded.

Silver dollars will be placed over each of his eyes and held in place by adhesive tape. A regulation blindfold will also be placed around his head and over his eyes and then a black cloth hood will be placed over his head before he starts his attempt.

He will take his leap a distance of 300 feet from a rampway and three placed on a motorcycle. With only his amazing sense of direction to guide him, he will ride the motorcycle down the stretch and up the ramp, taking off into space at top speed in an effort to clear the tops of the motorcycles and then attempt to bring his motorcycle safely back to the ground.

Major Scott, Wife See Cracker Game

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 30.—Major Trammell Scott and Mrs. Scott witnessed today's Cracker-Smoke contest. They have been visiting at Deland and Sanford, Fla.

The Southern league president brought news from Joe Engel. The Lookout popper-offer advised Scott to send his sympathies to Earl Mann and the Crackers. Joe thinks the pennant is in the bag for Chattanooga.

"No use of even play-out the schedule," he said. Engel believes that the Crackers have been playing in their own class in meeting such clubs as Waco, and confessed to Scott that he thought Richards' team stood a chance of beating some of the Georgia-Florida clubs and the House of David.

The Scotts return to Atlanta tonight.

East Atlanta Development Is Planned

Business Association Head Outlines Objectives of the New Body; Parking Work Is Cited.

Development of the business and civic interests of East Atlanta will be a major objective of the newly formed East Atlanta Businessmen's Association, W. Sam Smith, president, said yesterday as he announced the official personnel of the body.

Charles B. Everitt Jr., vice president, concurred in Smith's program and pointed to improved parking facilities "which will do more to popularize the East Atlanta trading area than any other development."

E. J. Stripling is secretary and treasurer of the newly formed group. Decision to organize followed a one-hour parking limitation placed on the section by the city administration, it was explained yesterday. Many of the merchants objected to the measure and were apprehensive about what effect it might have on their patrons.

"The 50 businesses decided that something should be done to protect their interests and have provided a free parking lot to care for from 400 to 500 automobiles," Everitt said.

"The one-hour parking law was passed to relieve traffic congestion, caused by the business area, one of the most popular communities in Atlanta. Something should have been done before, but we did not know what to do."

"When concern grew over the regulation, we decided to provide a parking lot, place signs directing patrons to it, and city administration leaders said they would lift the one-hour parking limit. That has been done."

"The plan has worked so well that we now have room for about 800 to 900 cars instead of the 300 to 400 which parked on the streets within a radius of two blocks of the intersection of Glenwood avenue and Flat Shoals road."

"We plan to light the parking lot and to put cinders on it as a further inducement."

"Councilman George B. Lyle and other city officials are co-operating in the undertaking, and we believe it will be a boon to our business interests. The business district extends along Glenwood avenue from Haas to Moreland avenues and along Flat Shoals avenue from Metropolitan to May avenues." Smith predicted that the club, at

JUDY IS A FACTOR IN UNADILLA VOTE

Mayor Who Criticized Her Act 'Ain't Mayor No More.'

By LEE ROGERS.

Judy Canova took the plait out of her hair between shows yesterday and proceeded to give the inside on this "gal from Unadilla" business.

Judy, Brother Zeke and Sister Anne have risen to radio fame and fortune since seven years ago they adopted the town of Unadilla, Ga., as home and popularized it in their hillbilly jokes and mountain music. They opened a week's engagement at the Roxy theater yesterday.

"I oughta wait until the end of the week to tell this, but Unadilla ain't my real home town," said Judy. "Starke, Fla., is. It's just a little place on the other side of the Florida border. Zeke and Anne were born in Lake City."

"Unadilla seemed like a quaint name—and it caught the public's fancy. Everybody seemed to like the idea of our using Unadilla as home except former Mayor Oddie Potts. He kinda thought we were ridiculing his fair city."

"Oddie ain't mayor no more and I've got a motor company named for him down there now—Judy Canova Motor Company. Mr. Ware, the owner, gave me some shares in the company, too."

Sister Anne piped up to remind that the Canovas were Spanish. "And Unadilla in Spanish means one-horse town," she explained.

Gaspin' Scream.

Judy let out a little horrified gasp. When Judy gasps it's more like a scream. "You shouldn't have ought to told him that Anne. We don't want to start another row with those Unadilla people, they've been too swell to us, selling our postcard and souvenirs to tourists down there."

Judy, Anne, Zeke and Pete, the manager, are brothers and sisters. Their real name is Canova. Their father was Spanish, their mother, English. They have been acting since childhood, but didn't go on the stage until they all met one time in New York's Greenwich Village, seven years ago. Their first hillbilly act was presented in the Village Barn. It was a hit, Played Here Before.

About six and a half years ago Judy played in Atlanta at the same theater where she is now performing. That was when the Roxy was known as the Georgia and during the last days of the old Keith's vaudeville circuit. This is a kind of homecoming for her. "We've never lived in Georgia but we've visited relatives here and you know in Georgia a visit to a relative can last a long, long time," she said.

Judy will begin rehearsal for a Broadway show, "Yokel Boy Makes Good," in about six weeks. It is scheduled to open on Broadway in June. She plays next week in Philadelphia. After the Broadway engagement, she hopes to make another movie.

Judy first attained real fame with Paul Whiteman on the radio.

LOCK, DAM PROJECT NOT TO BE OPPOSED

Seaboard Completes Study of Effect on Chattahoochee Properties.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—The Seaboard Air Line Railway Company will not oppose construction of a lock and dam on the Chattahoochee river to make it navigable from Columbus to the sea the year round, it was announced here today by M. A. Calhoun, of Savannah, assistant general freight agent, and T. F. Sharpless of Columbus, district freight and passenger agent of the railway.

When a hearing was held recently on the project before the United States Board of Army Engineers in Washington, a representative of the Seaboard asked the engineers to delay their decision 10 days to enable the railway to make a study of the effect of the improvement upon its property.

That study was completed a few days ago, said Mr. Calhoun, and it was found there was no probability of the improvement damaging Seaboard property, namely three bridges that cross the Chattahoochee below Columbus. The War Department, Mr. Calhoun continued, has been advised by W. D. Faucette, of Norfolk, Va., chief engineer of the railway, that the Seaboard will not oppose the improvement.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

WOMEN who suffer from cramps and pains due to functional irregularities will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription beneficial. It stimulates the appetite and digestion and thus helps to strengthen one, aids in promoting functional regularity, and relieves the discomforts of the menstrual period. Mrs. Daisy Walker, 105 N. 39th St., Birmingham, says: "I used to suffer from irregularity, was awfully nervous, and had cramps and pains and headaches associated with functional disturbance. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped to relieve me of this condition. My appetite improved, I gained strength, and my whole constitution seemed to be stronger." MRS. T. W. PRICE SR. DIES AT AGE OF 70

Funeral To Be Held at Locust Grove Today.

Mrs. T. W. Price Sr., 70, died yesterday morning at the home of a daughter, Miss Florence Price, a teacher at O'Keefe Junior High school, of 432 Langhorne street. A native of Locust Grove, Mrs. Price had been living here only a short time. In addition to her daughter she is survived by four sons, Hugh Price, of Locust Grove, Ernest Price, of Miami; Clarence Price, of Atlanta, and F. W. Price Jr., of Dalton, and three sisters, Mrs. J. A. Brisdine, Mrs. W. H. Gann and Mrs. C. V. Henley. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Locust Grove Baptist church by Dr. B. D. Ragsdale. Burial will be in the Locust Grove cemetery under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

BAPTIST CONFERENCE. NEWNAN, Ga., March 30.—Approximately 150 pastors and laymen from 10 associations in this district will convene at the First Baptist church here next Wednesday for a regional conference. Dr. Clifton C. Thomas, pastor, states Dr. James W. Merritt, secretary of the executive committee, Georgia Baptist Convention, will direct the meeting, and Dr. L. R. Scarborough, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, will head a long list of speakers.
